Saxbe: Hearst shouldn't bow to kidnapers

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (UPI) — More than $1 million in donations has been sent to the family of kidnaped Patricia Hearst to help them meet a terrorist group's ransom demand of $400 million dollars in food for the needy.

But in Washington, U.S. Attorney General William Saxbe said today he would not recommend that the parents comply with the ransom demand of the Symbionese Liberation Army which abducted the 19-year-old girl 10 days ago.

Mrs. Catherine Hearst braved the cold night air Wednesday night to tell reporters outside the family home in this San Francisco suburb that contributions have totaled "over a million dollars."

"This was actual money, not pledges," she said. "It came from all kinds of people—two wonderful people on welfare sent us $70 apiece from each of them.

"It's coming from real people, just people."

Saxbe told a news conference: "I just can't really feel an acquiescence would satisfy these people."

Saxbe stressed that he did not intend his words as advice to the kidnaped coed's father, newspaper publisher Randolph A. Hearst.

"It is pretty hard to advise somebody in that kind of emotional situation," Saxbe said. "I think they (the kidnapers) will be captured but the question is whether the girl will survive."

"I think we could identify most of these people," Saxbe said. "We know some things that I am not at liberty to tell you."

A member of the family said the money received as donations would be kept in a separate bank account and returned to donors if it is not needed.

Six groups whose members could benefit from the proposed plan to distribute $70 worth of food to some 4.7 million poor and needy Californians said Wednesday they could not condone terrorist activity. They said they would be willing to serve as negotiators in the case.

The groups, named in the SLA's latest communication as organizations which could supervise and observe the food distribution scheme, were San Francisco's Glide Memorial Church, the American Indian Movement, the Black Teacher's Caucus, Nairobi College of East Palo Alto, the United Prisoners Union and the National Welfare Rights Organization.

U.S. revises '74 prediction

12% or higher food cost hike?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American consumers, stung by a 16 per cent increase in food prices last year, will probably be hit by an additional increase of 12 per cent or more in 1974, the government predicted today.

Painting a gloomier picture for shoppers than they tentatively outlined several months ago, Agriculture Department economists said supermarket prices in the first quarter of this year are likely to average 20.7 per cent above a year ago and about 5 per cent above the last quarter of 1973.

Prices for practically all types of food will be up this winter because of reduced supplies, higher farm prices, and rising processing and marketing costs, the report said.

The Agriculture Outlook and Situation Board said there was much more uncertainty over prospects beyond the first quarter of the year, depending on how much farmers increase livestock and crop production, how much American food goes abroad and general economic conditions.

The most probable result, the economists said, is a price level for all of 1974 averaging 12 per cent above 1973.

However, the experts cautioned that if farm production turns out "much below" levels indicated by present forecasts and demand proves stronger than expected, prices could average as much as 16 per cent above 1973.

Conversely, the report said, a combination of unexpectedly high production gains and lower than expected foreign and domestic demand could result in the 1974 food price rise averaging about 8 per cent.

Current government forecasts indicate farmers are expected to raise production of wheat and livestock feed grains to new records and harvests would thus exceed predicted demand.

The report said average prices from April through June would likely average 2 to 3 per cent above the first quarter.

After that, the experts said prices should show little or no change from July through September and then probably show "a small decline" in the last quarter.

The report foresaw steady rises in prices through 1974, averaging about 2 per cent to 3 per cent a quarter. For the year as a whole, restaurant prices are expected to rise 12 per cent above 1973, half again as big as the 8 per cent increases last year.

State's gasoline picture brighter

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California will have "enough gasoline for necessary driving" for the rest of 1974 and may not need a voluntary gas rationing plan, a top state energy official has predicted.

"We made it through January and it won't be that much worse later this year," state Energy Coordinator Wesley Bruer testified Wednesday.

"But the public will have to realize the energy crisis is real and discipline themselves," he added. "There will not be enough (gas) to run off to Tijuana every weekend."

Bruer predicted the "Oregon plan" for gas rationing will not be needed in California—unless motorists engage in widescale "panic buying."

The state Energy Planning Council has proposed such a voluntary plan to Gov. Ronald Reagan's cabinet. But Bruer said he expected that the plan will just be refined and put on the shelf "so we're ready to go with it immediately if it becomes necessary."

Bruer testified before the Assmbly Energy Policy Subcommittee, which is looking into the need for an "emergency energy act" granting Reagan new powers to deal with energy shortages.

He said there appeared now to be no need for any sweeping new powers to be granted to Reagan because the severity of the energy crisis is not as great as it was once thought to be.

His remarks were in line with earlier comments by Assemblyman Charles Warren, chairman of the subcommittee and the legislature's top energy expert. When the energy crisis reached its highpoint, Warren, D-Los Angeles, proposed a bill to create a state energy "czar." He now thinks czar-like powers will not be necessary.

Action on the bill is not expected for at least a week.

Bruer told the subcommittee there was virtually no chance the state would adopt a mandatory rationing system. "There would not be enough policemen to enforce it," he said.

He also said August should be the worst month for gasoline supplies in California because of the summer vacation crunch.

Bruer noted there have been rashes of "panic buying" in Santa Clara and San Diego counties, but motorists statewide appear to be limiting their purchases.

"We are monitoring gasoline sales on a daily basis and are particularly concerned about widespread panic buying where everybody tops off his tank," he said.

Clifford Irving now free man

NEW YORK (UPI) — Clifford Irving, mastermind of the Howard Hughes biography hoax, became a free man today after serving one year, five months and 17 days of his 2½-year prison sentence.

The 42-year-old author smiled broadly as he left the Federal Community Treatment Center in midtown Manhattan.

Immediately after his release Irving headed for lower Manhattan to visit his parole officer in Foley Square.

Irving was convicted of conspiring to defraud the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. of $650,000 in claiming that he had a series of interviews with Hughes and had written an authentic biography of him.

Irving's wife, Edith, who earlier served a two-month sentence for her part in the conspiracy, remains in prison in Switzerland on a forgery conviction. She is expected to be released in May with time off from her two-year sentence for good behavior.

Autopsy reveals woman died of blows to head; man also beaten before shot

POMONA — An autopsy performed Wednesday showed that Connie Gail Michael was killed by blows on the head and had not been shot, as had Wayne Douglas Beach, whose body was found with hers here Tuesday morning, authorities said.

Beach, 28, had been killed by a shotgun blast in the chest. But an autopsy performed on his body revealed that he also had been beaten on the head. The time of death has not been determined yet, but is believed to have been about 3:40 a.m.

The victims were found dead at Beach's residence at 1612 S. White Ave., shortly after 9 a.m. Ronnie Willis Michael, 27, told police he made the discovery when he went there to pick up his children for a visit. Michael said divorce proceedings were pending between him and Mrs. Michael.

Five children were found in the house when police arrived and were taken into protective custody. The children ranged from 11 months to 7 years. Three were Mrs. Michael's and two were Beach's. The Beach children's mother lives in El Monte, authorities said.

Wednesday's autopsies were performed at the coroner's office in Los Angeles. Beach's body subsequently was released to Blackman Mortuary here, but Mrs. Michael's had not been released this morning.

Depressed Flowers got 'Lucky' again

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Oh, you're Officer Lucky. I know you," said 23-year-old Joyce Flowers.

But it wasn't just a pleasant, unexpected meeting of two old friends Wednesday night. Officer William Lucky had just fished Miss Flowers from the East River for the second time in less than 3 months, in a suicide try.

Fuel hike due for truckers and airlines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Energy Office today ordered fuel supplies increased to airlines and truckers and proposed that service station owners consider refusing to sell gasoline to motorists who already have half a tankful.

John C. Sawhill, FEO assistant administrator, said refineries were told to increase jet fuel supplies by 6 per cent over last month. The increase will allow the airlines "to continue without seriously curtailing operations," Sawhill said.

Sawhill also said that refineries were ordered "to immediately furnish additional fuel to truck stops." The added supplies were promised independent truckers in an agreement with the government last week but Sawhill said truckers were complaining that the added fuel was not available.

American wheat sales to Arabs to double in '74

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American wheat is flowing to the Middle East at a record pace this year despite Arab-Israeli tensions and the Arab oil embargo, an Agriculture Department official said today.

A trade specialist, John Parker, said wheat sales to the troubled area will more than double in the 1973-74 fiscal year ending June 30, with most of the increases going to Arab countries.

Parker said in an interview that overall sales of U.S. wheat and other grain to the area— including Israel—may reach $800 million in the current year compared with about $415 million in the previous year.

Parker said most of the increase was concentrated in the six months ending in December and many orders apparently were placed before U.S. prices began skyrocketing last summer. But the higher prices posted since then have apparently not deterred buyers in countries enjoying increased oil revenues, he indicated.

Iran, for example, is expected to buy more than $200 million worth of wheat in the current fiscal year compared with $80 million last year. Saudi Arabian purchases are estimated at more than $100 million compared with $35.8 million and Iraq is expected to take over $60 million worth of wheat compared with only $2.6 million in the previous season.

IRS drops boom

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service has lowered the boom on two big corporations for alleged nonpayment of taxes.

United States Gypsum Co., a defendant in a major federal price fixing case, has been dunned by the IRS for more than $20 million in back taxes plus $1 million in penalties for "negligence or intentional disregard" of federal tax law.

Magnavox Co., a leading maker of consumer electronic equipment, owes $1.6 million in unpaid taxes, according to the IRS.

Reagan names ex-Pomonan to state Board of Education

SACRAMENTO — Mrs. Patricia Dunnebeck Ingoglia, 29, a 1961 graduate of Pomona High School, has been appointed to the state Board of Education by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Mrs. Ingoglia, daughter of Robert E. Dunnebeck, formerly of Pomona, is the wife of Sacramento attorney Donald Ingoglia.

For the past seven years she has been employed in the governor's office, first as an assistant in the research department and more recently as assistant to the governor's educational adviser.

PATRICIA INGOGLIA

Mrs. Ingoglia has two sons, Peter and Philip, and is expecting her third child in May. She is a Republican. Her appointment must be confirmed by the Senate. Members of the state Board of Education serve four-year terms and receive necessary travel expenses.

While at Pomona High School, Mrs. Ingoglia was active in student government and at graduation was named Girl Leader of the Class of '61. In 1961 and 1963 she was an entrant in the Miss Pomona contest.

She was employed at Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association following her graduation from Pomona High. She attended Whittier College before transferring to UCLA, where she received a degree in Fine Arts.

At UCLA, Mrs. Ingoglia served as secretary to the Bruin Young Republicans. She was active in student government and made news in 1965 when she was turned away from a Student Union teach-in on Vietnam because she carried a large sign reading: "Let's get the Viet Cong out of California."

She said at the time, "We're afraid that people will think the whole campus is anti-Vietnam."

She was graduated from college in 1966.

Wearing only jeans and a smile, she started picnic for hot, angry crowd

ISLAMORADA KEY, Fla. (UPI) — The 3,000 motorists stranded in the Florida Keys by a truck wreck on an Overseas Highway bridge were getting hot and ill-tempered Wednesday until Dede Bernardo began her topless dance.

When it became obvious it would take several hours to clear the wreckage from the bridge, Dede turned up the radio in a camper van, stepped out into the sun and began dancing, wearing only cutoff jeans and a smile.

After that, the driver of an ice cream truck walked down the long line of cars hawking his goodies and the owners of another camper and a chauffer-driven limousine passed out free drinks from their bars.

A half-dozen beach parties began in the shallow waters and the driver of a bait truck handed out shimp and mullet bait to anyone with a fishing rod.

Several bars and convenience stores in the area did a land-office business in beer and soft drinks and the few motels in this famed sport fishing resort area of the middle keys quickly rented all their rooms.

It took police seven hours to clear the wreckage of the big gas tanker truck from a two-lane bridge.

By that time, Dede Bernardo had a bad sunburn, dozens of people were sporting hangovers, several people who took advantage of the bait man had coolers full of fish and no one seemed terribly upset by the traffic jam.

Police said the accident happened about 11 a.m. when an 8,000-gallon tanker truck driven by Don Adams of Big Pine Key jackknifed and crashed while attempting to pass a car on the bridge on U.S. 1—the only north-south highway link in the Florida Keys.

World leaders denounce expulsion of Russ writer

By United Press International

European government leaders and politicians denounced Wednesday's expulsion of Soviet author Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn.

Great Britain offered the Nobel-Prize-winning author asylum and the Vatican Radio said the Kremlin's act violated the rights of man.

Jerome J. Shestack, chairman of the International league for the Rights of Man, asked U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim to intervene.

The United States, while offering Solzhenitsyn residence, made it clear it could not afford to allow the incident to affect detente between Washington and Moscow.

Stanford University and the Hoover Institution, in California, offered their facilities to the exiled Russian writer.

British Prime Minister Edward Heath offered asylum to Solzhenitsyn. "We have always been especially ready to welcome to our country eminent writers and others who have made major contributions to culture and Mr. Solzhenitsyn would be no exception if he expresses the wish to come to Britain."

"Solzhenitsyn is welcome to reside in the United States," Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said. "The United States has always looked with sympathy and great apprehension at limits on the expression of freedom of thought on all societies."

But he added: "Our concern for detente does not reflect approbation of internal Soviet policy (but) the necessity of detente is produced by the unacceptability of general nuclear war under present circumstances."

Shestack also cabled Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny in Moscow, saying that the writer's arrest and exile "can only increase international tension in view of the symbol of human dignity Solzhenitsyn represents throughout the world."

Waldheim was en route to West Africa, but U.N. sources said he views the affair as an internal Soviet matter over which the United Nations has no jurisdiction.

An invitation from Stanford President Richard Lyman and Hoover Director Glenn Campbell was contained in a telegram to Solzhenitsyn in care of his host in West Germany.

"The libraries and archives of the Hoover Institution and Stanford University will be at your disposal if you should so desire," Lyman and Campbell said. "Should you wish to establish a formal relationship with our university, we are prepared to discuss that possibility with you."

Solzhenitsyn, in his latest book "The Gulag Archipelago 1918-1956," paid tribute to Stanford researcher Julius Epstein of the Hoover Institution for calling American attention to the forced repatriation of two million Russians at the end of World War II.

Swedish Premier Olof Palme said Solzhenitsyn's arrest and expulsion was a "frightening example of brutality and persecution" and that it could complicate efforts towards East-West relaxation.

"This measure from the Soviet Union is still more regrettable as it occurs when both East and West strive for detente and a better exchange of opinions and information across the borders," Palme said.

Vatican Radio said "The world press is denouncing to public opinion today a clamorous violation of the rights of man."

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said in Washington he could not comment on the expulsion, but the U.S. government's "view in regard to human rights is clear."

Wife to join him in exile

MOSCOW (UPI) — The one long day in the life of Natalya Svetlova began with police storming her apartment and arresting her husband, author Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn. It ended 30 hours later when he telephoned saying he was alive and well and in exile in West Germany.

"We intend to follow him, certainly, but when, where—we just dont know," Mrs. Solzhenitsyn, 33, said Wednesday night after their 15-minute conversation. She was red-eyed from crying but obviously greatly relieved.

The call came shortly after the official Tass news agency announced that Solzhenitsyn had ben stripped of his citizenship and expelled. It said his family could join him "when they deem it necessary."

Kissinger names U.S. coordinators

Move to level oil prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger moved quickly to consolidate his gains as the 13-nation Washington energy conference came to an end.

He named two senior officials to a new international coordinating group on oil and said he expects another conference by spring will lead to lower but stable oil prices.

Kissinger also applied verbal balm to the wounds of France, abandoned by its Common Market partners and outvoted 12-1 on every major point of the final communique and action plan adopted by the conference at its closing session Wednesday.

In a news conference late Wednesday Kissinger named Undersecretary of State William H. Donaldson and federal energy chief William E. Simon to lead the U.S. delegation in the new coordinating group. Donaldson, 43, was a New York investment banker before he joined the State Department Nov. 26.

Kissinger said the new coordinating group — minus France — would start work "soon." It will be convened by the United States, but he said he is not wedded to locating it in this country or having an American chairman.

The group, using studies already under way by institutions like the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund in deference to European wishes, will try to assess two basic subjects, he said:

—How to cope with the energy shortage itself.

—How to handle the massive monetary dislocations resulting from a 400 per cent rise in oil prices since last fall.

Kissinger warned it will be several weeks before the 12-nation group knows enough to firmly recommend either another meeting of consumer countries or a joint conference of producers and consumers.

"We do not see that this meeting should lead to a confrontation between the producers and consumers," Kissinger said.

U.S. sources said they simply had no idea what the reaction of the Arab oil producers will be to pressure from the new bloc of consuming countries.

But the attitude of France, which throughout the conference opposed collective action, could be critical to the success of the new bloc, some diplomats said.

If they chose to do so, perhaps to continue currying favor from the Arabs, the French could continue their decisive tactics in common market meetings and elsewhere in an effort to sabotage the results achieved here, the diplomats said.

$4.5 million to finish Bonelli Park approved

The final completion of Bonelli Park is only some 16 months away with the decision Wednesday by county supervisors to spend $4.5 million on recreational improvements to the south shore.

In a related action, supervisors held over for a week discussion of a lease agreement with Billy Casper and David Rainville for the Mountain Meadows Golf Course providing for nearly $2 million in improvements.

The supervisors' approval of spending for the south short will almost complete development of the 2,000-acre park which at this point has cost $20 million.

Other plans call for construction of an equestrian center and a family campground, but this will be done by private concessionaries in lease agreements similar to the golf course arrangement.

Improvements to the south shore will include facilities for hiking, camping, equestrian trail, a sailboat launching area and an information-administrative center. A large portion of the south shore will be in picnic areas.

Seymour Greben, director of parks and recreation for the county, said bids for the south shore will be received by March 13 and work will begin several weeks after that and will take 16 months to complete.

Supervisor Peter Schabarum started plans to use private capital instead of pulbic funds to reconstruct the Mountain Meadows Golf Course when he took office two years ago.

Under the proposed agreement, the tenants would receive a 32-year lease to the property and would pay the county a minimum annual rental of $18,000 along with a percentage of the gross from other operations.

The golf course will be improved with a new clubhouse and a complete new 18-hole golf course. All improvements will be payed for by the tenants.

The lease agreement will mean higher green fees for the golfer. The present nine hole course offers play at $2 on weekends and $1.75 weekdays. Fees would be increased to $3 for weekends and $4 for weekdays when the proposed 18-hole course is completed.

Simon runs out of gas; few days off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Energy chief William E. Simon is taking a vacation from the energy crisis.

Simon, who says he has been working 18 hour days since December, decided to fly to Florida Wednesday by commercial airliner and will return to Washington on Monday, an aide said.

Israel could give up occupied land

CHICAGO (UPI) — Israel's chief negotiator in the Middle East cease fire agreement with Egypt says Israel could grant "quite considerable territorial concessions" without undermining its security.

Gen. Aharon Yariv, former adviser on security matters to Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir, said Wednesday if Israel placed well equipped troops in strategic positions, it could give up large parts of Arab lands occupied since the 1967 Six-Day War. "But the Arabs must first abandon the idea of "annihilating" Israel, he said.

The "wide consensus" in Israel was that land could be surrendered, but opinions differed over how much land, he said.

Actress will run for Parliament

LONDON (UPI) — Actress Vanessa Redgrave announced Wednesday she would run for Parliament as a candidate of the Trotskyite Workers' Revolutionary party in the workingclass East Ham district of London.

"The economic crisis has compelled me to go into the conflict and stand with the people who are being exploited," she said.

Miss Redgrave long has been for left-wing causes taken part in protests against atomic weapons and the Vietnam war.

N.Y. subways not safe, says Javits

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said Wednesday subway riders are "not getting their 35 cents worth" in terms of subway safety, and promised to work for more Federal assistance for the city's ailing transit system.

"I am sufficiently familiar with New York's subway system," the city-born senator said, "...New York City's subway system is not safe enough for people ..."

Second charge filed in Chino death

CHINO — An additional charge of manslaughter has been filed against the 19-year-old driver of a car that ran over and killed a Chino youth Friday night in the Alpha Beta Store parking lot on Central Avenue.

Chino Police Chief Frank Meehan said Wednesday that the manslaughter charge against Donald German, 19, the driver of the car that ran over and killed Arthur Sandoval, 17, of 130 Third St., Chino, was filed with the West Valley deputy district attorney's office after the final autopsy report on the youth's death was delivered to the police department.

Meehan said that the exact cause of death was determined to be "asphyxiation."

Coroner Bill Hill said this morning that the youth's death, according to an autopsy, was caused by "multiple injuries." He described the main contributing cause as "mechanical compression of the neck with subsequent aspyxia as a result of the pressure on the subject being dragged under the vehicle."

Meehan indicated the autopsy report lended credence to several witnesses' reports that the youth was still alive after he was run over by the car. With the coroner's autopsy report and other information and statements made by witnesses the manslaughter charge was filed with the district attorney's office. German has already been charged with felony hit and run and has posted bail on the charge.

Meehan explained that the first report police received from the coroner's office was only preliminary. In that report the main cause of death was listed as multiple injuries suffered by the subject on impact with the car.

Meehan said an examination of the victim's clothing revealed that he was wearing a neck band. Meehan said it was possible that young Sandoval's neck was caught in the undercarriage of the car and the neck band contributed to his strangulation.

Meanwhile all available Chino police officers Wednesday were patrolling the perimeter of Chino High School and the Barrio area southwest of the city.

Police indicated Tuesday that the confrontation between the Mexican-American and Anglo youths Friday just prior to the accident followed an incident at the high school earlier last week. It was reported that tempers flared when the Mexican-American students learned that the side of a building called "the wall," where the youths gather daily, was painted over with the words "Surfer Power."

The slogan on the wall was believed to have been painted by Anglo youths. Since then the slogan has been removed.

Teachers, parents and police worked to keep the campus peaceful Wednesday.

Police reported no incidents on the campus but arrested two youths and an adult just off the campus for possession of illegal weapons. The adult was identified as Larry Allen Brown, 18, of Chino. Police said Brown and the juveniles were arrested after they seized two knives, a blackjack, and a Chinese throwing star from a vehicle on Jefferson Avenue east of 10th Street.

A second incident was reported about 11:20 a.m. when a small group of Mexican-Americans at Via Park on Monte Vista Avenue broke off from a larger gathering and smashed the windows of a small foreign car, occupied by three employes of Freightliner Co.

Two of the three employes, Gilbert Carroll, 24, of Pomona and David Thomas, 24, of Chino, in the car when the windows were smashed, suffered minor head and face lacerations. The two men refused medical treatment. Police arrived at the scene and the gathering of Mexican-American youths disbanded. The small car was towed away.

Beaty denies any promises

LOS ANGELES — Prison inmate Ronald Beaty, cross-examined for the first time, said Wednesday his testimony linking a Palo Alto couple to the murder of a California Institution for Men guard was not given to improve his chances of parole.

"The promises that were made to me were in connection with my plea of guilty," Beaty said. "None of the promises were made in connection with my testimony."

Beaty was serving a term at CIM when he was being transported by a pair of guards on Oct. 6, 1972 to a San Bernardino court appearance.

Four persons, according to witnesses, took part in an ambush of the state car. CIM guard Jesus Sanchez was killed and another wounded on Edison Street near Euclid Avenue.

Beaty was freed by the ambushers but was later recaptured.

He testified that Jean Hobson, 45, and Robert Seabock, 22, both of Palo Alto, took part in the escape attempt. They are both on trial for murder.

Fears demand for equal time

Bishop bans candidate priest from preaching in the pulpit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken Wednesday forbade a Roman Catholic priest from preaching in the pulpit because he is a candidate for the state assembly. The bishop said he fears other candidates might demand equal time.

The Rev. Eugene J. Boyle announced his candidacy last week despite the prelate denying him permission to seek the Democratic nomination for the 16th District.

Archbishop McGucken said he felt politics in the pulpit was divisive and there were enough qualified laymen to work in the political field.

"What we do lack are enough men in the priestly office to give the moral leadership demanded by the times and which is above partisan politics," he said.

Despite the preaching ban, he said Boyle, 52, would "still enjoy all the other faculties granted him as a priest in good standing such as celebrating Mass and hearing confessions."

Father Boyle countered that the archbishop "first tried to prevent me from running" and "now he's trying to cripple my campaign."

The archbishop said: "Were this candidate to expand his preaching faculties in the pulpit to politics, then logic would suggest other candidates... should have the same privilege."

The priest is a longtime ally of Cesar Chavez, the United Farm Workers Union leader, and once permitted the Black Panther Party to use church facilities for their "breakfast-for-children" program.

If elected, Boyle would be the first priest in the legislature.

Koreans will show karate art

UPLAND — A team of 15 Korean children, 6 to 12, black belt holders in the martial art of Takwondo karate, tonight at 7:30 in the Upland High School gym.

The children, a known as the "Korean Little Treasures" are currently on a two-month good will tour of the United States.

Their appearance is being sponsored by the recreation department and John Santiago, an instructor of karate classes for the department.

Santiago will also perform a samurai sword demonstration.

Admission to the performance is $2 for adults; $1.50 for junior high and high school students; $1.25 for elementary school students.

Warning by state superintendent

'Alienation and hostility' in schools

SUNNYVALE (UPI) — State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles warns there are "growing signs of alienation and hostility" between California public schools and their students.

"Entirely too many students reach junior high schools with inadequate skills, with low feelings of self worth, little or no sense of responsibility for learning, and a deep distrust of schools generally," Riles said.

In a speech Wednesday to the Lockheed Bay Area Chapter of the National Management Association, Riles also said high school students "ask why their schools must be run like prisons, why school authorities confuse discipline with punishment."

Teachers, Riles said, "tell me that life in the classrooms grows daily more hazardous. Students are insolent, disruptive and lazy. Instruction is impossible, they say, when students refuse to do assignments, to listen, or to learn the lessons required.

"Underlying all of these complaints are growing signs of alienation and hostility between the school and the student."

Riles also quoted British socio-economist Robert Theobold who said, "training teaches you what someone else wants you to know and education teaches you to think for yourself."

"Is it possible that the problems we are experiencing today are symptoms or rejection of training on the part of the young, of an unheeded plea for education instead of training?" Riles said.

"I think you will agree that we want our schools of tomorrow to be places of education, not places of training," he declared.

Riles said new programs that should accomplish that goal included early childhood education, bilingual-bicultural programs, special education for the gifted and handicapped and the restructuring of junior and senior high schools.

Dr. Teberg is appointed to top post in Pomona health district

POMONA — Dr. Annabel J. Teberg has been appointed as the first chief physician of the Pomona health district by Dr. Martin Finn, acting director of the San Gabriel Valley Health Services Region of the Los Angeles County Department of Health Services.

Dr. Teberg, a pediatrician, succeeds Dr. Herbert Meehan to the health district's top post. He retired last June as district health officer—the position's former title.

Dr. Teberg has served as a consultant on infant and child development to various school districts and child development programs, among them programs at Casa Colina Hospital, the Claremont Colleges Preschool for Multi-handicapped Children, and the Multi-handicapped School Program in Glendora.

She is currently a member of the medical staffs at Pomona Valley Community Hospital, Casa Colina Hospital and the County-USC Medical Center in Los Angeles.

A 1951 graduate of the University of Minnesota Medical School, Dr. Teberg served her internship at County-USC Medical Center and her pediatric residency at the UCLA Medical Center.

In 1963 she assisted in the development of the Premature Follow-up Clinic at the County-USC Medical Center. She is currently associate clinical professor of pediatrics at the USC Medical School.

One of her goals in her new position, said Dr. Teberg, will be the involvement of the USC Medical School in the Pomona health district.

There are two health centers in the Pomona district, one in Pomona and the other in West Covina.

School board meets Friday on tax issue

POMONA — A special meeting of the Pomona school board has been called for Friday at 6:45 a.m. to consider scheduling a tax override election.

Supt. Robert E. Wentz said that only the amount deducted from the tax rate this year through Senate Bill 90 would be asked.

The money is needed, he said, to increase salaries for district employes, to provide transportation to get the ninth graders to the high schools, and to improve programs, specifically band and music programs.

Feb. 19 is the deadline for filing a statement of election intent with the county. The election would be held with the primary on June 4.

Senate Bill 90, passed in 1972, is an attempt by the legislature to place a larger share of education finance at the state level. Last year Pomona taxpayers received a 94 cent tax reduction per $100 assessed valuation through this legislation.

This year it is anticipated the reduction may be somewhere between 60 cents and 80 cents. Senate Bill 90 provides for tax reductions for three years.

Citizen complains of drainage problem

By LANGE WINCKLER
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Only one item on the City Council's agenda Wednesday night could not be called "routine" — and that item was put off until mid-March. However, a property owner alleging negligence and insensitive treatment by the city over a problem brought an unscheduled departure from the normal.

With Councilman William Cotten sending his regrets from Wake Island (he's on the Pacific atoll for private business) the remaining council members agreed to hold off discussion of a report on the uses of Winnett Ranch as a community park. At the suggestion of Councilman William Wentworth, the matter was tabled until March 13, so that "a new council elected March 5 can take this up."

Cotten has been the principal councilman working on the project, with members of the city Parks and Recreation Commission and a private consulting engineer.

Mrs. John Robertson opened council business with a sharp complaint about storm drainage from the Larwin Co. Walnut Tempo housing development on Bourdet Street. "I don't need to remind you fellows of the big blunder you made on our street," she said, "What are you going to do about that drainage?"

She and her husband, who live at 361 Bourdet St., sent a letter to the council Nov. 14, 1973, protesting grading plans for the tract. At that time City Engineer Noel Christianson stated review of the tract map indicated no runoff problems would occur. He was instructed by the council to send a letter to the Robertsons explaining his review.

That letter was pointedly mentioned by Mrs. Robertson, saying that nothing has been done to correct storm drainage from the elevated tract site onto her adjoining property. She charged that the construction company is not meeting the terms and conditions of its tract approval and that recent rains had deposited debris on her land and on Bourdet Street.

"We could no more sell our lot than we could rise and fly," Mrs. Roberson declared.

Christianson replied that he has not found any evidence of such damage and repeated his contention the grading plans would handle any problem. He added that he had been in touch with Larwin Co. engineers and was assured adequate drainage ditching had been completed.

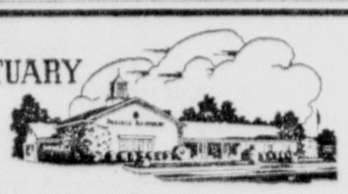

However, he agreed to inspect the site again, and, should the developer not be meeting requirements, seek to make the firm comply.

It took the council a very short time to dispose of remaining business, pausing only about four minutes to approve on second reading imposition of a rural overlay zone to West Walnut. The zone takes effect in 30 days.

Chill hits valley area; sun to shine

Many Pomona Valley residents had to scrape the ice off their car windshields this morning as winds died down and a nippy chill hit some areas.

Temperatures slipped to the low 30s and possibly lower in the coldest areas of the valley, usually Chino and La Verne.

Tonight's low of 38 degrees will be followed Friday by fair weather conditions that should prevail throughout the weekend.

Forecasters at the U.S. National Weather Service said fair weather is unusual for the month of February which is often the wettest month of the entire year. There has beem no rainfal in Pomona Valley since Jan. 21.

Judge seeks to set aside Nixon ruling

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — An Orange County supervisor is seeking a writ of mandate to set aside an appeals board ruling that President Nixon's estate in San Clemente is worth $1.37 million.

In a lawsuit filed in Orange County Superior Court, Robert Battin charged that the ruling was "capricious, arbitrary, illegal" and well below the fair market value of the 26-acre blufftop home.

Last December, Battin received a hearing by an assessment appeals board on his contention that the Nixon property actually was worth $2 million and that the President had been receiving a tax break from the Orange County assessor's office.

The three-man board ruled, however, that the assessment was proper.

In a 14-page petition to the court, Battin used a financial statement issued by the White House last Dec. 8 to show that the President himself valued the property at $1.8 million.

Happy Valentine Day

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — There was an increase in the number of persons seeking divorces during the first three-quarters of 1973 while the rush to the altar declined, state officials say.

Figures released Wednesday by the state's Vital Statistics Section showed that divorce and separation complaints increased by 6,745 from January through September, compared to the same period in 1972.

At the same time, the department reported, those applying for marriage licenses during the same period numbered 131,642, a decrease of 4,900 compared to the previous year.

During the period, 84,780 Californians received their final decrees from judges, while 116,995 women and men filed complaints, including 111,841 for outright dissolutions, 2,801 for annulments and 2,353 for legal separations.

The increase in divorce or separation complaints filed in the first three quarters of 1973 was the largest single increase since the state adopted its liberal Family Law Act in 1970. The law removed the bitterness and sideshow" effect of divorce by eliminating fault.

The figures for last year showed a slight increase in the number of legal separations, but the number of annulments decreased to 2,801 from 3,038.

A spokesman for the statistics unit said the trend of greater divorces and fewer marriages could change when the final quarter figures are compiled later. But he added that over the years the increases and decreases for the first nine months hold true for the entire year.

Ontario gets branch of coroner's office

ONTARIO — San Bernardino County Supervisor Daniel D. Mikesell has announced that the county coroner's office will establish a branch office in the West Valley District Court building here.

Former West End Sheriff's deputies Javier Castro and Nelson P. Alexander were appointed this week to positions of resident deputy coroners who will be working out of the West Valley office.

County Coroner Bill Hill said that the appointments of Castro and Alexander bring his office staff to 12 and that they will soon be moving into a new office in the courts building south of the sheriff's sub-station.

Last week Castro, a deputy sheriff for 13 years, and Alexander, an eight-year veteran deputy sheriff, resigned their positions with the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Office to become deputy coroners after being selected for the new position from 38 applicants.

Mikesell said that within the next 60 to 90 days the offices of the county assessor, the veterans office, agriculture office and safety office will be moved from the south wing of the courts building to make room for the new branch coroners office and expansion of the public defender and deputy district attorney's offices.

Mikesell said the county wants to lease a vacant office building in the 300 block of E. B Street in Ontario for the four county offices being moved.

Mikesell indicated that within the next three years the law and justice facilities, presently at Sixth Street and Mountain Avenue will most likely be expanded.

SHOP MONDAY THROUGH SATURDAY 9:30 AM TO 9:30 PM...SUNDAY 10:00 AM TO 6 PM...JUST SAY "CHARGE IT"

IN THE FLOWER OF OLD AGE — Zachariah D. Blackistone, works on floral arrangement in his Washington florist shop where he arrives every morning at 5:30. He'll be 103 years old on Saturday.

Florist near 103rd birthday; far from wilting

By AL SWANSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — What do you ask an almost 103 year old florist who is missing his nap because of you and is not over enthusiastic at the prospect of being interviewed anyway?

Maybe you ask him about flowers.

Q: Zack, do you think being a florist has contributed to your longevity?

A: "I think so. It's given me a versatile life. Everyday a florist has something new to do. No matter how experienced he is, the flowers are always new."

Zachariah D. Blackistone gets up every morning at 5:30, makes his own breakfast (he drinks buttermilk) and jogs 200 yards before leaving for work. He's been doing it for years and the only thing that makes the routine worth mentioning is that Zack, affectionately called "Mr. B" by his employes, will be 103 years old Saturday.

Blackistone sat facing me, a wrinkled silver-haired old gentleman not looking a day over 95. The only unusual thing about him were his sunglasses (which he never took off) and a small white carnation on the lapel of his rumpled tweed jacket. "It's a baby carnation," he said, "I wear one every day."

We talked about flowers, old people long in their graves and current events (things that Zack said he really didn't try to keep up with too much anymore).

He said he became a florist apprentice at age 20 and seven years later opened his own shop Nov. 1, 1898.

"I sold my first bunch of flowers to a guy who worked for the Treasury Department," Zack said. "He paid 75 cents for a bunch of roses —they were pearl of the garden roses."

It's amazing what a man remembers. Citizen Kane remembered "rosebud" —Zack remembers flowers.

He has three children, all living. But he couldn't remember how old they were. His son, Zack Jr., owns his own flower shop in nearby Bethesda, Md. Charlotte, an employe for 24 years, told me Zack Jr. had to be in his 80's.

As the interview went on, Zack complained more about missing his nap. He takes one twice a day, 15 minutes in the morning and 15 minutes after lunch.

He said he sold flowers to Teddy Roosevelt (strictly business) but knew his daughter Alice Longworth Roosevelt. "Before she was married she used to frequent the store quite often."

I told him it was Mrs. Longworth's 90th birthday.

"Ninety, is that all?" he asked. "I have to send her some flowers."

Nicotine may cause heart attacks

Don't have to be smoker to 'inhale'

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — University of Tennessee researchers reported Tuesday that even nonsmokers pick up enough nicotine to activate clotting components of their blood and that some heart attacks in smokers may be caused by nicotine absorbed by the blood.

Dr. Ted P. McDonald, associate professor at the UT Memorial Research Center, reported on a three-year study of the effects of nicotine on blood platelets, which are primarily responsible for blood clotting.

"In three years of research we have found that very, very low levels of nicotine increase blood platelet activity," McDonald said. "As platelets become more active, they begin to clump. If they become overactive thrombosis or blood clots can develop."

"Based on the data from our studies, nicotine could well be the causative agent of some heart attacks, especially in smokers,' he said.

McDonald and his associate, Marshall E. Reese Jr., made a study of laboratory rats, trying to find the least amount of smoke the body can tolerate without affecting the blood coagulation mechanism.

He said that they found platelet activity increases from 10 to 15 per cent in animals that are exposed to the smoke of eight cigarettes per day for 10 days. Animals exposed to 16 cigarettes per day over the same period showed even higher platelet activity.

Florida crocodile carted off to reserve

Houdini foiled in disappearing act

LAKEWORTH, Fla. (UPI) — Houdini the elusive and shrewd 12-foot crocodile usually lives up to his name, but Tuesday he was literally fit to be tied.

The wily 500-plus pounder who has caused headache after headache for police, game officials, and a private tourist attraction, Tuesday was snared by a game commission hook and carted off for what authorities hope will be a happy retirement in the Everglades Swamps.

"Houdini," who some estimate at well over 100 years old, seemed to know all the tricks in the book.

He was captured Jan. 17 in a swampy construction site near Vero Beach where he scared bulldozer operators and construction men. The croc chased a boy on a bicycle and then started after game warden Lt. Neil Branch.

It took six men helf the afternoon to lasso Houdini and they carried him to Lion Country Safari, the tourist game preserve near West Palm Beach.

Enroute the crocodile started to work his jaws free of heavy tape around his mouth and almost got free.

Two days later he shimmied up a vertical six-foot wall around the pool, either over or under a three-foot chain link fence used to keep spectators back, and slithered into a lake.

For the next three weeks nervous park officials watched their chimps, camels, birds, and human visitors, and tried unsuccessfuily to recapture the reptile.

Lt. Branch said, "he's just extra smart," and when nets were placed across the lake "he'd come right up to the net and turn away.

"We used a boat that put out an electric shock that usually stuns alligators, but it didn't seem to bother the crocodile. Then we put bait on a small wooden peg tied to a buoy, hoping he'd swallow the bait and drag the buoy so we could tell where he was. But he wouldn't touch the bait."

Tuesday Houdino let his guard down and when he cruised up a narrow part of the lake close to shore the game commissioner was waiting with his rope and snatch hook.

"He's just not fit to be around people," Branch said.

Crocodiles are native to Florida, although the population in modern times has been decimated by development of swampy areas along the coast where the crocs prefer to live. Houdini was found in such an area when bulldozers moved in on it.

DST gives U.S.-Canadian borderline towns bad time

By JANET CAWLEY

ROCK ISLAND, Que.-DERBY LINE, Vt. (UPI) — Step off the curb and you can lose or gain an hour. Cross the street, and you're in a foreign land.

For years, the 1,500 residents of Rock Island and the 800 of Derby Line have coped with the quirky aspects of having an international boundary run through their lives

In the Opera House, for example, the audience sits in the United States and the players perform on stage in Canada. The frontier runs through the middle of the building.

Residents of one country work, shop, attend church or even bingo games across the border. Some families live in homes straddling the border.

The easy interchangeability of lifestyles was caught by time last month when the United States switched to daylight saving time to conserve energy, but Canada kept its clocks on standard time.

"Problems? You better believe it," said Mrs. Susie Huckins, a resident of the United States who works as a switchboard operator on the Canadian side of the Butterfield plant, the area's main industry.

"At first I was coming in at nine o'clock American time, which was eight Canadian and leaving at five Canadian—that's six American.

"But if I wanted to have my hair done, for example, that's in Quebec so I'd go there at five Canadian time but I wouldn't get home till seven thirty or eight American.

"I'm going nuts. I'll be so glad when it's over."

The Butterfield plant is in one building but is run as separate Canadian and American entities. Each side negotiates separate contracts with respective labor union locals. Flags of both nations fly over the plant.

Vice president and general manager Mel VanSickle said the company has a special arrangement with governments of both countries to allow free movement within the plant.

"And for the computer room, which literally straddles the border, we've made special arrangements with both governments for transporting documents back and forth," he said.

For Mrs. Adelaide Prangley, the town librarian, the setup is far less formal since she crosses the border countless times each day.

The Haskell Free Library was designed to lie half in one country and half in the other so residents of both could use it and the Opera House upstairs. The front door is in the United States but the clock and the phone are in Canada.

"When I bought the furnace for the building," she said. "I bought it in the States but only one third of it was actually going to sit in Canada so I only had to pay duty on that part."

Straightening out the citizenship of children born in the area can also be a problem. If a Canadian gives birth in Vermont the child technically has dual citizenship.

"My son, who was born in Vermont, renounced his American citizenship so he wouldn't have to register for the draft there," Mrs. Prangey said.

"We thought then he would simply be a Canadian, but the Canadian government said he had to apply for citizenship papers. So for a while there, he really didn't have a country."

Chronic coughing may be a warning

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hacking, anyone?

Chronic coughing may be a possible warning of coming cancer or emphysema, says the Health Insurance Institute. Coughing is nature's way of getting irritants out of the nose, sinus, trachea and bronchi linings. At the same time it represents a clear warning of trouble if it persists for more than a week. If you hack that long, says the Health Insurance Institute, better see a doctor—whether you feel ill or not.

Secret Servicemen on Palm Springs trip with Agnew?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A California congressman said Wednesday that a dozen or more Secret Service agents had accompanied former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew on a new vacation trip to the West Coast.

"This is an outrageous act," Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., said in a House speech.

Columnist Maxine Cheshire said in the Washington Post that Agnew left Tuesday to attend an 80th birthday party for comedian Jack Benny at the Palm Springs estate of Frank Sinatra.

The Secret Service would not comment on Agnew's travel but said it would provide him with protection "for a reasonable period of time."

Moss said Agnew left Washington Tuesday night "with a force of 12 to 21 Secret Service agents bound for Los Angeles and there on to Palm Springs for an eight day vacation and possible writing period."

Agnew, who pleaded no contest to a charge of income tax evasion Oct. 10 and resigned as vice president, is presently writing his first novel, a portion of which will appear in Ladies Home Journal.

"This practice is an affront to every taxpaying American," Moss said.

An aide to Moss said such a trip would cost the taxpayers about $12,000 assuming it was made aboard a commercial airline.

Moss said Comptroller General Elmer Staats told him that protection for Agnew from the time he resigned the vice presidency until Dec. 15 cost $90,000. Staats reported to Moss earlier that President Nixon requested the Secret Service protection continue for Agnew for a time.

Moss said he was told the Secret Service would reveal how many agents accompanied Agnew on the trip only if the California congressman would keep the information secret. Moss said he refused.

Agnew is an old friend of Sinatra's and has visited his Palm Springs home several times. Sinatra has planned the birthday party for Benny this weekend with a number of the comedian's close friends invited. Benny turns 80 on Thursday.

Benny turning 80, but in age only

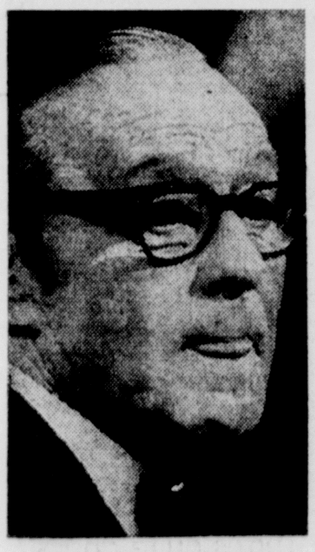

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jack Benny will celebrate his 80th birthday this week when Frank Sinatra hosts a party for him in Palm Springs.

The comedian contemplated the celebration with mixed feelings. Clearly he did not relish turning 80—two years older than his pal George Burns. But he was looking forward to the Sinatra clambake.

Benny sat in his Beverly Hills office puffing contentedly on a cigar. He was dressed in expensive blue slacks, sports shirt and highly polished shoes. Whenever possible he directed the conversation to his activities and away from his age.

For a man who told national radio and television audiences he was 39 years old for 40 years, Jack took no notice that he more than doubled those years.

JACK BENNY

Benny's mind is keen, his memory unfailing. He walks more than three miles to his office every day. His weight is 145 pounds, lighter than he has been for many years.

"I don't eat very much so I don't have to worry about getting fat," he said. "I have a highball before dinner at night with Mary. Other than that I don't drink.

"I play golf as often as I can. And the caddy who gets me is lucky. He rides in the cart and I do all the walking. Best thing in the world for me.

"Most nights I go to bed early unless we go to somebody's house to see a movie. I'm usually in bed by 9 o'clock and fall asleep watching TV."

Benny has his own projection room but seldom uses it. His home is a large mansion surrounded by manicured gardens, set well back from the street in Holmby Hills, a fashionable enclave of the wealthy tucked between Beverly Hills and Bel-Air.

He wears his wealth unostentatiously. He wears his years lightly.

"I've made more than 500 appearances on television, counting my own shows and guest shots," he said with a note of pride. "I can still remember the exact date of my first radio job.

"It was May 10, 1932. I'll never forget it. If you asked me any other date I couldn't tell you. I remember my opening line of my first show: "Good evening ladies and gentlemen, this is Jack Benny—I will now pause while everybody says, 'Who cares?!'"

As it turned out, millions cared, and still do.

Jack Benny recently starred in the television special "Jack Benny's Second Farewell Appearance." His first won the highest ratings he'd ever received. He plans a third, fourth and as many other farewells as he can.

But through the years the comedian has given higher priority to his violin concerts with symphony orchestras for which "I don't get paid a dime."

He reckons he has saved dozens of such orchestras in the United States from bankruptcy. "I should practice the fiddle more. But I do take two lessons a week and I try to practice two hours a day.

"Actually, I'm playing better than ever now. I love the violin and it's a great form of entertainment for me because I can play and talk at the same time. People come to the concerts out of curiosity. They hear the best violinists in the world, so I can't play too lousy.

"Isaac Stern, my closest friend in the music world, tells people, 'Jack plays the violin well enough for his purposes.' But I'm proud to say no critic has ever panned my playing.

"I love getting into white tie and tails and walking out in front of a 90-piece orchestra. It's the greatest feeling in the world. At every concert I get a lot of laughs, but I'm also playing the very best I can."

Jack, who enjoys good health and good friends, has no plans to retire. His youthful outlook forbids even mentioning the word retirement.

The doctor comments

Diet very important to pregnant woman

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB— I am three-and-a-half months pregnant and on a diet. I am 5 feet 2 and weight 141 pounds. The only thing missing from my diet is fat (oil, buter, margarine). I was 146 pounds before I started this diet.

My doctor keeps telling me I am going to gain weight and those that do lose are starving themselves and it can be harmful to the baby. My question is will something be wrong with my baby if I leave out fats in my diet?

DEAR READER — If there are not enough nutrients available it is true that a baby may not develop optimally. Diet is important during pregnancy. Adequate vitamins, minerals, and protein are essential. If there are not enough calories, available proteins are apt to be used for nergy rather than being available to build those important new body structures.

You need only a small amount of polyunsaturated fat in your diet. If you eat fish and chicken at all you would be getting some I doubt that your diet is completely devoid of fat. There is some fat even in fruit and more in many vegetables. Corn oil, for example, comes from corn. Cereal contains polyunsaturated fat.

Your height, weight measurements suggest to me that you were on the plump side before getting pregnant. If your calorie intake is low, you will be using some of these fat stores for calories. So, you do have more protection against calorie deficieicy than a woman who is lean would have. However, you shouldn't overdo it. I don't think a pregnancy is the time to begin a weight losing diet, unless your medical condition indicates that it is necessary.

If you must limit your intake be sure and get plenty of good quality protein of the type found in milk, meats, fish and poultry.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please advise where it is best for a man to live who has had a heart attack, followed two years later by a stroke. Should he live in a warm climate or in a cold climate?

DEAR READER — If climate were the only consideration, I would recommend a warm, but not hot, climate. The first consideration should be, though, where you can get good medical attention and have the support of family, friends, and relatives. Being able to enjoy life is part of staying in good health longer. Much of most people's enjoyment comes from who they enjoy it with. So, I don't always recommend picking up your life possessions and changing your location.

In your case I know from your letter that you live in a relatively good climate, and the community has good medical facilities. Since you are already there, I'd stay there, unless there are other important considerations to moving north.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb in care of The Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on balanced diet, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Balanced Diet" booklet.

Jacoby's bid eases force

By Oswald & James Jacoby

One feature of the Jacoby two notrump is that the bid is unlimited in strength.

Today's slam might be bid by almost anyone. It also might not, as may be seen from the fact that when it was played in a regional master's pairs only about half the field got there.

South has a normal, sound spade opening and rebids three notrump to show it. He would have bid three spades with a slightly better hand; four spades with a worse one.

North, with 16 high-card points and very good trumps, felt that his hand warranted a mild slam try even though he knew that his partner held no singleton and did not have a very good hand. He also knew that a four heart cue bid risked nothing since South could still sign off at four spades.

South felt that his hand was good enough to go past game. It seemed to him that five spades would be perfectly safe, so he bid five clubs as a cue bid beyond game. This was enough for north. He went right to the laydown slam.

Note that neither partner used Blackwood. North had two small clubs; South two small diamonds and you should avoid Blackwood when you have a glaring weakness in an unbid suit.

Russia attracts West Germans

BIELEFELD, Germany (UPI) — West Germans not only consider the Soviet Union the most important trading partner among all East European countries, but also rate Russia their number one tourist attraction.

A survey conducted by the Emnid Institute for Sociology said 55 per cent of those questioned considered Russia West Germany's top trading partner. Twenty-two per cent said they wanted to spend their holidays in Russia if they had a choice of East European nations.

Neutering a female always more costly

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: When I had my cat, Big George, fixed up a couple of years ago, the price was fairly reasonable. Just last week I had M.A. (Mary Anne) fixed up the same way and the price was four times as much. Now I know doctors' prices vary but this was the same doctor. You couldn't blame that kind of an increase on inflation, either. I am plenty burned up about it. —T.A.

Dear T.A.: If you have not already done so, you should discuss the "surgical shock" problem with your veterinarian, for there really is a difference in the surgery required to deactivate B.G. and, that for M.A. The standard neutering procedure for the male cat does not require abdominal surgery. With the female, however, abdominal surgery is essential, for there is no other way to locate and remove the ovaries and uterus neatly tucked away in there. Incidentally, the ovario-hysterectomy can vary in price, too.

The variable factors include the age and condition of the cat as well as the status of her uterus which can be swollen from the estrus, pregnancy, or even possibly, infection.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Blacky has always barked his fool head off and there was no way to stop him. Solution? A dog magazine recommended Blacky have a second dog to keep him company. That's what we did. Got Brownie. Now Brownie is a year old and what do we have? We have two dogs barking their fool heads off. We need a better suggestion, but it had better not be to get a third dog! — D.B.

Dear D.B.: It's possible to teach an old dog new tricks. It is also possible for an old dog to teach a new dog, especially a young one, old tricks. Certainly Blacky was more likely to teach Brownie than the other way around. At this point it is up to you to teach both of them that most of the time, at least, silence s golden. Training would include spending a lot of time with them to provide other outlets for their energy. The only attention they should receive when they're barking is reprimands. Leave no doubt of your disapproval.

More smokers are lighting up, but they consume less

By CRAIG A. PALMER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Exactly 10 years since the surgeon general issued the first government report warning of smoking hazards, statistics showed Thursday that total consumption of cigarettes has increased although the average smoker is consuming less.

The National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health figures indicated that the total number of cigarettes smoked in the United States has gone up from 523.9 billion in 1963 to 583 billion last year.

But, the clearinghouse said, the increase is related to population growth and per capita consumption is down from 4,345 cigarettes a year per smoker in 1963 to 4,130 last year.

A spokesman added that if the trend of the 1950s had continued, there would be 70 million or more smokers today instead of the estimated 52 million. He noted that a smoker is defined as a person who has smoked at least 100 cigerattes and was smoking at the time he was surveyed.

The first report, issued by then-Surgeon General Luther L. Terry, Jan 11, 1963, warned that cigarette smoking "is a health hazard of sufficient importance in the United States to warrent appropriate remedial action."

Now seen by supporters and critics alike as a benchmark in public health, it also said that people were dying of cigarette smoking.

Although the now-vacant office of the surgeon general no longer is responsible for them, six followup smoking and health reports have been issued by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare since 1964 summarizing new evidence that links cigarettes with disease and death. An eighth report is in the works.

Cigarette advertising has been banned from radio and television; many public and private offices have signs advising their clientele not to smoke; segregation of smokers is increasing in public transportation and cigarette packages now carry a note: "Warning: The surgeon general has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health."

The latest report one year ago confirmed the 1964 conclusions that cigarette smoking was not the only major cause of lung cancer and chronic bronchitis but was associated with illness and death from chronic bronchopulmonary disease, cardiovascular disease and other diseases.

Horace R. Kornegay, president of the industry's Tobacco Institute, describes the original surgeon general's report as "much more a beginning than an end in the smoking-health controversy."

"As we look now at more recent findings with respect to such influence on health as environment and pollution, sex and race differences, geography and genetics, it becomes obvious that the research which lies ahead will be much more significant than what has already been done," he said.

Woman fatally stabs husband

LYNWOOD (UPI) — A woman fatally stabbed her husband with a butcher knife in front of their children when he apparently refused to get her an early morning snack.

Clutching his bleeding neck, Clinton R. Coleman, 37, staggered to the front steps of their house and died. Police booked the wife, Ethel, on suspicion of murder.

No lie, a free pie

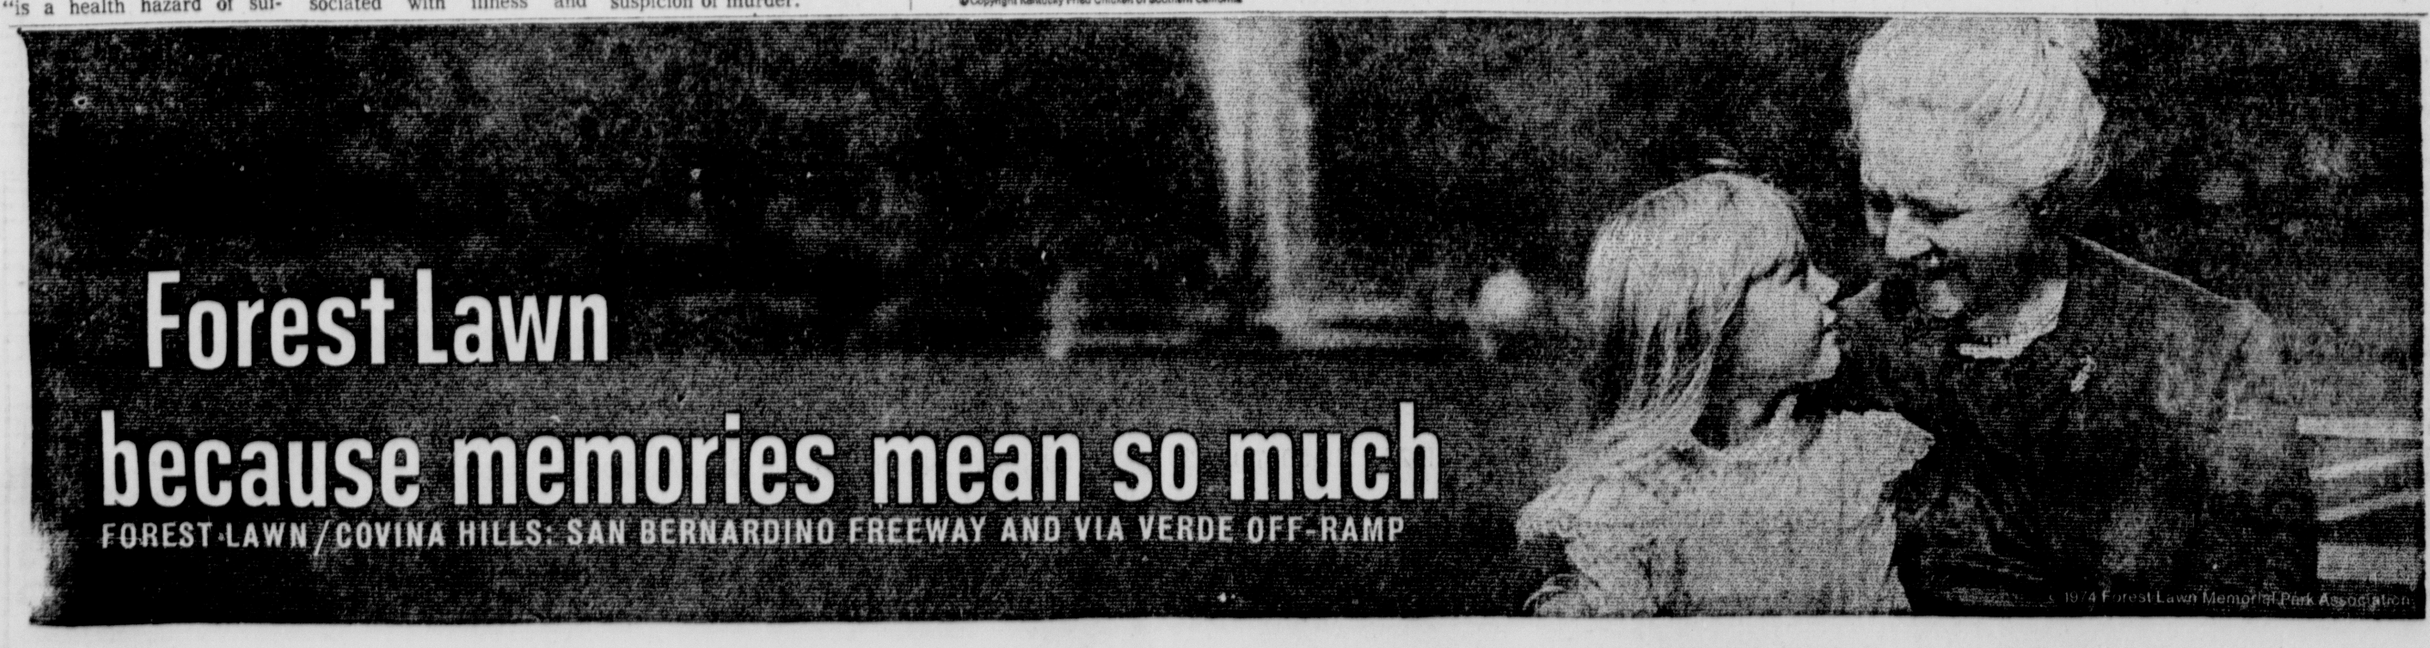

A free cherry pie for Washington's Birthday. Just what your constitution needs. Our lattice-topped pie's big enough to serve six. And each sweet slice is packed with the plumpest, juiciest cherries we could find. You get one pie free with every bucket or barrel of juicy, golden brown Kentucky Fried Chicken. That's quite an armload to carry home, but think how lucky you are George didn't get caught chopping down a watermelon tree.

City planners perplexed by warehouse proposals

By L.T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

POMONA — The City Council may be asked to decide if the community is becoming over-saturated with mini-warehouses.

It was handed that task Wednesday night when the Pomona Planning Commission voted 3-3 on a request for a use permit to allow a 726 unit development at 2735 N. Towne Ave. The matter failed to pass.

The proposal was opposed by the builder of another mini-warehouse project on the basis that there may be an over supply.

The Saf-T-Storage Co. seeks to construct seven buildings with 95,000 square feet of floor space on 4.66 acres zoned for industrial park (I P).

Such a facility could store household items which overflow from closets and garages, officials said. It would also provide needed storage space for future developments in the industrial area.

In a feasibility report, the market research firm of Herbert L. Aist and Associates forecast a total demand potential of 2,500 storage units for the Pomona Valley, stretching from Diamond Bar to Ontario. The consultants also predicted a spillover potential for 800 to 900 more units from outlying areas.

"The development of new events occurring in the home buying market will add fuel to the potential for marketing mini-warehouse facilities," said Aist.

"Spurred by high mortgage interest rates, the rising cadence of home prices, and indecision on the political and economic front, home buyers have been deferring their purchase. They are holding steady in their current residence or choosing some form of interim housing (condominiums or rental apartments).

"With the prospect of remaining in their current cramped quarters or moving to smaller interim housing, many households will be in need of additionel space requirements," he noted.

James Baker, an attorney representing the applicant, said the firm proposed to invest about $2 million on the development. Under the existing tax rate, it would contribute from $25,000 to $30,000 a year to the city.

"The firm is ready to proceed with construction as soon as possible. If approval is given, it is conceivable this would be the first mini-warehouse in the city," he added.

Jack Donner, official of the E-Z Storage Co., and Gene Axelrod, the firm's attorney, presented facts and a map to support their argument that the area may be becoming oversaturated with these projects.

The proposed project, they noted, is only a half-mile from their site. Grading is under way now and a building permit will soon be issued for 468 units, said Axelrod. He compared the influx of mini-warehouses with the city's excess number of service stations and billboards.

Donner displayed a map of the Pomona Valley showing locations of 13 mini-warehouses now built, approved or proposed.

Should all these be constructed, they would have about 5,000 storage units, said Axelrod. "It is possible to saturate an area and create an adverse effect on the market. The mini-warehouses are now the fad."

Noting the Planning Commission has had applications for three such projects within the past several months, he said the city does not want overbuilding such as done with the service stations.

Baker, however, said he believed in free enterprise and competition.

In commission discussion, Planner Stan Kawa proposed the use permit be approved and then a one-year moratorium be placed on any future projects.

"This would be the third such development within the city," he said. "We may have reached our limit." Kawa, however, said he didn't believe there would be any problem by having the two projects a half mile apart.

Planner Clyde Stephens said he didn't want to approve the application. "I want to hold this over or ask the applicant to reapply after we see the reaction to the mini-warehouses."

Planner J. Romo said he wanted to talk to a warehouse owner and determine the vacancy factor. "We have no survey on the needs of warehouses units per population."

His motion to deny the request, however, was based on the land use rather than the warehouse complex. He preferred that the I P zoned property be reserved for the city's best industrial development.

The commission had recently voted against a determination that mini-warehouses were a permitted use in the I P zones. "I still believe this area has a good potential," said Romo. "I don't believe in having a warehouse at this location."

Planners voting against the warehouse were John Nabarrette, Romo and Stephens. Those favoring the use permit were Chairman Bob Vlietstra, Kawa and Anne Gustaveson.

Mex-Am aide for area appointed by Schabarum

POMONA — Supervisor Peter F. Schabarum has placed a new representative in an office here to meet with Mexican-American residents and deal with their concerns.

The staff member is deputy Salvador A. Reza. He may be contacted each Friday between 10 a.m. and noon in Room 702 of the Superior Courts building at 300 W. Mission Blvd.

Reza, who has been with Schabarum a year, said he wanted people to come in and let him know of their problems which relate to county services.

"This is the best way to handle problems, before they get into the crisis stage," said Reza. "Many times we are able to offer solutions to problems before they get out of hand."

Reza said, too, he wanted to build a closer relationship between the Mexican-American groups in the First District, which Schabarum represents on the county Board of Supervisors, and Schabarum and his staff. "We need input from the communities into Schabarum's office," he explained.

Reza said that during the past year he had gone from city to city and group to group within the First District, primarily at the request of organizations, to listen to problems facing Mexican-Americans and suggest solutions.

He said it was at the request of various organizations within the district that he was being assigned an office and definite hours.

SALVADOR A. REZA

Joe Covell of Walnut, a long-time senior deputy with Schabarum, may be reached at the same office on Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to noon.

Veysey is opening two district offices

POMONA — Rep. Victor V. Veysey will open 35th Congressional District offices in Pomona and Covina Friday to offer a full range of services to residents of the new district.

The Pomona office will be located in Room 222 of the Home Savings and Loan Building at 100 Pomona Mall West. The telephone number is 620-1911.

The Covina office will be located at 274 Rowland Ave. The telephone number is 213 966-1611.

Dan Hollingsworth will be Veysey's field representative in the Pomona office. Gene Agnes will hold the same position in the Covina office.

Mary Riley will be the district coordinator for the congressman.

The 35th District includes the cities of Pomona, Walnut, San Dimas, La Verne, Claremont, Ontario, Chino, Montclair, Upland, Cucamonga, Covina, West Covina and the unincorporated communites of Charter Oak, Alta Loma, Lytle Creek and Wrightwood.

The congressman, who is the incumbent in the June 4 primary, will be honored Saturday at 8 p.m. at a fund-raising party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Myers of Covina. Tickets are $5 per person. Information about the party may be obtained by calling 623-4363.

Veysey took out nomination papers Monday from the Los Angeles County Registrar of Voters. His supporters are now circulating the petitions to obtain the required voter signatures. Nomination papers will also be filled with the San Bernardino County Registrar of Voters.

For first trimester

Honor roll at Palomares Junior High

POMONA — Names of students at Palomares Junior High School who received honors in scholarship for the first trimester's work were reported by Principal Leonard Duff.

Palomares' honor roll is based on a point system. An A equals four points, a B three, a C two, a D one and an F nothing.

Those with straight A's earned 24 points. They were awarded high honors. They are Sandra Bowman, Joyce Brown and Laughlin McKinnon in the ninth grade; Darrell Keepers, John Mangrich, Mark Quan, Susanne Sutherland and Nathan Rainbow, in the eighth grade; and Harold Abrams, Rebecca Bowman and Dionisia Diaz in the seventh grade.

The honor students, those who earned between 21 and 23 points, are, by grade:

—NINTH: Steven Andrews, Denise Bailey, Paula Boettcher, Carney Carral, Valeerie Carroll, Roger Castellano, Cheryl Castleberg, Robin Calbaugh, Stephanie Cortez, Raisa Ferrer, William Fisher, Lynn Gelling, Cheryl Goldshine, Monique Gregoire, Linda Hedr- Anita Teresa Jackson, Sally Jan- Trini McGee, Christopher North- nee Odom, Priscilla Osborne, s Roccapalumbo, Teresa Serpe, Shepherd, Charles Shimada, Valldree Thalley and William Warren.

—EIGHTH: Tanisha Andrews, Terrie Armstrong, Kimberly Daniels, Eric Ford, Kiril Kundurasieff, Janet Linton, Jacquelin Paulson, Roland Salvato, Carolyn Sims, Donald Swart, Debra Taylor, Robert Taylor, Tamara Thomas, Nathan Thompson and Charles Wilcots

—SEVENTH: Edward Allen, Joelyn Beyke, Karen Bishop, Suzanne Carpenter, Gloria Hallman, Kimberly Johnson, Katherine Jorge, Vicki Lindsey, Kathleen Mangrich, Chari Marcucci, Dave Munro, Alica Quijas, Andrew Rey, Suxanne Rubidoux, Maria Solana, Mara Thim, Robin Thompson, Corinne Tieken, Elizabeth Vinatieri, Murray Wentz and Jerrie White.

Those who earned 18 to 20 points and received honorable mention were:

—NINTH GRADE: Twyla Byrd, Mark Carpenter, John Castanien, Mary Clark, Anthony Cunningham, Karen Daniels, Dawn Darensbourg, Debrann Dominguez, Robert Durocher, Camelo Ferreri, Betty Goff, Keith Greene, Barbara Gustaveson, Sharon Harris, Mary Hart, Marcia Heed, Christine Jans, Tod Jochem, Kevin Johnson, Michael Keegan.

LIVING MEMORIAL TO ALLISON TEACHER

Three students at Allison Elementary School in Pomona, Lupe Gonzalez, kneeling, Ron Stires, standing left, and Tegra Hill, standing center, watch as Lee M. Reed, right, participates in tree-planting ceremony. Second from right is Mrs. Barbara Reed. Tree was planted in memory of teacher Maurice Stewart, nephew of the Reeds, who died last summer while on leave studying for a doctorate.

Memorial tree planted

School pays tribute to dead teacher

POMONA — A tall evergreen grows today on the Allison schoolgrounds, a living memorial to teacher Maurice Stewart who died last summer leaving many friends at the elementary school.

It was planted following a 20-minute memorial service Wednesday attended by approximately 400 boys and girls, the faculty, some administrators and four members of Mr. Stewart's family.

Family members were an uncle and aunt, Lee M. and Barbara Reed of Pasadena, and two cousins, Denise and Valerie Howard.

Special education teacher Donna C. Stevenson was in charge of the service. She began by reading a poem entitled "The Golden Chain of Friendship." The chorus, directed by sixth-grade teacher Pauline S. Button, sang "Let There Be Peace On Earth."

Five girls who were in Mr. Stewart's room told what they remembered of him.

"He taught me to write better," said Karen Anselmi. "He was one of the best teachers I ever had," said Toni Brakke. Pamela Breach said "He helped me with all my problems."

"He was kind to us all the time," remembered Margarita Davila. Denise Sledge said "He taught me new math concepts. I will remember him as a friend."

Principal Jack W. Henkle read a telegram from Mr. Stewart's family. School secretary Mary I. Weiss presented Mrs. Reed an arrangement of red rose buds.

Reed, an attorney with offices in Pasadena and Los Angeles, told the boys and girls, "We appreciate what you and your teachers have done in memory of Mr. Stewart. I know one of his most honest wishes would be to see you do your best, study hard and stay in school."

Mr. Stewart, 29, died July 11, 1973, following a sudden illness. He was on leave from the district studying towards a doctorate. He held a B.A. degree from La Verne College and an M.A. degree from Azusa-Pacific College.

In 1967-68, Mr. Stewart taught third and sixth grade at Harrison Elementary School. In 1968-69 he taught in Los Angeles. He returned to Pomona in September of 1969 to teach at Roosevelt Elementary School.

The following year he joined the Allison school faculty. He taught fifth grade there in 1970-71 and 1971-72.

The children and faculty at Allison donated $60 to buy the tree. Mrs. Stevenson coordinated the service and the tree planting.

Claremont planning July 4 celebration

CLAREMONT — Organizations, neighborhood groups and residents are invited to participate in the 1974 Claremont Fourth of July celebration and to send representatives to the committee meeting tonight at 8 at Memorial Park building.

The theme of the 1974 celebration will be country and western. The grand marshal, the slogan of the holiday parade, and the community activities will be discussed at the meeting.

Committee officials said that they feel the celebration best exemplifies the community spirit of Claremont.

For the first time advance ticket sales will be conducted for the after-dark fireworks show.

A whiskerino contest will be held this year, beginning March 1, with contestants registering at local barbershops. Five different types of beards may be grown in the competition.

More information on the celebration, the food or game booths, or the parade may be obtained by phoning Ron Hagan at 624-4531, Ext. 274.

Valley briefs

School information officer will speak

POMONA — Douglas A. Robertson, community information officer for the Pomona Unified School District, will speak at a Pomona Community Coordinating Council luncheon meeting Monday at Sir George's Restaurant.

His subject will be "Mini Efforts—Maxi Results."

Cost of the luncheon is $2.50. Reservations may be made by calling Sara Kavich at 622-1269 by Friday.

New belly-dancing classes under way

POMONA — New belly-dancing classes, sponsored by the city's parks and recreation department, are under way at Ganesha Park Community Center.

Beginners' classes are being held Thursdays at 6:30 p.m. and intermediates meet at 8.

The fee is $9 for the nine-week class, and registration is still being accepted.

Center will conduct stenoscript classes

INDUSTRY — Women interested in improving their stenographic skills are enrolling in an ABC Stenoscript class taught at Valley Vocational Center each Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. by Mrs. Marilyn Winegar of Hacienda Heights.

The class is designed to teach students how to write phonetically with minimum use of symbols. Mrs. Wingar said students should achieve a speed of 80 words per minute in one semester.

Free, on-campus child care is provided.

Author will be honored at Gingerbread Sociable

POMONA — The Pomona Public Library will hold its annual Gingerbread Sociable on Friday to commemorate the birthday of Laura Ingalls Wilder, the late American author.

The event, for which there is no admission charge, is open to the general public. This year, no formal invitations are being sent out and persons planning to attend are asked to make reservations by calling 620-2017.

This year's program will include a slide presentation by James Macon of Huntington Beach and a square dance demonstration by the Convairiety Steppers.

Hot cider and gingerbread baked according to the late author's original recipe will be served by the Friends of the Pomona Library. The program will begin at 7 p.m.

The children's room of the Pomona Library was dedicated to Laura Ingalls Wilder in 1950 and contains the most extensive collection of Wilder memorabilia outside the author's home town of Mansfield, Mo.

Oakmont to honor woman who fought voting barrier

CLAREMONT — Students at Oakmont Elementary School Friday will celebrate the 100th anniversary of a day a woman was found guilty of illegally voting in a presidential election.

Feb. 15 is Susan B. Anthony Day, and Oakmont students will honor the women's suffragist, George Washington, and Abraham Lincoln at a special program.

Principal Dorothy Bromage, the only woman principal in the Claremont School District, noted that Wilson Riles, state superintendent of public instruction, has urged celebration of Susan B. Anthony Day to direct attention to the development of the political and economic status of women in the United States through Miss Anthony's efforts.

Miss Anthony, who died in 1906 at 86, led the fight for women's suffrage. She was found guilty Feb. 15, 1874 of "illegal voting in the 1872 presidential election."

Oakmont students are studying stamps commemorating Miss Anthony, and are working on library research papers on Miss Anthony, author George Sand, Clara Barton, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Harry Beecher Stowe, Julia Ward Howe, Emma Lazarus, who wrote the poem found on the pedestal of the Statue of Liberty, and Emelia Bloomer, who didn't like the cumbersome clothing women wore in the 1800s, and became famous for her "Turkish pantaloons" called bloomers.

Instead of Valentine cards, the students have made Happy Susan cards.

YAMAHA music school for children 4 to 8 years old, is now enrolling for February classes. Children are taught to: read & play music, play by ear, sing in harmony, create exciting rhythms, write songs. For further information call: The MUSIC EDUCATION CENTER — 622-8110.

Another crime against nature

The controversy over the trans-Alaska oil pipeline never lacked for headlines. A similar battle of even longer duration over a U.S. Corps of Engineers plan to build a dam in Missouri's Meramec River basin has gone relatively unreported around the country.

On the drawing board since the late 1930s and finally authorized in 1966, the $93-million dam would be situated about 75 miles southwest of St. Louis.

A 1,000-page environmental impact study prepared by the Corps holds that the benefits of the dam would include not only water recreation and economic opportunity for the area, but a water supply to meet the future needs of metropolitan St. Louis and supplemental stream flow during dry spells.

Ecologists and conservationists claim that the dam would flood some 50 miles of free-flowing streams and 12,600 acres of largely wild woodland inhabited by already endangered species of animals, as well as submerge about 100 caves. The Meramec Valley has the highest known cave density of any river system in the world.

One of them is Onondaga Cave, whose owner, Lester B. Dill, calls the proposed project "a crime against Mother Nature" worse than anything even perpetrated by the Jesse James gang, which reportedly used to hide out in the area.

The St. Louis Coalition for the Environment and other groups challenge the recreational value of the lake that would be created by the dam, and also question whether the federal government should spend money to foster motorboating in view of the energy crisis. The Ozark Chapter of the ever-alert Sierra Club has filed suit in U.S. District Court to block the project.

The Corps of Engineers has locked horns not only with the environmentalists but with the U.S. Department of the Interior as well which also is against the project, claiming that the government could purchase the entire flood plain downstream from the dam for half what the dam would cost.

Few Americans will ever set foot in Alaska's wilderness, and the ecological disturbances caused by the pipeline will be minimal and will be vastly offset by its economic benefits.

Many thousands of Americans visit the scenic Meramec Valley every year, yet somehow the fight for its preservation has captured little national attention.

Education lights their dark paths

Time was when few intellectually-gifted blind students were able to realize their full academic potential. Some works were available in Braille, but scarcely enough to prepare a student for a career, and the learning process was extremely slow.

With the advent of Recordings for the Blind, Inc., a number of years ago, however, every career became a possibility for the dedicated blind student. And instead of having to attend special schools for the handicapped, blind students began graduating with honors from such prestigious schools as Harvard, Princeton, Columbia and M.I.T.

The list of noted blind alumni includes lawyers, authors, a computer systems designer and one of the nation's top research mathematicians.

Today, almost all of the 3,500 blind students in accredited American colleges are purusing academic careers with the aid of RFB recordings taped by reading volunteers, some of them famous. By 1976, the organization anticipates a demand for 140,000 books on tape — twice the number circulated in the 1972-73 academic year.

It costs about $2 million annually to run Recordings for the Blind, whose tapes are made available to blind students without charge. Of this, some $1.5 million is raised through traditional philanthropic channels and the rest by voluntary personnel in the 27 recording cities where RFB has facilities.

With so many youths today forfeiting a college education, voluntarily or involuntarily because of money or other reasons, it is impressive to find one group scaling possibly the most difficult hurdle of all to achieve a degree.

Nature's revolt

When Australia adopted the metric system a few years ago, the changeover was not without its unexpected pitfalls. For example, one irate letter writer complained to an editor:

"Since eggs went metric they have been pale in yolk color and lacking in freshness. This clearly shows that (chickens) cannot adjust to laying different-size eggs.

"We tamper with nature at our peril."

Thought for today

Officials fear more airport terror

WASHINGTON — When Britain threw tanks around London's Heathrow airport to protect Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, word leaked out that Arab terrorists had planned to kill him in order to abort Middle East peace efforts. But the leaks told only a fraction of the story.

Now, a warning to the House Commerce Committee by Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., and a "need-to-know-only" CIA alert to the White House and other agencies, explain the Kissinger danger and harbinger new troubles for the great world air terminals.

A few days ago, Murphy spoke in confidence with Federal Aviation Administration special agents who insisted a "Heathrow-type" incident had actually been planned in the United States. With the agents' consent, Murphy took the matter to his chairman, Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W. Va.

"Intelligence (the FAA agents) have received indicates that terrorists in the United States have plans to park an automobile at the end of the runway of a major U.S. airport and 'fire one of these rockets right up the tailpipe of a 747 as it takes off,'" Murphy relayed to Staggers in a long private note.

"These rockets," as it turns out, were precisely the same kind of SA-7 "Strella" shoulder-fired missiles that had alarmed the British into their extraordinary precautions at Heathrow.

As we have now discovered, the CIA and its British counterparts had learned from informants that Arab terrorists planned to station a car at the end of a Heathrow runway and zoom a lightweight, but lethal rocket up the jet pipe of Kissinger's plane.

The purpose, of course, was to wreck the modest Israeli-Egypt agreement then being worked out by the peripatetic secretary of state. This would create the kind of whirlwind in the Middle East that the terrorists reap so well.

As soon as the CIA picked up the intelligence, it worked with other agencies, particularly the FAA, to get out all-points warnings that Strellas were in Arab hands.

"It is probable," began the cautionary wire sent on an internal circuit to the White House situation room, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the FBI, the Secret Service and the State Department, "that the Fedayeen possess . . . Soviet SA-7 (Strella) ground to air missiles."

Some of the 30-pound weapons had already been "found by Italian Police in possession of Fedayeen terrorists near Rome's international airport (on) 5 September," the wire went on.

"In view of demonstrated capability of Fedayeen to operate worldwide, (this) information . . . is being furnished by United States government on a confidential and need-to-know basis . . ."

The FAA retransmitted the information to foreign security officials, foreign airlines and the U.S. Air Transport Association. In a careful technical evaluation of the Strella's danger, the message said the weapon had been developed by the Soviets as an infantryman's missile against aircraft flying below 10,000 feet.

The FAA-CIA warning told how two men, one carrying a launcher, the other lugging an extra round, can set up, fire and escape in less than a minute. "Preparing the missile to fire, acquiring the target and firing the missile requires 10 to 20 seconds," said the wire. "The person launching the missile may then leave the area."

Little care is needed in aiming. The missile has a heat-seeking infrared homing system that draws the rocket to heat as surely as iron filings are drawn to a magnet. The system works at ranges up to almost three miles, permitting the terrorists to waylay the plane hundreds of yards from the airport, particularly when the jet makes a slow climb.

The confidential message only hinted at an added threat of Strellas in the hands of reckless and unconscionable terrorists. If the rocket misses the tailpipe of a plane, it "might be diverted by alternate sources of heat." This means that it could plunge down the smokestack of a school, a factory or any other building nearby.

"At this point, there are no known countermeasures for these missiles which are both inexpensive and highly effective," warned the message. And, increasingly, the Strellas are being matched by other nations producing antiaircraft rocket weapons for their infantrymen.

The American warning, coupled with intelligence gathered by West German, Dutch, Belgian and British security networks, has led to a drastic change in protection around major air termnials.

"While the British display was played up in the press," Murphy wrote, "it is not generally known that the original deployment of mass military forces to deter missile bearing terrorists occurred at Brussels Airport when the Belgian government learned of the presence of Palestinian Arabs passing through the facility.

"Belgian intelligence justified the mass alert on the basis of information that the Arabs had in their possession Soviet SA-7 shoulder-launched surface-to-air launchers and missiles."

As a result of the international scare, U.S. troops and German security men with submachine guns are guarding the Frankfurt airport and "patrolling flight paths in armored vehicles some distance from the airport," Murphy said. Troops are also on guard at the Amsterdam airport, believed to be a major target of the terrorists "because of (the Netherlands') political support of Israel."

What can be done about this new deadly breed of weapons in the hands of terrorists who have already shown that innocence and even infancy is no protection against sudden murder?

The CIA and American air security experts recommend a limit on slow climbs and descents and on low flights "over areas difficult to surveil. Local security forces may reduce the threats . . . by securing the area (for about three miles) each side of . . . the approach, takeoff and climbout areas of active runways . . ."

If there is an advance warning, the aircraft under attack can "jettison flares to attract the heat-seeking missiles." This, of course, could mean the rockets will then mindlessly find a new target if they miss both plane and flares.

While Murphy and others have introduced bills to bolster security at U.S. airports, experts we have talked with say the solution must be political, not technical.

New legislation would help, say these experts, but until the Arab lands refuse hospitality to mass murderers, there is no protection but prayer, good luck or staying away from airports.

FOOTNOTE: Palestinian and other Arab terrorists have been relatively inactive in the United States. The unsolved murder of an Israeli embassy official in a Washington suburb last year, however, is believed to have been perpetrated by terrorists.

Diabetes neither simple or hopeless

If I were a medical scientist and if I saw "incurable" patients responding to an experimental treatment, I'm not sure I could keep my cool. However, shouting the word "cure" prematurely would discredit the shouter and diminish respect for his profession.

So those of us who are privy to preliminary findings, to interim reports on tedious years'-long experiments, even when we are certain that miracle remedies are emerging, must bite our lips and bide our time.

But would it hurt for me to say to our nation's hundreds of thousands of diabetics to hang in there? At the mouth of the mine, some very determined men are struggling to get through to you.

The American Diabetes Assn. affirms that diabetes is the No. 5 cause of death in the United States. It is the leading cause of blindness. It disables 600,000 Americans each year by progressively destroying blood vessels, leading to kidney failure, blindness and amputation of extremities due to irreversibly poor circulation.

There are 10 million diabetics in the United States and 3 million of them are children. Life expectancy after onset of the disease is 25 to 30 years.

Diabetes is by far the most common long-term childhood illness.

Yet the average American is inclined to dismiss diabetes with "Isn't it nice that it's so easily controlled with insulin?" Diabetes is neither that simple — nor hopeless. The well-controlled adult diabetic can lead an active, normal life, is likely to be absent less than the nondiabetic.

Diabetic research is at this moment on the brink of several major breakthroughs. Within two months I hope to report on one highly encouraging one.

Meanwhile, there is help for diabetics presently available. Lilly has a product called "single-peak insulin" which is more pure, less productive of allergic reactions.

Dr. Max Ellenberg, president of the American Diabetes Assn., expects much from a new artificial sensor — a device equipped with electrodes the size of a postage stamp which can be placed under the skin to measure minimal changes in blood sugar, thus to maintain more precise control, thus to decrease long-term complications.

Another promising research development involves implanting in the pancreas beta cells taken from the pancreas of a nondiabetic. Though this transplant has worked successfully in lab animals at the University of Minnesota, human testing may be five years away.

It is unfortunate that what is numerically our nation's No. 1 health problem receives only 1.6 per cent of the research allotment from the National Institutes of Health.

Nonetheless, Dr. Howard Traisman, head of the diabetic clinic at Children's Memorial Hospital, Chicago, expects great improvement in the clinical management of diabetics within 5 to 10 years. Hang in there!

Gossip for today

One of the fortunate things we have going for us in the United States is a lot of willing folks who are coming up with some splendid new ideas to help solve the energy crisis.

In the San Fernando Valley, landfill gasses are being used to generate enough electricity to light 350 homes. In Los Angeles the Department of Water and Power is getting 200 kilowatts of electricity from garbage gas. So who knows? Before the crisis is over, cities may even be paying home owners for the privilege of hauling away garbage.

An inventor has perfected a pedestrian-power harness which makes it possible for joggers to generate enough electricity to power a flashlight or a small radio.

But among all the ideas that indicate just how dedicated people have become in a time of national emergency is the one advanced by a housewife who suggests that we should boycott ice cream unless it is made in a hand c r a n k e d freezer. And that of another well meaning lady who has turned off the light in her refrigerator.

BRUCE BIOSSAT

One man's freedom burdens another

In these days when some new freedoms are being exalted to such extremes that they become in fact blatant license, nothing is more deceptive or misleading than the notion encapsuled in this utterance:

"So long as what I do doesn't hurt anybody else, what I do and how I treat my own body is strictly my business."

That sounds marvelously reasonable, but the blunt fact is that in some areas of life it is the purest bunk. It is also grossly short-sighted and narrowly self-serving.

Let's look at the thing in a couple of places where individual irritation over government-imposed mandatory limitations run fairly high: state laws compelling motorcycle drivers and riders to wear safety helmets, and the feature of 1974 model automobiles which blocks the starting of a car until the front seat belts are fastened.

By sheer chance of timing, my comment coincides closely with another Washington observer's report taking exactly the opposite tack from me. He winds up saying that whether he leaves his seat belt unfastened or his helmet in the closet simply isn't the government's business.

Oh yes it is. To begin with, "What happens to his own body" in case of a serious vehicle accident may, if major personal injury or death is the consequence, affect insurance rates which make impact upon all citizens and by that fact become a proper concern of government agencies regulating insurance.

Yet the matter runs much deeper than that. Automobile fatalities per year run 50,000 to 55,000. But injuries, many permanently disabling, run to the millions. In ratio terms, it's the same with motorcycle accidents.

Every one of such injuries which requires hospitalization and could have been prevented by use of safety equipment can be labled as unnecessarily, indeed recklessly wasteful of valuable hospital bed space in an era of overcrowding.

If hospital and medical costs are privately borne, family resources may be drawn down sharply, affecting the well-being of others, not just "one's own body."

Furthermore, government, especially at the federal level under frequently liberalized provisions of the Social Security law, has taken on a heavy burden of care for the disabled and, where they exist, their dependents. Thousands upon thousands of Americans who felt what they did about their personal safety was "their own business" are now wards of the state, whose care costs every taxpayer more.

In the 1972 law revisions, Medicare was widened for the first time to cover disabled beneficiaries under 65 who had been getting Social Security payments for at least two years. Coverage, at more cost: some two million Americans. How many are unnecessary vehicle accident victims?

Further, earlier law said a wife of a disabled worker could get benefits if, among other conditions, she was caring for a child disabled before age 18. It was changed to read before 22. Why? I'm advised the change, costly to government and taxpayer, was made to cover disability from motorcycle injuries, mostly severe head wounds suffered through failure to wear helmets (home in the closet).

Then there's drug use. One's own business what one puts in his body? Hospital's are unreasonably jammed with drug cases, drug addicts in many instances qualify for "disability" payments, governments spend heavily on rehabilitation programs. And addicts add to the hidden tax of crime.

The core idea justifying such behavior as warranted freedom is arrant nonsense and a colossal fiction.

Australian farm family comes to L.V. to live

LA VERNE — Recently arrived to live in La Verne is the Phil Kniesley family from Australia.

For the past 10 years, Kniesley has been a part of a group of farmers who went from the McFarland area, upon the request of the Australian government, to develop raw desert land into a prosperous cotton growing valley. It was Kniesley's plan to stay for five years but he stayed for 10 years and saw the transformation of an area into a productive farming community.

The McFarland farmers took along a cotton gin and the farm equipment necessary for such a big operation. Some of them are remaining there and will become citizens, Kniesley reported. He decided to leave farming and return with his family to the United States. They chose La Verne because they have friends and relatives here and they wanted to get their children in school here.

Mrs. Kniesley is the stepdaughter of Jess Smeltzer. Her grandparents were Mr. and Mrs. Will Neher, former longtime residents of La Verne.

Frank Diaz back in restaurant business

LA VERNE — Frank Diaz has opened the Acapulco Inn in his building at 1530 White Ave.

Diaz, the original builder and manager of the restaurant, has for ten years leased the building to other persons. He has now returned it to its original style as a family Mexican food restaurant.

Last obstacle is removed for S.D. parking district

SAN DIMAS — The last obstacle in the way of the construction of a vehicle parking district lot south of Bonita Avenue has been removed.

The City Council Monday night agreed to the purchase of about an acre of land needed for the project for $97,500. The land was sold to the city by Manly Weitz of Ranchers Oil Co.

In an earlier action, the council purchased the adjacent Santa Fe property. A portion of the land purchased from Santa Fe will be used for the parking District.

The total purchase price of $77,000 also includes the old Santa Fe depot, which is used by the Chamber of Commerce for an office, and Rhoades Park. The city already owned a portion of the one-half-acre park and now will retain full rights to the entire park.

Frank Basile, director of public works, said the city will recover some of the costs of the purchase of the Reitz property. He said some of the land, including a 75-foot frontage on Bonita Avenue, is subject to resale.

"This will cut acquisition costs a great deal," Basile said.

Basile said Lampman and Associates have the design for the more than 100-parking-space lot about 50 per cent completed. He expects that bids on the project will be received in April and work will get under way in late May or June.

He said improvements will cost $100,000. The parking district will be paid for partly by adjacent property owners and from funds from the downtown Redevelopment Agency.

The downtown merchants are in total support of the project which has been tagged a priority item for the redevelopment of the downtown.

In other action Monday, the City Council debated for some time what to do about a vandalized house at 101 E. Foothill Blvd.

Richard Kumer, superintendent of building and safety for the city, said that all 60 windows in the vacant house had been broken and that the structure was filled with glass.

He said window frames and doors have been torn out and the porcelain fixtures have been torn out and thrown down the stairs.

"Holes have been punched in the walls and in many places are covered with obscene graffiti." Humer said, adding that the structure is a perfect example of the extreme vandalism that prevails in vacant housing.

Kumer said he felt the house is "beyond rehabilitation."

He said the building is dangerous because it is open and because of the borken glass and the nonpalatable water.

Dan Curran representing Apartment Managers Inc., of San Diego, owners of the property, appealed to the City Council to give an extension of 30 days to the hearing on the property.

Curran said the owners had filed a crime report with the sheriff's department regarding the vandalism of the property. e said the sheriff's department feels that the damage is an "adult damage" and not the work of youngsters. He said company engineers state that there is no structural damage.

Mayor James Lough said it is immaterial who did the damage to the house. He said the city shares some resopnsibility if someone is injured. He and other councilmen urged that the house be immediately boarded up but finally granted a 30-day extension on the hearing.

Curran said the house is valued at $50,000 but that vandals had caused from $5,000 to $10,000 damage. He said the owner planned to restore the property and rent it.

Talk on gulls set

CLAREMONT — Dr. George L. Hunt, assistant professor of population and environmental biology at UC Irvine, will present an illustrated lecture on "The Nesting Biology of Sea Gulls" tonight at 7:30 in Room 108 of Seaver Laboratory, Claremont Colleges.

ELIZABETH DOWELL

Bank promotes L.V. woman

LA VERNE — Elizabeth Dowell, a La Verne resident, has been promoted to assistant manager for loans of the South Pasadena Bank of America, regional Vice President William H. Baughn announced.

Mrs. Dowell, who has been employed at the bank since 1958, advances to the post after two years as a lending officer at the Monrovia office.

Joining the bank as a clerk in Redlands, Mrs. Dowell was promoted to officer rank in 1964 when assigned to credit duties at Monrovia. She served a year as assistant manager for loans of the San Marino office before returning to Monrovia in 1972.

L.V. wants nominations for citizen of the year

LA VERNE — Although the annual dinner of the Chamber of Commerce is several months away, residents and organizations are being alerted now to begin thinking about persons they would like to nominate for the Citizen of the Year Award

Through this means the community honors persons who have made contributions of time and talent.

The nominating papers should include as much as possible about the person, his background and service in detail. Although only one person is chosen each year a file is kept of all nominations for future consideration.

The nominations should be turned in to the chamber office, 2078 Bonita Ave., in the care of president Robert Harris, by May 15. The selection of the honoree is kept a secret until the annual dinner.

Solzhenitsyn a difficult man, even friends agree

By United Press International

Alexander Isayevich Solzhenitsyn was once hailed in the Soviet media as a brilliant writer and "a new Tolstoy."

But that accolade in 1962, following publication of his first novel, was short-lived. Now he is branded a traitor and a renegade — a characterization more typical of the official Soviet attitude toward him throughout his stormy career.

Even his friends say that Solzhenitsyn can be a difficult man. He has broken off some old friendships because of personal disagreement, and he is a somewhat solitary figure— a dissident who seldom has identified himself with the struggle of other Soviet dissidents.

But there is another side to Solzhenitsyn.

During a recent interview, he scooped up his blond son Yermolai, 3, and had him recite a rhyme. The tagline was about a dagger in the ribs and he ticked the boy's side until he burst into laughter.

Always stern or brooding when he is photographed, Solzhenitsyn in private smiles easily and is solicitious of visitors.

His physical presence is imposing: A chestnut-hued, Lincolnesque beard wreaths his face, and he has the barrel chested physique of a bricklayer, which he used to be in a Stalinist prison camp.

Born Dec. 11, 1918 in the northern Caucasus town of Kislovodks, Solzhenitsyn was an ardent Communist in his youth. But he began to have doubts about the ideology and the system during the Stalin purges of the 1930s.

His troubles with the regime began during World War II.

When the war started, Solzhenitsyn first served as a driver of horse-drawn vehicles but later transferred to an artillery company with which he fought on the front line for three years.

He was a captain when arrested in February 1945. The arrest came after censors found disrespectful remarks about the late Russian Dictator Josef V. Stalin in some of his letters.

He served in several correctional work camps and prisons, all the while gathering detail which became familiar to readers in "One Day In the Life of Ivan Denisovich" and "The First Circle."

A. I. SOLZHENITSYN

In 1953, he began three years in internal exile. He developed a cancerous tumor and almost died but was cured a year later by a clinic in Tashkent. The experience provided material for his "Cancer Ward."

In exile, Solzhenitsyn wrote secretly.

Rehabilitated after Stalin's death, Solzhenitsyn, at the age of 42, decided to emerge. He offered "One Day" to Alexander Tvardovsky, the liberal editor of Novy Mir magazine. With then-Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's approval, the magazine published the work.

Several novellas followed but within two years, the political climate changed and he was out of favor. The KGB secret police hounded him and confiscated some of his manuscripts. "First Circle" and "Cancer Ward" were published abroad.

In 1969 he was expelled from the writers union. A year later he was awarded the Nobel Prize. He did not go to Stockholm to accept it, fearing he would not be permitted to return.

"August 1914" the first part of a three-part history of World War I, was published in the West in 1972.

"The Gulag Archipelago, 1918-1956," Solzhenitsyn's account of terror in the Stalinist prison camps, was published in Paris Dec. 28. It prompted a six-week press campaign which culminated with Tuesday's arrest.

"No one can prevent the truth from spreading, and to advance it I am ready to accept even death," he told the writers union in 1967.

In a rare interview last summer the bearded author told Western newsmen that he had received death threats and said the KGB was responsible.

He promised that his death would not stop his works and that his "literary testament" would then automatically go into effect. His plans changed when the KGB confiscated a manuscript copy of "Gulag" from a Leningrad woman last fall. She later committed suicide.

He then decided to go ahead with immediate publication of the work.

In his last interview with Western newsmen three weeks ago, Solzhenitsyn said: "My family and I are ready for anything. I have fulfulled my duty to those who have died and this gives me calm and relief."

Solzhenitsyn won a lengthy legal battle last year to divorce his first wife, Natalya. He then married the mother of his three sons, also named Natalya. His first marriage produced two children.

Womans voice probably saved officer's life

LONDON (UPI) — Police said Monday Constable Graham McClarty probably owes his life to a housewife who sprang to his rescue during a bank holdup and sent a gunman to flight with her voice.

They said the gunman held McClarty at gunpoint outside the bank in the Lambeth district to cover the escape of his accomplices.

But he fled when the woman ran toward him and shouted, "Don't you shoot our policeman," a spokesman said. They withheld the woman's identity but the spokesman said, "It was a very brave thing for her to do. Her action may have saved the policeman's life."

FIRST QUALITY COMPLETE BRAKE JOB! $15.95

BELIEVE THIS & YOU'LL BELIEVE ANYTHING!

ART FLAKE

Sweet-talking brake ads, like the one above, are meant to get you into the store . . . not to sell you the $15.95 job.

Go to get that brake job and you'll find, most of the time, that it's practically nailed to the floor and is unavailable for installaton on your car.

How could this job be available for any car? At today's prices of labor and material, ads like this one are nothing but "BAIT" ADVERTISING, and we at F & H TIRE COMPANY have done OK WITHOUT it.

Our brake jobs are of the FINEST MATERIAL available and are installed by 1ST CLASS EXPERIENCED MECHANICS. Jack Moore heads these mechanics with a total of 21 years with the F & H TIRE CO. and is Quality Control Manager for our brake and alignment departments.

Yes, a tire dealer CAN be honest with you and still stay in business.

CHP WON'T SEEK MORE PATROLMEN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Highway Patrol Commissioner Walter Pudinski says he will not request the hiring of additional patrolmen to crack down on speeders although growing numbers of motorists are exceeding the 55 mile-an-hour speed limit.

"We're losing our creditibility with the public," Pudinski Tuesday told the Senate Finance Committee, which is reviewing Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed $9.8 billion budget.

But Pudinski said he is not asking the legislature for extra patrolmen at this time because "it's too early" to determine the long-term reaction of the public to the new 55 m.p.h. limit.

The commissioner has ordered his men to stop all motorists who exceed the limit by even 1 m.p.h. He also has urged prosecutors to step up legal action against speeders.

But Pudinski acknowledged that the patrol's efforts have not been able to reduce speeding violations, which he said has resulted in a loss of credibility in the patrol's effectiveness.

The best the CHP can hope for during any eight-hour span currently is for 1,000 patrolmen to be on duty—or about one for every 1,000 miles.

5 teachers answer ad for dancers

DALLAS (UPI) — Twenty-five elementary school teachers have responded to an errorprone ad in the Dallas Times Herald which read:

DANCERS WANTED
Exotic, topless or Go-Go
Make up to $400 a week...
DALLAS INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT

The 25 teachers, calling themselves the "Walnut Hill Bunnies," wrote Superintendent Nolan Estes and told him they would dance for the school system because of the high pay offered.

"As you may have noted," Estes replied, "the requirements for secretaries and clerks in the DISD are somewhat unusual. You should be aware that I am personally handling all interviews in relation to this advertisement.

"I would be pleased to have you come in for a review, or should it be interview...?"

Dinner planned for candidate

CLAREMONT — Rep. James Corman, D-Van Nuys, will be guest speaker at a $25 per person fund raising dinner Friday for the campaign of Jim Lloyd, a Democratic candidate in the 35th Congressional District.

The event will be held at noon in the Hacienda Room at Griswold's Indian Hill Restaurant.

Corman is a ranking member of the House Ways and Means Committee and is chairman of the subcommittee on government procurement and economic concentration.

Four resign

Police scandal rocks small town

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. (UPI) — Bellows Falls is a small New England community nestled in the lower Connecticut River Valley. Its citizens, numbering 3,505 according to the latest census, are mostly blue collar workers.

It's a proud community; the hometown of Gov. Thomas P. Salmon.

But its citizens have been rocked by a scandal in its tiny police department which forced the resignation of its chief and three officers, including the chief's son who was a sergeant on the nine-member force.

The scandal may not be over yet. Sources indicate the state's attorney is investigating the possibility that an organized criminal ring may have been involved in the burglary of the Rockingham Auto Store last October in which the chief's son, Patrick Gray Jr., 26, admitted assisting.

Gray and Gary Quinn, 24, who was fired from the force last November for "sleeping on duty," both entered guilty pleas in Vermont District Court Monday in connection with the burglary, admitting they had prior knowledge of the theft.

Gray's father resigned as chief only hours later, and two other members of the department, Sergeant Neil Corliss and patrolman Ronald Fowlie, resigned Tuesday. Corliss and Fowlie were not involved in any wrongdoing, however.

Bellows Falls village manager Peter La Haise said the resignation of Chief Patrick Gray did not involve any misconduct or involvement in criminal activity but came because it would "be in the best interest of the village to make a fresh start with a new chief.

La Haise said Windham County State's Attorney M. Jerome Diamond was continuing to investigate the incident, including the "level of performance of duties."

World has 455 volcanoes

Total number of known active volcanoes in the world is 455, with an estimated 80 more submarine. The greatest concentration is in Indonesia.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Magi were a priestly caste of ancient Media and Persia who were revered by biblical authors as "wise men." The Magi were reputed to have power over demons, and the term magician to be derived from their name, The World Almanac notes. The Magi believed in the advent of a savior, but also thought that good and evil, as rival dieties, should be worshipped.

Off the coast

Oregon extends fishing jurisdiction 50 miles

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon has extended its jurisdiction over coastal fishing activities to 50 miles offshore despite a warning by its governor that such a limit would be "totally unenforceable."

The law took effect Tuesday when the Senate voted 27-0 to override Gov. Tom McCall's veto of a 1973 bill establishing a 50-mile fisheries conservation zone. The House had overriden the veto 53-6

The measure was initiated by coastal legislators who said foreign fishing fleets were threatening to deplete Oregon's offshore fishing beds.

Protests to federal officials in Washington, D.C., produced little aid for Oregon fishermen, who said their industry was being destroyed. The Coast Guard has only attempted to enforce the ban on foreign fishing within the traditional 12-mile limit.

At the time McCall vetoed the bill he said he was sympathetic to the fishermens' plight, but said only the federal government has the authority to decide how far U.S. jurisdiction will extend offshore.

The act gives the state Fish Commission responsibility for regulating fishing in the 50-mile zone. The Oregon State Police are technically responsible for enforcement of the regulations and apprehending violators.

In anticipation of the override attempt, McCall directed his staff to find out how much it would cost to buy a used destroyer which could be used to enforce the fishing ban. His objective was to demonstrate how expensive and impractical it would be to try to keep foreign fishing boats 50 miles off the Oregon coast.

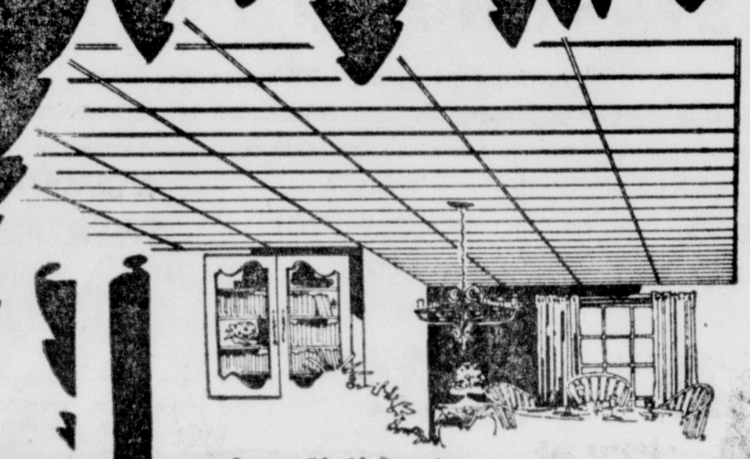

The governor's suggestion prompted humorous references to "McCall's navy."

McCall's staff followed through on his directive and reported back recently that instead of a destroyer, the state should acquire a small flotilla of four 80-foot boats and an airplane if a serious effort is to be made at enforcement of the 50-mile fishing limit.

L.V. plans for Fourth

LA VERNE — The La Verne Chamber of Commerce is determined that it will not be left without a band or bands for its Fourth of July parade this year as it was last year. The board is already making plans for the day, especially the parade.

The City Council is again allotting funds to pay for the fireworks display in the evening. Other special activities are in the planning stages. Local organizations are being asked to consider making plans for the celebration of the Fourth as a hometown event.

Student's mother is guest here

LA VERNE — Mrs. Jan Van Daalen of The Netherlands is a houseguest at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Lowell Brubaker, where her daughter, Carla, is spending this year as an exchange student.

The Brubakers were in the Van Daalen home recently while he was representing La Verne College on a visit to the students in Europe on their Junior year aboard or independent study programs.

Mercury contamination

Dental employes threatened

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California dental industry does not adequately protect its employes from mercury contamination, a state Department of Health report said today.

The report, prepared with $30,000 in funds authorized by the state legislature in 1971 to examine statewide mercury use, concluded that utilization of the deadly silver substance in California was "at its lowest point in modern times."

It also said further reductions could be expected.

"The downward trend is due in part to recent awareness of environmental effects (of mercury) and to effective restrictions by control agencies," said the 127-page study.

But it also pointed out that an industry-by-industry survey of state mercury users showed the dental profession accounted for the largest yearly amount of the deadly poison.

And it added: "The dental industry utilizes insufficient safeguards to protect their employes.

"While proper handling and disposal methods result in no public health hazards, most dentists take no special precautions with respect to preventing contamination of their office government by mercury," it added.

The report also said that dental assistants "who prepare and handle mercury analgams (used in making tooth cements) are at greatest risk from exposure to mercury vapor..."

Dental patients, however, face no risk because the mercury analgams are chemically inert during treatment, the report said.

"From this 5 per cent to 30 per cent may have been lost to the environment.

"Losses are both to the solid waste fraction and to sewerage system. This represents the largest single potential loss within all industries using mercury," it said.

The report also said inspections of California's few mercury mines and mills disclosed insufficient employe safeguards.

Other report conclusions included:

—"Man is not threatened by natural airborne mercury levels or mercury concentration in domestic water supplies."

—"Striped bass weighing over four pounds and striped marlin tend to contain mercury concentrations in excess of the Federal Drug Administration (safe) guideline of .5 parts per million.

—Western Santa Clara County and the San Francisco Bay-San Joaquin Delta are "significant geographical areas of mercury contamination."

2 speakers featured by Press Club

CLAREMONT — Two guest speakers will be featured at the Press Club of Southern California's dinner meeting Friday at Griswold's Indian Hill Restaurant.

A 6:30 p.m. social hour will precede the 7 p.m. dinner.

Dyer Huston of radio station KFI will be a guest speaker. Huston has produced the Lohman and Barkley Show and the Robert Q. Lewis Show for the radio station.

Mimic Ted Krec will also be featured on the evening's program. Krec is a columnist and the city editor of the Orange County Evening News.

City Beautiful Committee planning flower festival

LA VERNE — The Spring Flower Festival in La Verne sponsored by the La Verne City Beautiful Committee will be held in late March or early April depending on when the flowers are blooming the best.

Residents are asked to plant annuals such as calendulas, Iceland and other poppies, pansies, stock and snapdragon very soon, if they are not already in, to beautify their homes and the city.

Recognition of the best display of flowers within a context of good landscaping will be given by the committee in the form of prize gift certificates.

Judges will also be looking for trees and shrubs and plants that have a longer blooming period than just the early spring, indicating the owner's interest in as much continuous bloom as is possible.

Mrs. Betty Riday is chairman of this division of the committee's recognition program.

Engineers find a definition of man

How do you define a "man"? Couple of Los Angeles space engineers, their heads all gummed up with technical jargon, seriously in a paper on weightlessness defined said man as "a nonsymmetrical fluid-filled sack of variable shape containing a large air bubble." Kiss that goodnight, my dear.

Record shows an Englishman was beheaded in 1306. After he was found guilt of burning coal. In violation of the first smoke abatement law. Imposed there in 1273. The environmentalists of the western world just don't have that kind of clout anymore, what?

How an oak tree does it I just don't know. That is, bear as many as 700,000 leaves, yet arrange them in such a manner so they cast relatively little shadow on one another. Remarkable!

Queries from clients

Q. "Wasn't it Lord Chandos who described flattery as 'The food of fools'?"

A. No, Jonathan Swift said that. Lord Chandos said flattery is "the infantry of negotiation."

Q. "What's Redd Foxx's real name?"

A. "Sanford," sir, "John Elroy Sanford."

Q. "How many Mary Smiths in this country?"

A. About 50,000 I'm told.

A lawyer in Indianapolis sometime back asked a criminal court judge there to permit an examination by a psychiatrist of the jury members in a robbery case. Request denied, said the judge, there's no statutory requirement that a juror be sane.

Age 50

The 50s of a woman's life was once described by a cynic as the age of the four F's: Fat, futile, frustrated and finished. Was there a time when that was a reasonable notion? Certainly no more, if ever. By age 50 nowadays, most of the ladies seem to have passed the crisis of their careers. What used to make them wring their hands tends now to make them smile. That couldn't-care-less attitude has quite an appeal, you know. Our Love and War man says it contributes almost as much to feminine attractiveness as does the pantsuit.

Those matrimonial researchers say their studies show only one bride in 100 sets out all the plans by herself for the honeymoon. But 39 out of every 100 grooms assume that prerogative.

The marketing boys now say the typical girl between ages 14 and 17 spends about $300 a year on clothing.

Church solves grocery problem

CHAPIN, Ohio (UPI) — The residents of this small unincorporated community of 150 persons have been without a grocery for three years.

But shortly after the first of the year, the Rev. James Davidson and his congregation at the Salem United Methodist Church decided to do something about it. They are going into the grocery business.

Davidson said the store will hire low-income Chapin residents to operate the store and equipment for the venture has been donated by church groups

Give credit where it's due

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

The American dollar, that great god Americans used to worship, has been revealed in the past year to have feet of clay. It has been "weakened" in the European monetary marts, and "sound as a dollar" is no longer a valid simile.

There is, however, no cause for alarm because we've still got our credit cards. We used to throw card-carriers in jail — now we're a nation of them.

The underlying philosophy of sell-him-now-clip-him-later has been popular for centuries. Egg foo young barons of the Ming Dynasty pursued it (see "tong Wars") and the popularity of time-payments in a Persian Market led Omar the Tentmaker to sigh, "Take the cash and let the credit go."

In England during the Middle Ages, credit cards were known laissez-faire, and in Germany as "der Keingelt," or Papal Bull. The Egyptian pyramids, according to a local archeologist who owes me money, were built on credit, as were many other historical momuments — the Eiffel Tower, Taj Mahal, the Watergate Building.

The freest enterprise in our land of free enterprise finds millions of Americans using BankAmerica, Master Charge, Diner's Club, American Express and Carte Blanche talismans to live like kings — until the end of the month. (King for a month ain't bad.)

Man takes taxi to airport, flashes credit card. Buys ticket with credit card. Arrives, goes to hotel — credit card. Dinner, drinks, floor show, flowers for the third from the left, midnight supper, champagne, lawyer — everything on credit for the average businessman on a typical trip.

One enterprising men used a credit card to establish his own credit card business.

There are credit card clubs for teenagers (Cokes, pizza, cosmetics, Dylan records), for the sub-culture (sandals, wine, marijuana, books by Tokien) and for children — the Kiddie Kredit Kard Klub provides comic books, bubblegum and rides at Disneyland.

As yet, however, in spite of the apparent all-inclusiveness of the system (Big Credit Manager is watching you) there is no credit card business for the typical impecunious businessman like me. I need a credit card that will let me buy a newspaper or a can of tobacco, get a shoeshine, have a cup of coffee, pay a parking fine and buy a beer at the end of a long day. Never mind your world cruises, your hotel suites and lobster dinners — all I want to do is survive.

And oddly enough — hold your hat — I have such a credit card. It is recognized everywhere — almost as good as Diner's Club. It is dirty and rumpled, but it is co-signed by Romona Acosta Banuelos and George P. Schultz — and it works.

It's called money.

If we don't use our heads now, we may freeze our tails later.

The cold fact is, unless we start saving some of our fuel now, we're simply going to run out. So do your part, keep your thermostat between 65 and 68 during the day (60 at night); lower your speed on the highways to at least 50; turn off lights not in use; and get other people to do their share. After all, it's your tail that may freeze.

Don't be fuelish.

Home filled with aloha

Alcoholics can find a good friend in Hawaii

HONOLULU (UPI) — Drunks who haven't any money, job, family or friends haven't lost everything in Hawaii.

Their silent cries for help are answered, not by a rough policeman in a cold cellblock, but in a home filled with aloha.

Nestled by picturesque mountains and lush tropical foliage is the only detoxification unit and residence for chronic alcoholics in one facility in the country.

It was once a home for unwed mothers, but the Salvation Army found the need dwindling with legalized abortion and converted the home into the army's alcoholic treatment facility, with some of the most innovative programs found anywhere.

Dr. Bernice Coleman, chief of alcohol treatment at the Connecticut Mental Health Center and instructor in psychiatry at Yale, was lured to Hawaii when she learned the state was the first to remove public intoxication from the penal code and provide a medical rather than a legal framework for alcoholics.

Before this, some alcoholics would cycle through the jails as many as 200 times a year.

The drunk stumbling off the curb in the islands is no longer hauled away to jail but taken to a hospital where he is often referred to the detoxification center. For the chronic alcoholic, this is often the first step towards rebuilding his life without the bottle. What follows is depression, self-examination and finally hope.

"Man has always used some kind of mind-altering drug to relax, to cope, to face dangers, and alcohol is the oldest," said Dr. Coleman, the facility's medical director.

"I'm not looking for miracle cures," she said. "In fact, I don't expect total abstinence when a resident leaves here.

"The big questions are, 'Is the person able to hold a job, go back to his family and does he manage to make the intervals between drinks longer?'"

The alcoholic's first introduction to the home is the detoxification center where he is sobered up. "It may take four or five days to remove the poison from his system," Dr. Coleman said, "and during that time a therapist will evaluate his needs."

"The important thing at this point is for the alcoholic to see his situation realistically," Dr. Coleman said. For those who have been drinking for years and have lost everything meaningful, voluntarily moving into the residence is usually the wisest step. The occasional drunks and those who have family ties are referred to other out-patient services.

"A facility such as this can teach alternatives to alcohol for coping with feelings of inadequacy," Dr. Coleman said. "It takes a long time and needs the support of long-term treatment."

The alcoholic who moves in, usually for at least six months, spends considerable time in individual and group therapy sessions. "They don't talk about alcoholism per se, but the reasons, such as loneliness, anxiety, depression and the lack of interpersonal relationships," Dr. Coleman said.

"What we try to do is provide new life styles and new goals. We try to find the key to motivation, and the program has to be individualized to do that."

In its 2 ½ years of operation, about 110 individuals have entered the residential program, both men and women. At present, there are 26 residents between the ages of 22 and 68.

"The alcoholic faces a lot of hard work," Dr. Coleman said. "The group therapy sessions can be rough and he has to have the psychological makeup to take it."

"The alcoholic's biggest defense is denial," she said. "Peers can put a lot of pressure on an individual to face up to things."

But there's relaxation, too. The residents share rooms, go camping, play golf, basketball and volleyball. There are discussion groups delving into a wide range of subjects, from politics to drugs. The chores involved in keeping up the home are shared by the residents, and one who comes back from a weekend pass drunk is likely to find himself with the less desirable duties.

"It takes months sometimes for the alcoholic to overcome his initial depression," Dr. Coleman said. "But then he starts looking towards his future. Some start school or work while they're still living here. The alcoholic realizes he does have choices."

"When he goes out with new goals, is able to reestablish himself in the community and the abuse of alcohol is much less, we can talk in terms of success," Dr. Coleman said. Out-patient counselling is encouraged during the first stress-filled months.

The project is funded by a federal grant from the National Institute of Mental Health which provides salaries for therapists, social workers and the administration. The residents' welfare checks, donations and Salvation Army money supply the rest of the funds.

Ireland plans contraception reform bill

DUBLIN (UPI) — The Irish government said that it plans to introduce a bill in parliament to change the Irish Republic's anti-contraception laws.

A government spokesman gave no details of the bill which he said was still in the drafting stage. There was no immediate comment from the Catholic church, which is officially opposed to artificial means of contraception.

The government decision to reform the law followed a recent ruling by the supreme court that the law against the importation of contraceptive devices was unconstitutional.

Under the republic's criminal law, the importation and sale of contraceptives was prohibited. A Dublin housewife, Mrs. Mary McGee, was prosecuted under the law for importing contraceptive devices but successfully appealed her case to the supreme court.

Hawaii gears for metric system

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD

HONOLULU (UPI) — Hawaii is taking the lead in the nation in gearing up for use of the metric system in public schools.

Although metrification baffles many Americans not used to thinking in terms of meter instead of yard or liter instead of quart, educators here hope to have all elementary school grades fully converted to metric measurements by the 1978-79 school year.

By request of the State House of Representatives, a group of University of Hawaii professors is pioneering a school metrification program. Educators throughout the country are watching to see how well it works.

The problems of overcoming reluctance to change and educating teachers in a system totally foreign to them are being faced by Dr. Irvin King, in charge of Hawaii's metrification pilot program.

"We admit we have some problems," King said, "but we're trying to convince as many teachers as possible to participate voluntarily in workshops on the metric system and how to teach it."

King, an associate professor of math education in the College of Education, notes that the United States is one of only a few countries that has not converted to the metric system. Indications are that within 15 years the entire country— schools, industry, highways signs, commercial measurements—will be converted.

Several large corporations already are switching and since the legislative resolution was passed by the state house in 1972, officials in California, Minnesota, Ohio, Maryland and Delaware have announced plans for metrification in their schools.

"Our approach is to develop a program, try it out on the kids, make necessary changes, rewrite it and test it again." King is preparing student booklets and a teacher manual.

When he first tackled the project, King found there were no American mathematics textbooks containing what he felt was an adequate treatment of the metric system. The project team then turned to texts from England, but discovered "they required what we thought was too much daily preparation by the teacher."

So the team started developing its own program. Work started last summer and was tried out on kindergarten through sixth grade students in the University Lab School last semester.

"We got some good in-put from the kids," King said, "and we've made several revisions already."

This semester the program is being taught in kindergarten through third grade at a public school King considers representative of the average elementary school in the islands. All teachers participating in the pilot instruction are attending workshops on how to teach the metric system.

King's metrification timetable calls for all public elementary schools to have the new curriculum in kindergarten through third grade starting in September 1975.

A secondary school program will be prepared once the elementary project is completed and evaluated.

L.A. trip is scheduled by recreation department

LA VERNE — A combination trip to Olvera Street and Farmers Market in Los Angeles has been scheduled for Saturday by the La Verne Recreation Department.

The bus will leave the Alpha Beta Market parking lot at 10 a.m. and is expected to return around 4 p.m. The trip will cost adults $2.50 and children 14 and under, $1.50.

The trip is designed, says recreation director Ray Kaldenbach, to allow persons to shop and eat in the authentic Mexican type village and the more than 160 shops and restaurants at Farmers Market.

Reservations are limited. They should be made at the recreation office at 2071 Third St., or by calling 593-4571.

For Bicentennial celebration

L.V. artists asked for designs

LA VERNE — La Verne artists are being invited to submit designs for a medal in harmony with the theme of the National American Bicentennial celebration.

A $100 savings bond will go to the winner and the runners-up will receive bonds of lesser denominations.

The decision to strike a medal specifically for La Verne was made at the first meeting of the La Verne Bicentennial Committee headed by R. G. Harris, president of the La Verne Chamber of Commerce. Rick Vanderbeck will be assisted by Dr. Noel Shutt and Bob Hoover on the project. Vanderbeck volunteered the $100 savings bond as the owner of the Postal Instant Press Co. of Pomona. It is expected that other businesses will provide $75, $50 and $25 savings bonds for the next three designs.

Specilics about what the committee wishes to see in the design for the medal are now being drawn up. Artists may check with the chamber office about them and any other questions they may have.

Alaska oil line workers to be trained

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan has announced allocation of nearly $3.6 million to Alaska to train its unemployed workers for jobs on the Alaska oil pipeline construction project.

Brennan said Tuesday more federal manpower funds will be provided Alaka in the next fiscal year starting July 1 "to continue meeting the training and placement needs of jobless Alaskans."

While committing the manpower funds to the Alaska Employment Service, Brennan again warned potential job seekers from other states to stay away from Alaska unless they have a written promise of employment. Alaska already has about 10,000 unemployed workers.

"This is because there are still virtually no jobs and the resulting surge of unemployment has caused welfare rolls to expand and unemployment insurance claims to rise rapidly," Brennan said.

Construction of the 800-mile pipeline from the oil fields in northern Alaska to the port of Valdez on the southern coast is expected to begin this winter. Brennan said the 10,000 unemployed workers in Alaska already are "more than enough" to man the pipeline construction project.

Brennan said he allocated the funds after consultations with Alaska Gov. William A. Egan and the state's congressional delegation.

"In addition to training in constructions skills," there will be training in support skills," the labor secretary said. "These include surveying, laundry operation, food services, truck driving, warehosing operations, health care, communications and clerical."

Limited amnesty for draft dodgers--Laird

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says he favors a limited amnesty for Americans who broke the draft laws during the Vietnam war.

"Now for the first time in a long time Americans aren't dying in a war," Laird said. "I think that there can be some sort of service for these people. Whether that service should be in the military or in hospitals or in other areas, and whether it should be for six months or two years, I'm not prepared to say."

Laird, who has announced his intention to leave his post as White House adviser on domestic affairs, told the Madison Capital Times in Washington that he believes Congress would deal with the amnesty question before the 1976 elections.

"We have always felt in this country that justice must be administered with compassion and mercy," he said.

Laird said he had former Army Secretary Robert F. Froehlke work on a secret amnesty plan while both served in the Pentagon, but it was not made public "because we were in a position in which people still were being drafted and people still were dying.'

Froehlke, reached in Stevens Point, Wis., where he is an executive with an insurance company, said he "felt strongly, and I know that Mel did too, that it didn't make any sense to talk (publicly) about amnesty while you were drafting people and kids were being killed.

"We should look at it. Now is the time," Froehlke said.

"Young people make mistakes. We should to the best of our ability forgive and forget. We can't go into this with a vindictive attitude."

Froehlke said he would be willing to back a program requiring as little as "two or three months" of public service for draft law violators and military deserters who want to return to the United States.

Politician stocking Iowa homes with survival food

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Often announced but never successful conservative political candidate Bob Dilley has a new cause these days—stocking up Iowa homes with "survival food" to be consumed in future days of gloom.

Dilley, chairman of the American Independent Party (AIP) in Iowa, says he is selling the "survival food" all over Iowain nutritionally balanced lots of 275 pounds. The Des Moines book cover manufacturer says the dehydrated food is good insurance against the potential disasters of American life including strikes, riots, wars, earthquakes, sickness and floods.

"What will your money be worth if there is no food in the store," asks Dilley, who has run unsuccessfully on the AIP ticket for governor and U.S. senator since 1966.

Dilley said the "survival food" is packed in enameled cans and has a shelf life of 10 to 20 years. It consists of such items as ham granules, tomato crystals and assorted dried grits, fruits and vegetables. He added that the food is a balanced nutritional diet including everything from milk and ice cream to fruits, vegetables and meats.

Dilley says supermarkets only have a three-day supply of food on hand to meet the food requirements of nearly three million hungry Iowans and said in case of a calamity, the stores' stocks of food would run out and panic could run rampant.

4 oil firms bid for oil shale job

DENVER (UPI) — Four major petroleum companies have submitted a bid of $117.7 million to develop oil shale on 5,094 acres of federal land in the rugged mountains of westernColorado.

A consortium of Atlantic Richfield, Ashland Oil, Shell Oil and the Oil Shale Corp. entered the apparent high bid Tuesday to develop the land which is at an altitude of 7,000 feet near Meeker, Colo.

The Interior Department estimates 723 million barrels of oil can be recovered from the Meeker tract at a lower price than Middle East oil.

"We really have more reserves than they do in the Mideast," said a spokexman for colony Development Operation, a shale consortium in the area. "We expect it will take until 1985 to get up to a production of one million barrels of oil a day."

The bidding was the second of six planned bid sessions for oil shale tracts in Colorado, Wyoming and Utah. It is expected to be formally approved by the Interior Department next week.

Last month Gulf Oil and Standard Oil of Indiana offered and had approved a bid of $210 million to develop oil shale near the Meeker tract.

An official of the Colorado Office of Bureau Land Management said the consortium's bid was lower than the Gulf-Standard bid because of the more expensive nature of underground mining operations that will be required for the project. The Gulf Standard shale development plan only calls for surface mining.

Refurbishing San Quentin waste--Post

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post says the 122-year-old San Quentin prison should not be refurbished, describng the facility as "just plain wornout."

Post told the Senate Finance Committee recently that it should not approve a request by Gov. Ronald Reagan to spend $2.5 million for reconditioning the aging structure.

Instead, Post declared the state should move toward constructing a new maximum-security prison.

"San Quentin is just plain worn-out," Post said during a committee review of the governor's proposed $9.8 billion state budget.

The Reagan administration at one time had proposed abandoning San Quentin but scrapped the plans due to the rising prison population.

State Corrections Director Raymond Procunier said $15 million would be needed over four or five years to put San Quentin in shape.

Then, he said, "We will be stuck with San Quentin for another 100 years."

That comment prompted Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton: to say, "We're going to waste $15 million."

The committee took no action on the matter.

For Friday, Feb. 15

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your logic and intuition will be pulling you in two different directions today, making you mistake-prone.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It won't be to your credit if you repeat hearsay information that could be harmful about a friend. Speak no evil.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is not the time to change the goals you have in mind. Lost momentum will be the fruit of indecision.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your work is likely to suffer today because you can't concentrate. Have someone else look over what you're doing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You will be unduly suspicious of someone's motives today. Don't try to read hidden meanings into everything she says.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be sure to remind your mate about something you want done today for the family. If you don't it will slip her mind.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Rather than do what you should be doing today you'll come up with a very elaborate excuse to put it off till later.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be sure to count your change carefully if you shop. Oversights not in your favor are likely in your commercial dealings.

SAGITARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Little disturbances around home today will make you more nervous and edgy than usual. Don't take it out on others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today you're likely to waste too much time worrying about things that haven't yet happened — and probably won't.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A friend of yours who borrows little things and seldom returns them will be asking you for something else today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Toward afternoon self-doubt will creep in to start you questioning your abilities. Dismiss it with positive thoughts.

your birthday Feb. 15

Illegal alien arrests set border record

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Border Patrol officials apprehended a record 156,886 illegal aliens last year, an increase of 62,666 over 1972.

In addition to aliens, Border Patrol Chief Allen L. Gerhardt said that large amounts of marijuana, hashish, heroin, cocaine and pills with a street value of $7.8 million were seized.

Gerhardt said that was nearly a $3 million increase over the previous year.

Australia DDT ban suggested

CANBERRA (UPI) — Recommendations have been made to the Australian government that the use of DDT as a pest controller among crops be phased out over a period of five years in Australia.

Claremont falls in overtime

Ganesha close to title

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Ganesha High's magic number is now one.

That's the number of victories the Giants need to wrap up at least a tie for the San Antonio Leauge basketball title. They moved to within one game of the championship Wednesday afternoon, but did it the hard way.

Trailing by 10 points in the fourth period, the hosting Giants battled back to slip past visiting Claremont and take a 76-74 victory in overtime.

Ganesha's Larry Strickland, a transfer from Cleveland, who really didn't join the Giants until late in the first round of SAL play, connected on a five-foot jump shot with only five seconds left in the overtime period to give the Giants the victory.

Ganesha (10-1) still holds a two-game lead over second-place Montclair with only three games left on the SAL schedule.

Meanwhile, Claremont (6-5) has its back against the wall. The Wolfpack dropped to fourth place in the league standings with the loss to the Giants and must now win at least two of their final three games in order to keep their hopes alive for a CIF post-season playoff berth.

"The play wasn't supposed to go to Larry," said Ganesha coach Gary Fulkerson about the game-winning shot by Strickland. "It was supposed to go underneath to (Broderick) Hunter. But Hunter couldn't get open, so it went to Stickland and he took the shot."

Strickland hesitated at first, but decided to take the jumper instead of trying for the layup. "I didn't think he'd ever get it off," added Fulkerson.

Claremont called time out right after Strickland's only basket of the night, but an overthrown inbounds pass spoiled its chance of tying it up again.

Strickland's bucket overshadowed the heroic shot by center Cleve Porter with five seconds left in regulation time, which threw the game into overtime.

Porter hit the same shot that he scored against Pomona last Friday night to win the game, a 15-foot jumper.

In fact Ganesha had to rely on its All-CIF, 6-foot-5 center all through the fourth quarter.

Trailing, 62-52, midway through the fourth period, Ganesha decided to go to its superstar. Continually taking passes from his high post position, Porter just kept dumping in the turn-around jumpshots he's famous for to put the Giants back into the ball game.

His two free throws with 40 seconds left in the contest pulled Ganesha to within two points of the hot Wolfpack.

Both teams shot well in the first half, with neither team really dominating play. Claremont did hold as much as a three-point lead late in the second period, but Ganesha led for most of the half. The score was tied six times in the first quarter and one more time in the second period.

Ganesha hit 17 of its 33 field goal attempts for 51 per cent in the first half, while Claremont connected on 13 of its 27 attempts for 49 per cent. The Wolfpack shot a blazing 62 per cent from the floor in the first period, but couldn't keep it going.

Claremont took over the lead in the third quarter, still hitting at a 50 per cent clip, and didn't give it up until Porter tied it to throw the game into overtime.

The play of sophomore Rob Fossum was incredible in the fourth period for Claremont. The 6-foot-3 jumping jack scored 13 of his 19 points in the eight-minute segment.

He led all Claremont scorers, but was followed closely behind by junior guard Kent Stalwick with 18.

Porter led the Ganesha attack with 24 points (12 in the fourth quarter), while guard Earl Wilson (15 points) and Hunter (11) also scored in double figures for the Giants.

LOOK AT THAT BASKETBALL

Bruce Abraham (L) of Claremont High and Ralph Dudley of Ganesha take a good look at the basketball in Giants' win.

Valentine describes ordeal

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — Anyone who thinks he had a bad year in 1973 ought to talk to Bobby Valentine.

Most baseball fans are aware that Valentine broke his leg crashing into the fence in pursuit of a Dick Green flyball early in the season.

What they don't know is the traumatic events that followed. Valentine was supposed to play winter ball. He didn't. At one time he was told he'd never play again.

"The doctors in Arizona, orthopedic surgeons, told me I'd never be able to play baseball again. In fact they said I'd never be able to even run again," Valentine related at a special "Valentine Day" Wednesday at Anaheim Stadium.

The fiery young (23) player was a victim of his own determination to get back in playing form as soon as possible.

"I may have overdone it," he admitted. "After the full cast was removed, my leg was perfect. They put on a short, soft leg cast from knee to ankle.

"I wanted to build my leg up and strengthen it as fast as I could. I started lifting weights, walking and jogging on the beach, and playing tennis.

"When I went over to Arizona I found I had a 15-degree angulation (abnormal bend or curve) backward in my leg and a four-degree angulation to the right."

Valentine pushed his chair back and held the right leg up. There was a visible curve, a sort of reverse "C" shape from knee to ankle.

"It's bowed," he grinned, "but frontwards instead of sideways."

That wasn't the last blow. When Bobby got home he discovered the dog he'd had since he was 11 had died. Christmas night he wrecked his parents' car on an icy road in upper New York State. "I had to run a mile in the freezing rain to the nearest farm house and then they wouldn't let me in," he grinned. So I jogged on to another to call the police. Fortunately no one was hurt. But the car was totaled."

A writer asked Valentine what his reaction was when the doctors told him he'd never play baseball again.

"I cried," he said. "I was very emotional. They wanted to re-break the leg. I called Dr. Ball back here in Santa Ana and then flew right back to have him examine it.

"After about 15 minutes Dr. Ball looked up and said, 'you'll play again.' So we worked out a program to bring the leg up to what it is now."

Because of the angulation, movement in the right nakle is restricted 15 degrees to the front.

The young ballplayer has given himself until March 15 to prove that he can still play.

"I'd like to play short if my leg allows me. But it's no ego trip. I feel the club will be strongest with me at short. stop. My leg probably will dictate where I play. If I can't play shortstop, I'll gladly play the outfield, probably left field because if my leg won't let me play short, I don't think I'll be able to play center field either.

"If I can play short," he enthused, "with Ollie (Bob Oliver) at third (Mike) Epstein can do something at first, (Denny) Doyle at second, that's a pennant winning infield."

The ordeal has not dimmed the fire or softened the enthusiasm.

Garey continues surge

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

POMONA — The onrushing Garey High Vikings, defending champions in the San Antonio League, continued their surge of late Wednesday afternoon as Mike Wells' young squad picked up its fourth straight league victory with a 61-44 drubbing of host Pomona.

There is something about coming out of the locker room that frustrates the Red Devils as it took them nearly eight minutes to get warmed up in each half. The only problem was that each eight minute period was represented by what they call the first and third quarters of the game.

Garey jumped off to an early 21-11 advantage after the first period with junior Delbert McDonald tossing in nine points while his teammate at forward, sophomore Gary Carpenter, aided the Viking cause with eight.

The Vikings are a young squad, starting only one senior, and they aren't really accustomed to holding a big lead — so they didn't.

In fact, Pomona closed the gap at halftime to six points, 30-24, and memories of that wild one point Garey victory earlier in the year loomed as a repeat possibility.

But then a strange thing happened to the team with the so-called home court advantage. As coach Ed Taylor summed it up afterwards, "We were worse than cold that third quarter, we were plain frigid."

In that disastrous and determining 480 seconds, Pomona players threw the ball up 21 times and it settled through the nets exactly once. A grand total of two points from the team that earlier set the SAL scoring record with 108 points.

The opposing coaches quite normally saw it differently. According to Wells it was the fine tough defense employed by the Vikings while Taylor simply said that it was poor shooting and not the defense that necessarily shackled his team with its eighth loss in 11 SAL outings.

And like the Certs breath-candy mint couple, they were both right. It was a combination of poor Pomona shooting magnified by the fact that the Garey defense was forcing the Devils farther away from the basket than they normally like to travel.

McDonald and Carpenter led the scoring for Garey with 14 and 12 respectivly, but Wells had praise for his other three starters as well.

"I thought David Larry (seven points) asserted himself very well on the boards and played his fourth good game in a row," said th Garey coach.

"Poncho Thomas (10 points) played an excellent all-around game while Billy Evans (12 points) directed the at tack real well."

Things weren't quite as happy in the Pomona locker after the game as the Devils only had Mike Yarborough reaching double figures with his 17 points.

"It has been a rough week for us," lamented Devil coach Taylor. "Since that disappointing two point loss to Ganesha Friday, the players have been a little down. It definitely took something out of us."

Pomona must rebound quickly, however, as the Devils host Montclair Friday in a game that Taylor says he "wants very much."

At the same time, Garey will try to protect its hold on third place and a possible CIF playoff invitation by traveling to Claremont. A Viking victory would just about wrap up at least a third place finish.

Chicago drops Kings to fifth in NHL chase

BUFFALO (UPI) — The Los Angeles Kings go up against the Buffalo Sabres tonight to try and climb back into playoff contention after losing to the Chicago Black Hawks 4-0 Wednesday night.

The loss, coupled with Atlanta's 3-2 win over Montreal, dropped the Kings into fifth place in the NHL's West Division. Atlanta climbed into third.

The Kings had a four-game winning streak snapped by the Black Hawks as goalie Tony Esposito scored his third shutout in the last five games and his eighth of the season. Chicago extended its winning streak to seven games.

Esposito stopped 42 shots during the game, 19 of them in the third period to thwart all Los Angeles scoring efforts. He earned his 25th win with 15 ties in 51 games spending almost as much time on the ice as he did on his feet.

Chicago got only 24 shots on goalie Rogatien Vachon and only three shots on goal in the final 20 minutes but the Black Hawks scored the winning goals in a span of only 7:47 of the second period.

The first score came while Chicago was short-handed when Pit Martin picked up a rebound near the net and lifted it over Vachon. Less than three minutes later Stan Mikita scored and defenseman Bill White got his third goal of the season, scoring unassisted. Dave Kryskow added his seventh goal.

Esposito on offense, Esposito on defense. Phil and Tony had quite a night Wednesday.

Phil passed the 100-point mark for a record fourth successive season as he added two assists to teammate John Bucyk's hat trick and help the Boston Bruins whip the California Golden Seals 9-6.

In other NHL games, Pittsburgh beat Detroit 5-3, Atlanta moved into third in the West with a 3-2 triumph over Montreal, Philadelphia downed Toronto 3-1 and Vancouver tied Minnesota.

Funseth defends Campbell crown

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rod Funseth opens defense of his Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open title today over the tough Riviera Country Club course against most of the PGA tour's best, including 1974 leading money winner Johnny Miller.

Funseth, a 14-year tour veteran from San Jose, Calif., became one of the longest shots ever to win the event last year. His eight-under-par score of 276 was only one stroke over Ben Hogan's record at Riviera, shot in the 1948 LA Open.

The 40-year-old pro is coming off his best PGA year ever when he ranked 29th on the money winning list with $89,145.

His winning total here last year included a sensational 65 on the third round which provided him with a three-shot victory over Tom Weiskopf, David Graham, Dave Hill and Don Bies.

After six PGA winter tournaments, Funseth has earned $9,205 and ranks 34th in money won.

Miller and Jack Nicklaus are the favorites in the $150,000 Glen Campbell.

Miller, 26, won the first three tournaments of the year and has earned a cool $100,942. His victories came in the Bing Crosby Pro-Am, Phoenix and Tucson.

The 34-year-old Nicklaus ranks fourth in money won with $45,051. He earned $44,000 of that by finishing first in the Hawaiian Open two weeks ago.

Coming out of hibernation for only the second time this winter, pro golf's Golden Bear wound up equalling the late Ted Makalena's course record of 271, 17 under par, at Hawaii.

Weiskopf, who followed Nicklaus to Ohio State, established himself as a superstar last year but still is looking to earn his first money of '74.

The 31-year-old Columbus, Ohio, pro, who won $245,463 to rank third in money won last year, finished out of the money in the Bing Crosby and then failed to make the cut at Phoenix in his only two starts of the year.

Hubert Green, who won last week's Bob Hope Desert Classic, is passing up the LA Open.

The No. 2 money winner of the tour this year—with $48,008 —returned to his native state to sit at the head table at the Alabama Hall of Fame banquet in Birmingham.

Nicklaus' and Hale Irwin's teams fired 13 under par 58s to share first place in the $5,000 pro amateur prelude Wednesday.

The win netted each pro $475.

Tied for third, one shot back of the leaders, were teams led by professionals Ed Sneed and Jerry Heard. Their payoff was $392.

Bill Casper, Ken Venturi and 61-year-old Sam Snead led their teams to a fifth place tie.

McKay suggests stressing importance of team unity

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Southern California football coach John McKay, who has coached teams into the nation's top 10 eight times, says there's more to winning football games than having the best talent.

"A couple of years ago we had a bad season (6-4) and that was simply because we had no unity," McKay told the NCAA media siminary Wednesday. "We tore it down, rebuilt it and the next year were 12-0 and one of the best teams in history with the same players.

"Unity is the most overlooked thing in coaching. Too many people say the only way to win is to get the players.

"Coach Hayes (Woody Hayes of Ohio State) has tremendous unity. His players might not like going to bed early or practicing a lot but in the end result they play because they have unity."

McKay said he agrees with players that don't like drawn out practices. He said his sessions are never longer than 90 minutes.

"I'm not going to stay out there because one guy makes a mistake," he said. "That penalizes everyone. After an hour and a half my guys are bored and I'm bored so nobody is learning anything."

He also said it was time the NCAA dropped the entrance requirements and permit each school to set its own. He suggested each athlete should be required to complete 28 semester hours of academic work a year.

"Of all the cheating going on in colleges the most common is the 1.6 or 2.0 entrance rule," he said. "You're not in control of it as a coach. How do you know when you ask a high school principal for a transcript whether the student has a 1.98 average or a 2.0?"

Maryland downs Tar Heels to give N.C. State help

United Press International

The Atlantic Coast Conference has some of the most bitter rivalries in the nation but Maryland gave North Carolina State a big helping hand Wednesday night.

The Terps all but handed the ACC title to State when they knocked off fourth-ranked North Carolina 91-80. N.C. State, meanwhile, bombed Davidson 105-78 for its 19th victory against a lone loss to No. 1 ranked UCLA.

Tom McMillen, the 6-foot-11 forward who four years ago touched off a controversy when he first announced he was going to North Carolina and then switched suddenly to Maryland, scored 26 points to lead the sixth-ranked Terps to their 16th victory in 20 games. North Carolina is 17-3.

N.C State is unbeaten in conference play and now holds a two-game edge over North Carolina and three over Maryland.

In other action involving ranked teams Wednesday night, No. 12 Providence crushed Holy Cross 105-87, Kansas State upset 14th-ranked Kansas 74-71 and No. 16 South Carolina rallied to defeated Georgia Tech 82-73.

McMillen helped spark an 11-1 surge in the second half after North Carolina had pulled to within three points and that was it for the Tar Heels. Len Elmore had 21 rebounds for Maryland.

Monte Towe, N.C State's 5-7 guard, scored 15 of his 17 points in the first half to ignite the Wolfpack over Davidson. Moe Rivers had a career high 24 points for N.C State while Greg Dunn had 19 for Davidson.

Shikauchi takes Reyes' place

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Yohihiro Shikauchi of Japan will replace Alberto Reyes of Stockton, Calif., as Jose Luis Martin del Campo's foe in Thursday night's main event at the Olympic Auditorium.

Reyes is sidelined with the flu.

Del Campo, who was a highly-rated featherweight until his recent setbacks to Bobby Chacon, brings a 28-4 record into the scheduled 10-round bout.

Shikauchi, making his first appearance in Southern California, is 19-7-1.

Montclair takes big 'stretch win'

By SCOTT POINDEXTER
P-B Correspondent

CHINO — "This has to be our most important victory down the final stretch," so stated Coach Lanny Moore, as his Montclair Cavaliers defeated the Chino Cowboys, 57-52, Wednesday afternoon in San Antonio League action at Chino.

The Cavaliers were led both offensively and defensively by Mark Gosswiller with 24 points and 13 rebounds. Gosswiller had been limited to only eight points in the first half scoring nine in the third period and seven in the final eight minutes.

Montclair had to fight back from an early deficit as the Cowboys jumped out to a 10-2 lead on the shooting of Dirk Story and Tim Smith. Story hit his first three shots from the floor; the first three shots in the game. (He only shot two more shots the entire contest missing both and ended with six points.)

The second quarter found both teams trading baskets.

Chino at Damien, 8 p.m.
Montclair at Pomona, 8 p.m.

Mark Milton came alive for Chino hitting three of four shots, while Mike Medeiros came off the Cavs' bench to put in five points.

In the first half, Chino hit 46 per cent-13 of 29, while Montclair was hitting 39 per cent-13 for 33.

The third period was the down fall of the Cowboys.

After going out to a 32-27 lead, the next time Chino scored, it was Montclair on top 37-34. Tony Esquibel began taking every loose ball and converting it into a Cav basket.

Esquibel had six steals and four assists along with six points as he and Gosswiller turned a close game into a 17-8 point quarter.

Chino made one last bid in the fourth stanza, outscoring the Cavaliers 16-13, mostly on the shooting of Bob Hairston and reserve Hector LaMarque. Hairston hit five of six shots, had two steals and two assists. LaMarque put in six points.

With this victory, Montclair is now 8-3 in SAL competition, still two games behind the Ganesha Giants. Chino's chances for a CIF playoff berth are just about snuffed out, falling below .500 with a 5-6 record.

Friday the Cowboys will travel to Damien to face the last place Spartans while Montclair will go against the Red Devils of Pomona. Both games will start at 8 p.m.

'Olie', DuVall lead Scots by Damien

UPLAND — Stu DeVall and Curt Oldenkamp combined for 57 points Wednesday afternoon to lead Upland to an 83-68 romp over Damien.

DuVall, the No. 8 scorer in the valley (16.9) and No. 4 scorer in the San Antonio League, had a season high 29 points. The 6-5 center is yet to be held under double figures.

Oldenkamp, the No. 1 scorer in the SAL (21.4) and No. 4 in the valley (20.5) added 28 points. Like his teammate, Ollie is yet to be collared for a sub-double figure performance. Orien Ogg chipped in 14 markers.

Damien's Billy Karr kept the Spartans in the game, with 26 points, until the fourth period until the Scots outscored the visitors, 28-18.

Cornell Kasbergen chimed in 15 points for Damien.

"We got off to a real good start," said Upland coach Paul Trautwein, "But got sloppy in the second and third periods and they took advantage. Karr, Pignotti and Kasbergen bombed away from the outside to keep them in the game."

The Scots are 5-6 in SAL play and 14-11 overall while Damien fell to 0-11 and 3-18.

SAL soccer kingpins continue to win big

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

Damien and Chino Highs won their soccer battles Wednesday, thus setting up their showdown for the second spot in the San Antonio League and a probable CIF playoff bid.

Damien downed Webb, 6-1, behind Bart Sullivan's five goals, while Chino got three goals from Juan Gonzalez in beating Montclair 5-1.

The Spartans and Cowboys will square off Friday at Damien High, with both squads holding identical 9-2 loop marks going into the battle.

Claremont continued to roll as the SAL's undefeated leader, the Wolfpack plastering Ganesha 9-0. Gesner DoCarmo had four goals and Jim Van Zee added three more in the Claremont victory over the undermanned Giants.

Damien's Sullivan continued his scoring brilliance, as he now has 36 goals in 11 SAL contests. Ken Mabie had the other Spartan score.

Chino broke open a tight 2-1 game with three second-half goals to win going away over the Cavaliers. In addition to Gonzalez' three scores, Melchor Lopez and Edwin Marquez booted goals for the Cowboys.

Frank Garcia had the only Montclair goal. The Cavaliers are down to a 11-man squad, with the loss of Philbert Gonzales due to injury and Chong Wa Pae due to suspension.

Claremont had little trouble against the flu-stricken Ganesha squad. Kevin Oss played a fine all-around game for the Pack, booting home a goal and accounting for three assists on the afternoon.

In the other SAL game played Wednesday, Pomona escaped the cellar by downing city rival Garey by a 3-2 count. Bill Shagan sparked the win for the Devils. Both Garey and Pomona now hold identical 2-9 league records.

R.O. cagers beat Bonita to stay alive

By TIM CLARK
P-B Correspondent

COVINA — The Royal Oak Romans kept their CIF 2A playoff hopes alive by downing the Bonita Bearcats here Wednesday, 65-60. The game was not nearly as close as the score indicates. The Roman lead was never really threatened, as the closest Bonita could come was five points, at the end of the game when the 'Cats Steve Hines hit at the buzzer.

Royal Oak completely dominated the boards, hauling down 64 rebounds to the Bearcats 40. Center Rick Gitchen led the Roman onslaught, grabbing 18 boards. Teammates Scott Woodland and Bill Berndt helped out with 17 caroms apiece.

Bonita built up a 14-7 lead towards the end of the first quarter, but the Romans regrouped to reel off 12 straight points before the Bearcats' Scott Johnson scored three minutes into the second period.

The Bearcats enjoyed their best third quarter of the year, scoring 19 points, but Royal Oak stayed right with them, scoring 18.

Reserve guard Clyde Christienson kept the Roman spark alive throughout most of the game, providing eight assists, seven boards, and some great playmaking.

H. P. Drake of Bonita wound up as the games leading scorer with 13 points. Drake hit on eight of 21 shots, and made nine of his 14 free throw attempts. Unfortunately for the 'Cats, Drake's points came in spurts, 10 in the first quarter and 12 in the third.

Berndt led the Romans with 19 points, connecting on nine of his 13 shots, and one of his three charity tosses.

Steve Hines and his best game of the year in the Bearcat uniform. Hines scored a season high of 12 points, and passed off for eight assists, raising his averages per game to 5.0 and 5.3 respectively.

Walnut clinches tie for Hacienda League title

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

BALDWIN PARK — Walnut High will be one of the Hacienda League representatives in the CIF basketball 2-A basketball playoffs.

Coach Bill Murray's club clinched at least a tie for the league championship Wednesday as Kirk Christ poured in 31 points to pace Walnut to a 65-50 win over Sierra Vista.

The Mustangs will be making the trek to post-season play for the fifth time in the school's seven-year history and third straight year under Murray's direction.

Entering Wednesday's play, Sierra Vista and Royal Oak both trailed the Mustangs by three games with four to play. While the Dons were losing to Walnut, Royal Oak stayed alive with a 65-60 win over Bonita.

Walnut can clinch the crown, the school's first since Jerry Davis led the team to the title in 1969-70, Friday when it hosts Ontario in an 8 p.m. game.

Christ connected on 13 of 22 field goal attempts and five of nine free throws. The 6-5 All-CIF performer and top scorer in the valley at 23.5 points a game also grabbed eight rebounds, blocked two shots and had three assists and a steal.

In the second quarter the H.L. scoring leader (22.1) had a free throw string of 17 in a row snapped.

In notching their 11th straight Hacienda win (22-2 overall) and 14th straight, dating back to pre-league, the Mustangs withstood two second half Don spurts.

Christ tallied Walnut's first six points in the third quarter to take a 37-24 lead when Sierra Vista's Allen Long, who finished with 12 points all in the second half, hit three straight buckets and Paul McKay added another to cut the deficit to 37-32.

But Christ added four of Walnut's last eight points to keep the hosts down 10 points entering the final eight minutes of play.

Leading 55-42 with six minutes left, the Mustangs started to coast.

S. V. hit three straight baskets to cut the deficit to 55-48, Christ added a free throw and the Dons' Joe Hughes tossed in a two-pointer to make it 57-50 with two minutes to play.

The Mustangs then reeled off eight unanswered points to put the game and a tie for the crown on ice.

Walnut finished the game shooting 49.9 per cent (28 of 57) while the Dons were 46.1 from the field (23 of 49).

The Mustangs' Lance Parrish contributed 13 points, eight caroms, five steals and four assists. Ken Czarnecki came off the bench to add 10 markers and four assists.

APC, USIU meet in 'biggest game'

SAN DIEGO — Azusa Pacific college plays its biggest game of the season tonight vs. US International at UC San Diego's gym.

In an odd disparity in ratings, the Cougars (22-3) are rated the number one team in the district and USIU (19-1) is second. In the National NAIA ratings, USIU is 13th and APC is listed only among, "other schools receiving votes."

Southern Division play, each is 6-0.

"I watched USIU play Whittier and they were devestating," said PAC coach Cliff Hamlow of the 65-44 win. "They don't even try to score and if they do it's accidental. They concentrate on keeping you from scoring."

The game almost shapes up as a battle between the Cougars' super offense (averaging 81.5 points per game) against the Westerners' super defense which is holding opponents to about 56 points per game.

USIU is averaging 66 points per game and APC has held opponents to an average of 68 points per game.

Coach Bill Westphal of Occidental College has faced both teams. The Poets lost to USIU 55-53 at Oxy and 58-53 to PAC at APC.

"USIU doesn't have any offense," said Westphal. "The outcome will depend on how Azusa Pacific's coaching staff and players react to the terrific pressure defense USIU puts on you."

Saints suffer loss to Gladiators, 59-56

SAN DIMAS — San Dimas High, playing with an eight-man team and without the services of its leading scorer Greg McCrary, hit a drought in the third quarter Wednesday afternoon and dropped a 59-56 decision to visiting Gladstone in Hacienda League play.

The Saints, who have lost McCrary for the remainder of the season with an injured knee, were outscored by Gladstone, 25-9, in the third period and couldn't quite make up the difference in the final eight minutes.

San Dimas did lead the Hacienda League cellar-dwellers at halftime, 27-20, and outscored the [illegible]tors, 20-14, in the final period.

Guards Bobby Childress and Jim Johnson and forward Steve Brahs all scored in double figures for the Saints. Johnson and Brahs had 12 points each, while Childress led the club with 15.

San Dimas is now 4-7 in Hacienda League action and will host Sierra Vista Friday night at 8 p.m.

The regularly scheduled game between Ontario and Alta Loma Wednesday was postponed to today because of a conflict with the Hacienda League wrestling finals at Ontario. The game was rescheduled to start today at 3:15 p.m. in the Ontario gymnasium.

Falcons stay alive thanks to MSAC

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

NORWALK — Mt. San Antonio College has not been a lucky team this year. And that was the case again Wednesday night at Cerritos College.

With not much to lose and only a little pride to gain, the Mounties had a 68-67 lead over the Falcons with a minute to play, but blew the game, 70-68, on three free throws in the final 60 seconds by guard Phil Weinburg.

The win kept Cerritos alive in the South Coast Conference basketball race, but only barely. Front running Santa Ana and Orange Coast (7-1) both won, leaving Cerritos (5-3 two games off the pace with two to play.

The Mounties slipped to 8-18 overall and 2-6 in the conference standings.

After losing a three-point lead they had through most of the first half, the Mounties fought back from a 36-32 halftime deficit to tie the score at 43 with four minutes gone in the second half.

Cerritos pulled into five-point leads twice, before MSAC tied it again at 59 with five minutes to play.

The teams exchanged baskets, with Falcon center Al Fruwirth and his Mountie counterpart Gary Nash canning most of the points on short inside jumpers and tips.

Forward Gary Melugin put the Mounties ahead with 2:44 to play, 66-65, and again with 1:01 left, 68-67.

Weinberg, who scored only seven points all night, went to the line to hit on a one-for-one situation to push Cerritos into the lead for good, 69-68, in the final minute.

Melugin had a chance to get the lead back for the Mounties with 23 seconds left, but missed an eight-foot jumper. Weinberg was fouled in the confusion under the basket and went to the line at the other end of the court to make it, 70-68 Cerritos.

MSAC's Nash led all scorers with 26 points and 11 rebounds, and Fruwirth tallied 24 points and grabbed 12 rebounds. Forward Carl Williamson added 9 points as a sub for MSAC, and Randy Small added 17 for the Falcons.

'Hens happy with 62-50 win at 'Tech

PASADENA — Pomona-Pitzer was lucky Wednesday night.

Experimenting with a new defense, the Sagehens were outrebounded, 48-42, and outscored on field goals, 22-21, but managed to defeat Caltech, 62-50 by virtue of making 20 free throws to the Beavers' six.

The win gives the 'Hens a 3-5 conference record and sole possession of fifth place since Claremont-Mudd lost to Occidental, 66-62. Overall the Sagehens are 9-10.

In other SCIAC action, Redlands surprised Whittier, 68-66.

Center Geoff Northrop led Pomona-Pitzer with 24 points. Brandon Boyd chipped in 19 and grabbed 12 rebounds. Boyd, a 6-2 freshman from New York, had a number of his relatives on hand to cheer him.

Next up for the Pomonans is second place Redlands Saturday night at Memorial Gym.

Chuck Knox delighted to name Pitts to staff

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Elijah Pitts, who played in four National Football League championship games as a member of the Green Bay Packers, has signed as an offensive backfield and special teams coach with the Los Angeles Rams.

"I'm pleased to get a man of Elijah's ability and experience," said Rams' Coach Chuck Knox. "He was a winner as a player and he'll be a winner as a coach, too. Not only are we adding an outstanding coach but an outstanding person as well."

Pitts spent 10 of his 11 NFL seasons with the Packers and also played briefly with the Chicago Bears, the Rams and the New Orleans Saints.

Panthers win, near 20th victory

SAN MARCOS — Chaffey College moved closer to its 20th victory of the season Wednesday night with a 77-66 Mission Conference basketball victory over Palomar.

★ ★ ★

Russ Williams, Pierre Rankin and Bob Kovach led the scoring for the Panthers, who notched their 19th victory in 25 games on the season, 11th in 14 in conference play.

Williams scored 18 points, while Rankin and Kovach tallied 17 each as Chaffey pulled into a 21-point lead late in the first half and then held off Palomar's try at a comeback in the final 20 minutes of play.

The Panthers will be idle Saturday night, not returning to action until next Wednesday when they host San Bernardino.

Stags again a little short; Occidental 4-point winner

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — It was a familiar story at Claremont-Mudd Wednesday night.

The Stags came up a little short and dropped a close decision. Occidental, led by all-conference center Paul Zychowski's 18 points and 14 rebounds, held on to beat C-M 66-62.

Good free throw shooting by Oxy combined with a cold-shooting second half by the Stags spelled the difference. While Oxy was sinking 14 of 19 free throws, all in the second half, the Stags made only one of three in the second half and two of four in the game.

Despite a good first half, percentage wise, in which the Stags connected on 17 of 32 field goal attempts, one cold spell made the difference between leading and trailing at the half.

The Stags jumped off to a 6-2 lead at the start of the game on three long jumpers by Dan Dominguez. Then they went cold and Oxy outscored them 16-4 to take and 18-10 lead.

Even so C-M shot a fine 53.1 percent (17 of 32) and came back to trail by only a point, 36-35, at the half.

The second half was quite the opposite. Only 13 of 31 C-M shots went through the hoop. Oxy made only eight 19. But the Tigers had access to the free throw line which they denied the Stags.

"Any number of little things could have swing it our way," said C-M coach Ted Ducey. "We didn't shoot as well as we had Monday against Pomona."

Ducey singled out Dominguez and Lane Burdick for praise. Dominguez had three steals and led the Stags in scoring with 17 points. Burdick came off the bench to score six.

"Dominguez played very well for us," commented Ducey, "and Burdick hustled like hell as he always does."

The Stags now are 2-6 in league play and dropped back to sixth place behind Pomona-Pitzer which defeated Caltech 62-50. Oxy is 5-4.

Coach Bill Westphal surprised by starting freshman forwards Richard Roach (6-8) and Dave Trotter (6-4) and sophomore guard Bob Corral.

"John Zorotovich had his ankle injury complicated by flu and has only practiced once," explained Westphal. "The ball hasn't been going in the hole for us and I haven't been satisfied with the enthusiasm displayed. I think the freshmen rejuvenated our spirit."

Did Foreman tell Ali not to fight Quarry?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Heavyweight champion George Foreman appears to be fighting the best fight of his career so far outside the ring.

In any event, that seemed to be the best explanation for the bizarre developments in the on-again-off-again Muhammad Ali vs. Jerry Quarry.

Ali changed his mind about going through with the bout at least four times Wednesday and then flew off to Chicago, leaving the whole affair up in the air even after he got off the plane.

According to Ali's attorney, Bob Arum, and Garden Boxing President Teddy Brenner, it was a series of determined telephone calls from Foreman, or his representatives, advising Ali that if he went through with the 12-rounder with Quarry, he would not get a title match with the champion.

"It comes down to one thing," said Brenner. "He doesn't want to risk losing a fight with Foreman by fighting Quarry."

Foreman has been accused by some experts of not defending his title often enough, since winning it on a second-round knockout over Joe Frazier, but he looks awful tough when it comes to negotiating.

Anyway, that's what the boxing bunch would have us believe today.

Reed may set scoring mark

Rick Reed of Azusa Pacific slumped a bit but still has a good chance to setting a new high-point average in the P-B scoring derby for four year colleges.

Reed is averaging an even 26 points per game through last week. David Jones of La Verne had the all-time high of 27.8 points per game in 1969.

MSAC sinks Harbor, 49ers beat Broncos

Mt. San Antonio College continued its early-season baseball successes while Cal Poly dropped its third contest in four outings in Wednesday's diamond action.

MSAC dumped L.A. Harbor, 9-7, at the Mounties' home field while the Broncos traveled to Long Beach State and the host 49ers notched a 4-1 win.

The Mounties outlasted Harbor in a wild contest which saw a total of 11 errors committed, six by MSAC. Winning hurler Charlie Fallon worked 8 1-3 innings, striking out 11 Seahawks. Only two of the seven runs Fallon surrendered were earned.

Kevin Bell was the big man on offense for MSAC, banging out three hits in five at-bats, including a triple in the eighth frame which drove home Pat Corcoran with the winning tally.

Ex-Ganesha High ace southpaw Bob Chaulk relieved Fallon in the ninth to pick up the save.

Cal Poly was not so fortunate at Long Beach St. The 49ers lowered the boom on the Broncos in a hurry, as catcher Rod Vanderhook blasted a three-run home run in the first and 49er hurler Gary Beare made the runs stand up the rest of the way.

The Poly run came in the eighth on singles by Dick Parkhouse, Steve Herter, and Paul Kargl.

MSAC swings back into baseball action Saturday, as the Mounties travel to Riverside to play City College at Evans Park at 1 p.m.

Cal Poly will be out of action until Monday, when they host Long Beach in a doubleheader starting at noon. In other college action this weekend, Chaffey will be active in the Casey Stengel Tourney, the Panthers opening against Glendale today at Cerritos JC.

Redlands upsets Whittier, 68-66

WHITTIER (UPI) — Mike Neal made two free throws with 48 seconds to play to give visiting Redlands a 68-66 SCIAC upset basketball victory over Whittier Wednesday night that gave the Poets their first conference loss of the season.

Neal's two points broke a 65-65 tie and Whittier was never able to catch up.

Redlands remained in second place and improved its record to 6-2, while league leader Whittier fell to 7-1.

Chaffey loses bid to catch Pacific in CBL title chase

Chaffey High lost its bid to pull into a tie for first place in the Citrus Belt League Wednesday, while Rowland High handedAzusa the Montview League title Wednesday afternoon.

Chaffey, hoping to pull into a deadlock for first with Pacific in the CBL, dropped a 71-57 decision to the league-leading Pirates and fell into a two-way tie for second place with San Gorgonio.

Meanwhile, Rowland upset the Montview League's second place Baldwin Park Braves, 56-54, and gave Azusa a three-game lead in the standings with only three games remaining in the regular season. Of course Azusa also needed its 64-35 victory over Bassett to clinch at least a tie for the title.

Chaffey played right with Pacific for three quarters, trailing by only three points going into the final eight minutes of play. But then the hosting Pirates turned loose center Greg Bunch. The 6-foot 4 jumping jack potted 26 of his game's 36 points in the second half and paced Pacific to a runaway in the fourth period.

Pacific outscored Chaffey in the final eight minutes, 26-15, and pulled two games ahead of the Tigers and San Gorgonio in the CBL race with the win.

Forward Robert Malave, the Pomona Valley's sixth leading scorer this year with a 19.3 average, dumped in 29 points to pace Rowland to its upset over Baldwin Park.

Malave helped the Raiders jump out to a 34-28 lead by halftime with 15 points.

Salary talks continuing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Salary negotiations involving most of the key members of the Oakland A's will continue into next week when Reggie Jackson, Most Valuable Player in the American League, will take his case into the hearing room.

Jackson has been quoted as saying he thinks he should get $135,000 this season while owner Charlie Finley has been aiming far lower.

Other A's in arbitration include Sal Bando, Joe Rudi, Gene Tenace, Ken Holtzman, Darold Knowles, Rollie Fingers and Ted Kubiak.

Wednesday, the case of infielder Jack Heidemann, called up from Tucson and added to the 1974 As' roster, was heard. Arbitrator Harold S. Block of Los Angeles took his request and Finley's offer and will make a judgment within 72 hours.

Arbitration currently also is being conducted in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

Sports news in brief

RULED INELIGIBLE by the NCAA, UCLA track and football star James McAlister has signed a multi-year contract with the professional International Track Association, McAlister, NCAA long jump champion in 1973, recently signed with the Southern California team in the World Football League.

UNDEFEATED SUGAR RAY SEALES, 148, of Tacoma, Wash. scored his 15th stright pro victory Wednesday night with a unanimous 10-round decision over Angel Robinson Garcia, 148, at Las Vegas. Seales was the only American to win an Olympic boxing gold medal at the 1972 Munich Olympics.

SAMFORD UNIVERSITY of Birmingham, Ala. dropped its intercollegiate football program Wednesday because of increasing costs and decreasing fan interest. Samford fielded football teams for 68 years.

JOSIP KATALINSKI scored a 13th minute goal Wednesday to lead Yugoslavia to a 1-0 victory over Spain and a place in this summer's World Soccer Cup finals in Germany.

THE BALTIMORE COLTS announced Wednesday the hiring of former Iowa head coach Frank Lauterbur and 15-year NFL coaching veteran Jerry Smith as defensive assistant coaches.

MODUS VIVENDI posted the second stakes victory of her young career Wednesday by capturing the featured $46,500 Santa Ynez Stakes at Santa Anita.

ED ASHNAULT, the 37-year-old head basketball coach at William and Mary, resigned Wednesday, citing personal and professional reasons. Assistant George Balanis will assume the head coaching duties until a replacement is named.

INDIANAPOLIS, the nation's 11th largest city, began a campaign Wednesday to land a National Football League franchise.

Silver salmon pass first test

OCEANSIDE — Two hundred silver salmon from Northern California have passed the first test in an experiment to see if they can adapt to Southern California waters.

The fish were flown to the U.S. Marine Corps' Camp Pendleton in San Diego County last Monday from the Department of Fish and Game's Darrah Springs Hatchery near Elk Grove. With an assist from the Marines the fish were released into a floating cage in the Santa Margarita River, about half a mile from the ocean to see if they could adapt to water conditions there.

Five days later department biologist Parke "Bud" Young reported that all but seven of the fish had survived. He attributed loss of the seven fish to stress resulting from the trip from Northern California rather than to water conditions in the Santa Margarita river.

Following the five-day survival test, all but 23 of the silver salmon were released into the river. The remainder were transferred to a floating cage farther downstream to see how they adapted to increased salinity at that point.

No losses were observed during the first 48 hours of this experiment, Young reported.

Young said successful completion of the first phase of the silver salmon experiment clears the way for stocking of up to 100,000 silvers in Southern California this fall or winter. Exact time of the plant will depend on weather and water conditions.

Fish for the fall-winter stocking already have been hatched from eggs purchased by the department from Oregon and are growing to yearling size in the Darrah Springs Hatchery.

Silver salmon normally spend their first year in fresh water and then migrate to sea. Most of them return to their "home" stream to spawn after two years at sea, although some will return after the first year.

Fish planted in the Santa Margarita River will not be able to establish a run since spawning conditions are not suitable. However, they should become available to anglers when they return from the ocean.

Fish and game law violations increase

SACRAMENTO — Fines and arrests for fish and game violations during the 1973 calendar year were significantly greater than the comparable figures for the previous year, the Department of Fish and Game reported today.

Fines totaled $596,296 compared to $523,938 for 1972, and the number of arrests jumped from 15,936 to 18,106. Courts suspended seven hunting and 15 fishing licenses and revoked 12 hunting and five fishing licenses during 1973. The comparable figures for 1972 were 18, 7, 8 and 2, respectively.

Again last year, the number of cases in which the court suspended the entire fine levied against the fish and game violator rose sharply. There were 984 such cases last year, 883 the year before.

The number of cases dismissed (1,026), juvenile cases handled (364) and total days suspended (6,560) far outstripped the figures for the respective categories during the previous year. Jail days served (1,851) was up slightly.

By type of violation, citations for having a loaded gun in an automobile (1,341) again led all hunting citations, and, once more, the bulk of anglers cited (7,713) were written up for fishing without a license. The numbers of citations written for the two offenses during 1972 were 1,217 and 6,124, respectively.

Other leading hunting violations by number of arrests were those involving trespass (661), deer (660), waterfowl (637), litter (367) and hunting without a license (353).

Wardens most frequently cited fishermen for, in addition to having no license, angling with more than one rod (1,452), violations concerning clams and shellfish (1,255), trout (725), striped bass (312) and ocean fishing (304).

In a year in which wardens were alerted to widespread poaching and cattle rustling, they frequently assisted other law enforcement agencies. In all, the DFG listed 630 such cases of assistance involving many different types of criminal law violations, both misdemeanors and felonies.

Sailboat show starts Friday

LONG BEACH — The latest in sail will be on display when the annual Long Beach Sailboat Show opens its doors Friday (Feb. 15) for a 10-day run at the waterfront Long Beach Arena.

Show hours are 5-11 p.m., weekdays; 12-11 p.m., Saturdays, and 12-7 p.m., Sundays. The event will run through Feb. 24.

There will be more than 250 boats, including more than two dozen which will be publicly unveiled for the first time. Craft will range from tiny dingies to luxurious 50-foot crusing yachts.

In addition to all the boats and accessories, there will be several feature attractions. Lecture series are set nightly at 8 p.m. on weeknights and will cover such topics as electronics, fiberglass repair, sailmaking, International Ocean Racing, weather forecasting and racing.

There will be a continuous showing of excellent sailing adventure film. Included are "Love of Sailing", "Hobie Cat Summer", "SEA Goes Barefoot in the Caribbean", "California Islands" and "Australian 18-footers".

Lecture lineup: (all at 8 p.m.)

Sat., Feb. 16—Gary Mull, International Ocean Racing

Mon, Feb. 18—Gordon West, Electronics

Tues., Feb. 19—Bill Keene, Weather Forecasting

Wed., Feb. 20—Joe Hunt, Carl Hedlund, Fiberglass Repair

Thurs., Feb. 21—Stan Miller, Racing: Gary Mull, IOR, (6 p.m.)

Fri., Feb. 22—Dick Deaver, Sailmaking.

Red Chinese leadership in hiding

HONG KONG (UPI) — Premier Chou En-lai and other top Chinese leaders have been much less visible than usual in recent weeks, raising some speculation among diplomatic analysts that high level conferences may be underway in Peking or elsewhere in China.

Provincial leaders of the political bureau (politburo) level also have not appeared in public recently, according to monitors here. The 25-member Politburo, headed by Communist party Chairman Mao Tsteung, is the group that sets major policy and really runs the country.

Some analysts speculate that the Chinese leadership may be deeply involved in preparations for the next phase of a mass political campaign that is sweeping the nation.

These analysts, including some based in Peking, said the leadership also apparently is wrestling with problems connected with convening the long-delayed and often-promised National People's Congress (NPC). Peking-based diplomats said the NPC preparations obviously are "extremely troublesome".

The mass political campaign, which heated up considerably at the end of January, revolves around criticism of the ancient sage Confucius and of Lin Piao, onetime heir apparent to Mao, who died in a 1971 plot against Mao.

This campaign, which actually has been going on for many months, began to intensify after the first of the year. At that time its identifiable targets were broadened to include some Western music (specific "untitled" compositions by Beethoven and Schubert) and a movie filmed in China by the Italian director Michelangelo Antonioni.

Now a new phase appears to be developing with more identifiable domestic targets and establishment of "models" for behavior.

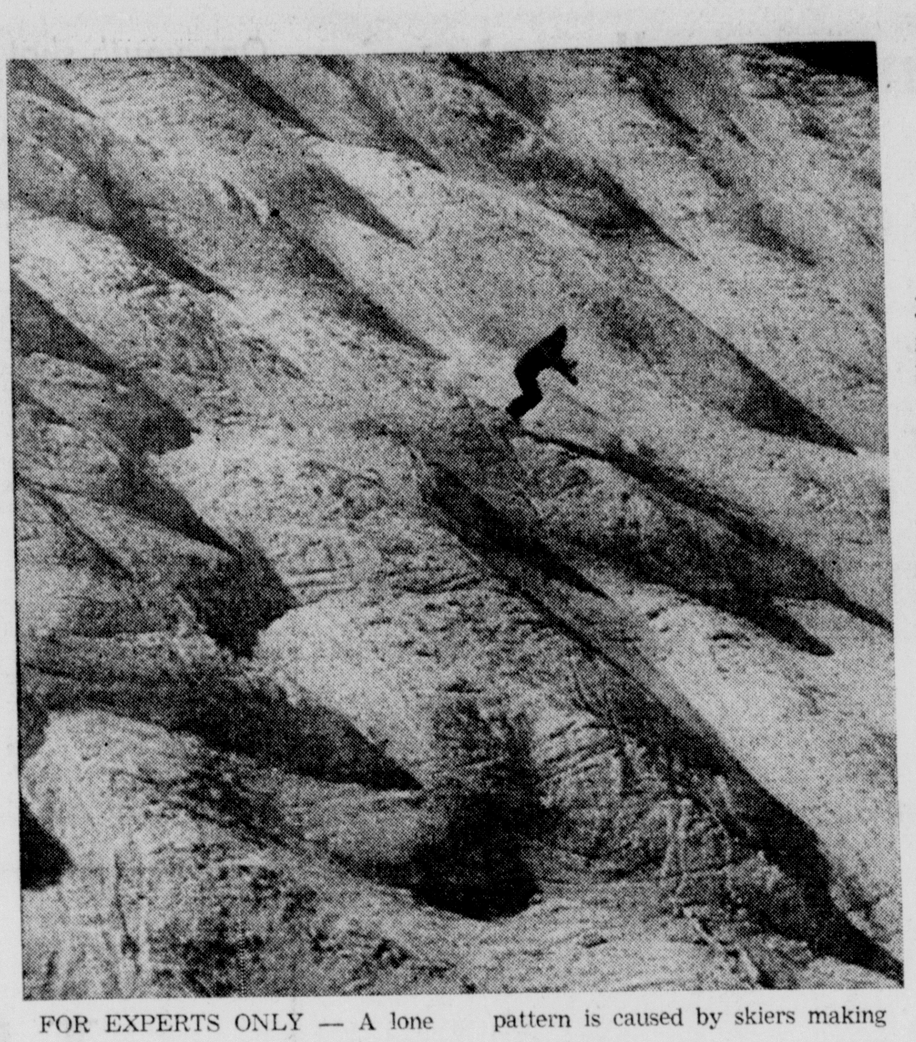

Chou's last appearance was on Jan. 30 when he attended a memorial meeting for Wang Chia-hsiang, a central committee member who died on Jan. 25. Six other Politburo members also attended the meeting.

Only two Politburo members appeared at a memorial meeting held last Saturday for another dead comrade, Chen Po-chun. Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping, a rehabilitated victim of the Cultural Revolution who only recently was reelected to the politburo, and Su Chenhua, a deputy navy commander, were present at that function in memory of an ex-general who once headed the army's higher military academy.

One possible explanation for the low level of public appearances by Chou and other top leaders may be that there have been fewer occasions for such appearances.

However, most analysts are inclined to believe that the main reason is the leadership's preoccupation with political issues.

Chou may surface to receive Thailand's Air Chief Marshal Dawee Chullasapya, who is visiting China until Feb. 15. Although Dawee went to China as president of the Olympic Committee of Thailand, he holds much more important posts, including the defense minister portfolio. But even if Chou does reappear for Dawee, analysts still believe he is up to his neck in political problems connected with the nationwide criticism campaign and the NPC session he promised last August would be held "soonest."

Hot impression for Communism

VALPARAISO, Chile (UPI) — Arsonists set a forest fire in the shape of a monumental hammer and sickle outside this port city, the newspaper El Mercurio reported.

Firemen said the area had been soaked with gasoline before the fire was set creating the Communist party emblem.

California wild blackberry and a red raspberry were crossed to make the loganberry.

Artist paints Civil Rights figures

History born in an inferno

By JAMES V. HEALION

WOODBURY, Conn (UPI) — Portrait painter Robert Templeton carries his easel between the rich and powerful and people such as Roska Parks, the tired black woman who sparked the dream of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Templeton has been using some of the commission money paid him by the famous to finance a painted history of the civil rights movement. He calls the movement the "most positive force for good we have seen in a century."

It is not easy paying his own expenses for the project and he says, "If I can get a grant, fine. If not, I'll do the job myself."

And he makes the comment with the same determination that saw him through the black rage of Detroit's 12th Street in 1967.

Templeton, a white man, was in the exploding ghetto on a magazine assignment, sketching scenes. People would stop, watch and when he was finished, destroy his work.

Despite the ugliness, Templeton saw hope and portrayed it. His montage showed that hope in a girl carrying flowers, as well as three firemen on their knees fighting both a blaze and a powerful waterhose, young looters, and a policeman with a high-powered rifle.

The Detroit experience attracted him to the civil rights movement. Three years later, he began his research for a collection depicting the progress of the movement and Dr. Benjamin Mays of Atlanta, who was King's mentor, insisted it include Rosa Parks.

She was a 42-year-old Montgomery, Ala., seamstress whose feet hurt after a hard day's work that day in 1955 when she boarded a bus and was told by the driver to give up her seat to a white man

Mrs. Parks refused and was arrested. Her plight reached the ears of a local clergyman— Martin Luther King—and it was this incident that provided the impetus for the civil rights movement.

King made it a clarion call and the long march that was to end in Memphis with his death began there in Montgomery with a woman who said, "I was just plain tired and my feet hurt."

King is the focal point of Templeton's collection and in the background is another man of peace, Mahatma Gandhi. Curiously, Templeton has had a hard time finding pictures of Gandhi to reproduce his likeness.

Templeton, 44, works in a studio he built himself next to his restored farmhouse in this picture-postcard town in Western Connecticut where he lives with his German-born wife, Leonora, and their three children.

His skill as a conversationalist helps him induce subjects to sit for him.

Templeton tried twice to induce Ralph McGill, the late editor of the Atlanta Constitution, to sit, and succeeded on the third try when both men reached a common ground. Both their fathers were farmers, and a portrait of Templeton's father—his face lined and his eyes mirroring depression grief—hangs in his home.

He said of former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, whose gift for gab is legendary, "There was no awkward silence, because there was no silence."

The mild-mannered Templeton says children are no problem and sometimes are helpful. Baseball great Stan Musial seemed tense as Templeton worked, but his granddaughter ran into the room, called Musial an endearing name and he relaxed.

Some men find it difficult to sit while another man paints them, he says, and may have a third person just standing by. For the artist, three's a crowd and it creates a distraction.

Joe E Brown, the late comedian, was in the bathtub when Templeton arrived and said, "If you've come to do a water color, you're in the right place."

Templeton has painted portraits of former Connecticut Gov. John N. Dempsey, incumbent Gov. homas J. Meskill and former Lt. Gov. Clark Hull.

Hull spent 90 minutes driving around the countryside trying to screw up enough courage to sit for the painting.

Bradley most popular politician, Cranston poll maintains

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley has emerged as the most popular politician in California and President Nixon is the least well-liked, an opinion poll released by U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston indicated today.

Cranston, a Democrat who plans to seek re-election to a second term, finished second behind Bradley. He was followed by Democratic U.S. Sen. John V. Tunney, Gov. Ronald Reagan and Nixon.

The public opinion poll was conducted for Cranston by pollster Pat Caddell, who performed similar surveys for 1972 Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern.

The sampling surveyed 1,200 to 1,500 registered California voters in late January, a Cranston spokesman said. It cost about $25,000 and was described as a standard statewide poll.

Bradley, who ousted Sam Yorty last May to become the first black mayor of Los Angeles, received a whopping 63 per cent favorable rating in the poll and unfavorable marks from only 5 per cent. Others had no opinion.

Cranston received a 34 per cent favorable rating and an unfavorable rating from 24 per cent. Tunney trailed at 49 per cent favorable, 30 per cent unfavorable; Reagan at 48 per cent favorable, 49 per cent unfavorable; and Nixon at 30 per cent favorable, 67 per cent unfavorable.

Bradley defeated Yorty by a margin of 56.33 per cent of the votes cast May 29 to 43.66 per cent. A city councilman and former police lieutenant, Bradley lost his first bid to unseat Yorty.

In making public the poll results, a Cranston assistant said, "We are pleased. We don't mind being second to Bradley."

Cranston, according to the poll, could easily defeat any Republican challenger. He has no major opposition in the Democratic primary June 4.

To the question, if the U.S. Senate election were held today who would be you choice, those queried picked Cranston by 51 to 14 per cent over state Sen. H.L. Richardson of Arcadia and by 54 to 9 per cent over Earl Brian, former state health and welfare secretary, who announced his candidacy Monday.

Richardson and Brian are the two major announced Republican candidates for the U.S. Senate. The poll also showed Cranston defeated such hypothetical challengers as Reagan, 53 to 35 per cent, former Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch 51 to 27 per cent; Attorney General Evelle J. Younger, 49 to 25 per cent; Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, 52 to 23 per cent; and state Controller Houston I. Flournoy, 53 to 21 per cent.

Reagan, a 1976 presidential contender, is retiring at the end of his current term as governor. Flournoy and Reinecke are announced candidates to succeed Reagan, while Finch has declared himself out of any race and Younger is seeking re-election.

The poll also asked Californians to give a performance rating on Cranston, Reagan, Tunney, and Nixon on all excellent-to-poor scale.

Twelve per cent found Reagan doing an excellent job; 32 per cent good; 33 per cent fair; and 24 per cent poor. Cranston received excellent marks from 9 per cent; good from 40 per cent; fair from 32 per cent; and poor from 9 per cent.

Eight per cent said Tunney was doing an excellent job; 37 per cent good; 38 per cent fair; and 17 per cent poor. Nixon received an excellent rating from 4 per cent; good from 22 per cent fair from 30 per cent; and poor from 44 per cent.

Boys jump off bluff on robber's orders

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — "Jump or I'll kill you," one of two robbers told two terrified 16-year-old boys Tuesday as the four of them stood atop a 100-foot bluff. The boys jumped, but the robber tried to kill them anyway.

The shooting started when the boys landed on a ledge 30 feet below. One of them, Walter Manning of Fairfield, was shot three times but the other, Ronnie Schrader of Glen Oaks, dodged the bullets and suffered only scratches and bruises.

Manning was reported in serious condition at University Hospital.

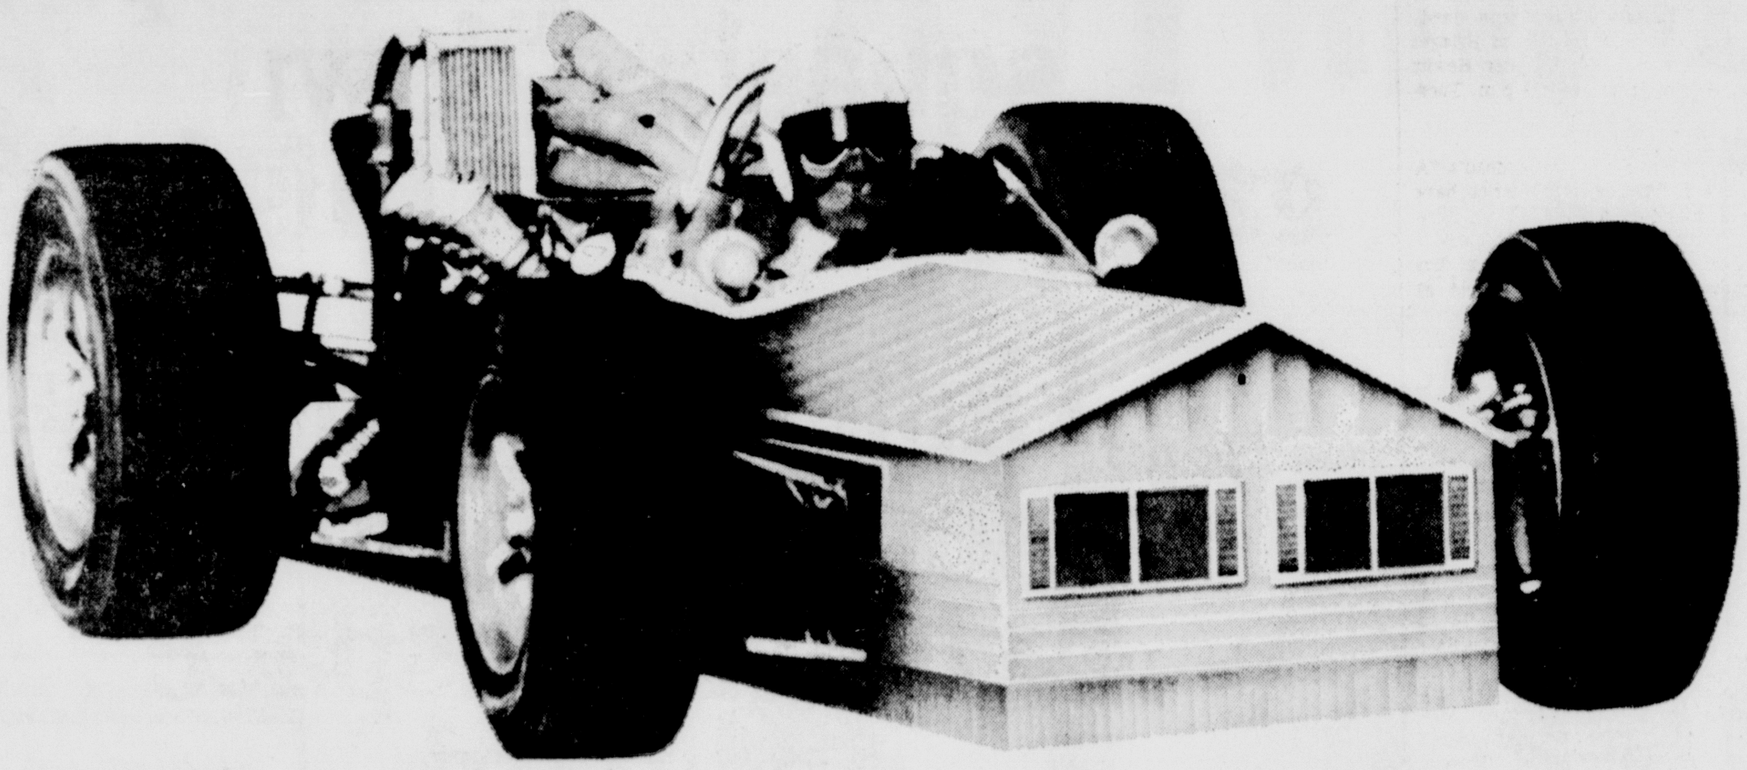

Capt. Dan Jordan of the Jefferson County sheriff's office said the boys told him they were robbed of $80 and their watches by the men, who pulled up in a car as Manning and Schrader were sitting atop the bluff near a road.

"Only a very cruel and sadistic person would make them jump off the bluff and then try to kill them," Jordan said. "It's a terrifying leap. The only thing that saved their lives was the ledge."

Heavy mail was costly

Suits worn by some knights in shining armor weighed 120 pounds, took three years to make, and cost a "fortune" to buy.

MARSHA MASON

Critic likes Marsha Mason for Oscar

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Lots of stars turned out for the screening of "Cinderella Liberty," Mark Rydell's new one, which stars James Caan and Marsha Mason and is a genuinely touching love story. We don't get many of them these days.

Among those in attendance for the screening and dinner I spotted Bruce Dern, Red Buttons, Goldie Hawn, Susan Oliver, Wayne Rogers, Lou Antonio and the stars of the film.

A South American producer was at the screening. He told me one thing he wanted to do while he was in Hollywood was have a word with Goldie Hawn about a picture deal. He was stunned to learn he had been standing behind her in the buffet line—and hadn't even recognized her.

Marsha Mason should get an Academy Award nomination, at the very least, for her portrayal of the girl in "Cinderella Liberty." She's fantastic. This is only her second film—her first was "Blume In Love"—after a long career on the stage in New York and San Francisco.

"I'm not sure I want to be a star," Marsha says. "I think I just want to be a wife she recently married writer Neil Simon). I just know I don't want to go through life alone."

New York Ballet Ensemble

PVCCA announces substitution

ONTARIO — The New York Ballet Ensemble has replaced the Andre Eglevsky Dance Company on the next program of the Pomona Valley Community Concert Association to be held in Spring Auditorium, Chaffey High School at 8:15 p.m. March 7.

The Eglevsky troupe has canceled its West Coast tour, and Columbia Artists Management booked the ballet ensemble in its place.

The company is directed by Thomas Andrew, noted choreographer and ballet director. He has choreographed ballets for the Metropolitan Opera, New York City Opera and Santa Fe Opera. Two of his ballets were created for the Robert Joffrey Ballet and the Harkness Ballet.

The program for the tour will be "An Homage to Anna Pavlova." It will be made up of dances associated with her, including her most famous ballet, "The Dying Swan."

PVCCA will hold its membership drive April 29-May 4 for the 1974-75 season. The last concert of this season, guitarist Christopher Parkening on May 15, will be offered free as a bonus to new members.

Hold agreements have been arranged for next season with the Hungarian Folk Ballet of Budapest and pianist Paul Schenly.

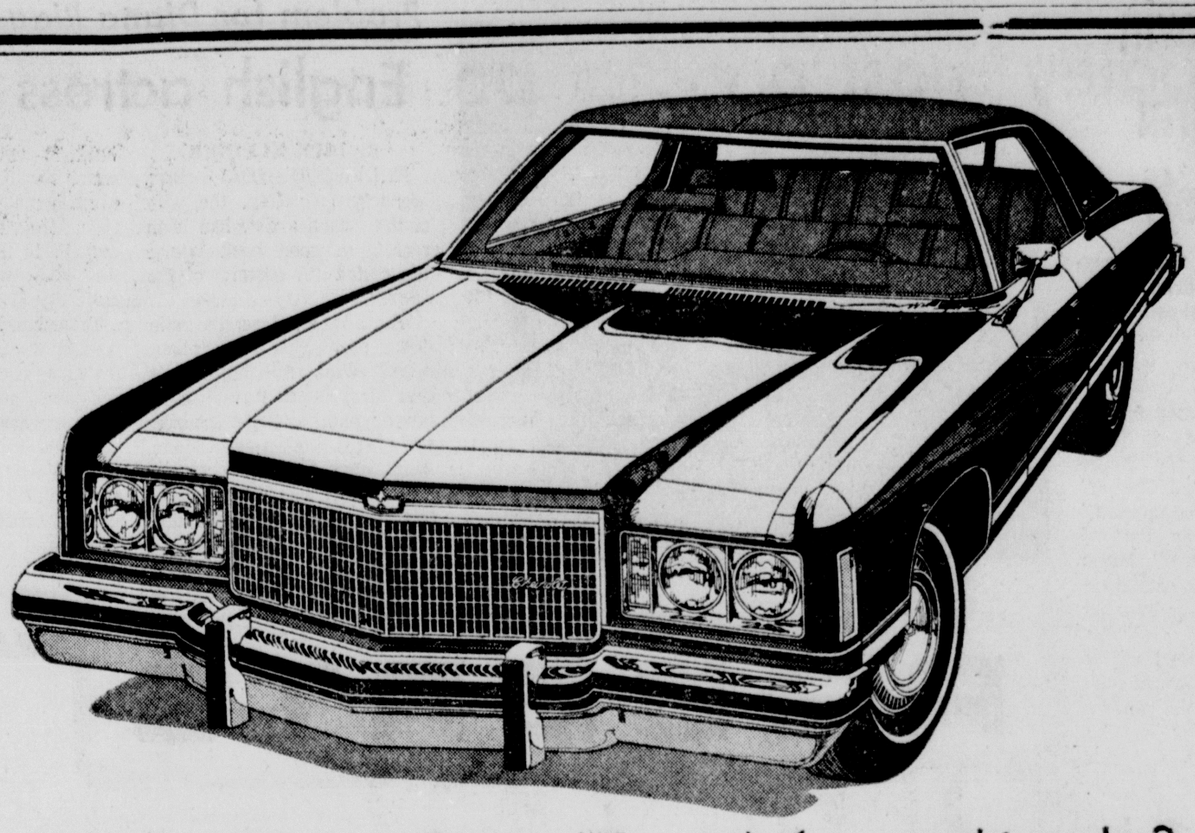

Information on membership can be obtained from Mrs. Stuart J. Brockway, secretary, 926 W. Yale St., Ontario, 986-5789.

Clavichord recital set at Bridges

CLAREMONT — Clavichord artist Joan Benson will present a recital in Thatcher Music Building, Pomona College, at 8:15 tonight. Admission is free.

Miss Benson, a member of the music faculty at Stanford University, has programmed music by Haydn, J. S. Bach, C. P. E. Bach, and a group of Renaissance composers. The music will be played on a tiny 15th Century-type instrument.

Miss Benson began her career as a concert pianist and protege of Edwin Fischer. Her interest soon after turned to the clavichord, which she studied extensively in England, Germany, and Portugal. She has given recitals on antique clavichords at the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, and at the museums of Boston, Brussels, Nuremberg and Berlin. She has presented concerts and lectures at universities across the world.

Oscar Award nominations set Tuesday

HOLLYWOOD — Nominations for the 46th annual awards of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences will be announced at the Academy Theater Tuesday morning.

Active members of each Academy branch have voted to select nominations in their respective fields and have mailed their secret ballots to Price Waterhouse & Co. for tabulating. All active members of the Academy vote for the best picture nominations.

Nominations to be announced include those for acting, art direction, cinematography, costume design, directing, film editing, foreign language film, music, best picture, sound and writing. Already announced were the nominations for documentary and short subjects achievements.

Screenings of nominated films will begin for members Feb. 23 at the theater, and final ballots will be mailed March 16. The vote of the entire membership determines winners.

Winners will receive their Oscars April 2 at the annual Academy Awards presentation. This year's program will again emanate from the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center and will be telecast in color by the NBC Television Network.

Glendale Symphony in concert

LOS ANGELES — Carmen Dragon will conduct the Glendale Symphony in an Italian Night program at the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center at 8:30 p.m. March 9.

Soprano Carole Powell and tenor Chris Lachona will join in the program of popular Italian concert and operatic music.

Selections will include the Love Duet from "Madam Butterfly," "Nessun Dorma" from "Turnadot," "Vissi d'arte" from "Tosca," "Celeste Aida" from "Aida" and "Una voce poco fa" from "The Barber of Seville.

Dragon will conduct the orchestra in the "Semiramide" Overture by Rossini, Respighi's "The Fountains of Rome," "Capriccio Italien" by Tchaikovsky, and his own arrangements of "Funiculi, Funicula" and "Come Back to Sorrento."

2 students to present recital

AZUSA — Beth Johnson of Azusa and Melanie Dubuc of Glendora will present a duo-piano recital in the Horton Choral Room of the Citrus College music building at 1 p.m. Friday. The public is invited.

They will play "Ma Mere Oyoe" (Mother Goose Suite) by Ravel, Debussy's "Petite Suite," Sonata by Poulenc and Satie's "Trois Morceaux en Forme de Poire."

The musicians are students in the ensemble class taught by Frank Magliocco.

DIANNA RIGG

Problem for Diana Rigg

English actress debates: to be or not to be Jewish

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Mrs. Menachem Gueffen, the wife of the Israeli artist, has been reading a good book lately. It's called "A History of the Jews."

What is an Israeli's wife doing reading a book about Jews? Well, the answer is that Mrs. Gueffen is a newlywed, and, to most people, she's still known as Diana Rigg. She's the tall, beautiful English girl who got trapped, this season, into doing a disappointing NBC-TV series called Diana.

Her purpose in reading the book is twofold. First, she wants to find out all she can about her new husband's heritage. And, second, she wonders if, in the book, she can find the answer to the big question: should she convert?

There has been a lot of speculation as to whether or not Diana would convert to Judaism. She says that, as of now, she hasn't yet made up her mind.

"That would be the easiest and simplest thing to do," she says. "Judaism is easy to learn and it would solve things neatly if I did convert. But I'm not sure if I can."

She says she was not brought up in a particularly religious household. Her father did a lot of thinking about religion and, in his later years, came to the serious decision that he was an atheist. Diana went to many different schools, run by different religious orders and was exposed to many faiths. She was enchanted by none.

Still, she says, there are in her to this day those "childhood convictions," such as the divinity of Jesus Christ, which might mitigate against her conversion.

"I am not sure I can overcome those childhood convictions," she says. "Menachem would like me to convert, I think, but I just don't know if can."

She says she is fascinated with Israeli life and with Jewish history and religion. She always has had a home in England but now they hope to establish a base in Israel, too, and divide their time between the two countries.

Even though there is a tremendous gulf between their cultural backgrounds, Diana thinks that is a plus rather than a minus, in their relationship.

"That old thing that you should marry someone with whom you have everything in common," she says, "like two peas in a pod, is very dull. Marriage should be exciting. It's good to have new things to learn."

With them, she says, there is more than merely a cultural difference. There is also a tremendous difference in their personalities.

"I have that English thing," she says. "I don't discuss personal matters in front of strangers. Menachem, on the other hand, is very open about emotional things."

Comedienne at Riverside

RIVERSIDE — Television and nightclub comedienne Lily Tomlin will perform in the gymnasium of UC Riverside at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. Tickets are $3.50.

Miss Tomlin achieved recognition as a mime and comic in nightclubs from coast to coast. She came to wider national fame with her appearances on the TV show, Laugh-In.

JACK ALBERTSON stars with Sam Levene in Neil Simon's comedy, "The Sunshine Boys," playing through March 23 at the Shubert Theater, Los Angeles. They play vaudeville comics called out of retirement for a TV special on show business.

25 students to give recital in Glendora

GLENDORA — Twenty-five piano students will present a Bach and Baroque concert in the Glendora library, 140 S. Glendora Ave., at 2 p.m. Saturday. Admission is free.

The program includes the music of Haydn, Scarlatti and other Baroque composers as well as Bach. The recital is sponsored by the San Gabriel Valley branch of the Music Teachers Association of California as a preliminary to the Southern California Junior Bach Festival to be held at USC next month. Dorothy Horton and Frank Magliocca will judge the local competitions and choose five musicians to go on to USC.

Participating teachers are Susann Patterson, Glendora; Norma Tappy, West Covina; Peggy Bailey, Cordelia Pardee, Sharon Coon and Angela Wilson, all of Covina, and Elesa Lawson, Charter Oak.

A luncheon meeting of the Citrus Belt Chapter, American Society of Women Accountants, and the San Bernardino Chapter of the Business and Professsional Women's Club will be held Tuesday noon at the San Bernardino Elks Club, 466 W. 4th St., San Bernardino.

Chapter members of the accountants group will present a tax panel explaining current changes in federal and state tax laws.

Twins unit schedules potluck

Pomona Valley Mothers of Twins Club is preparing for its annual husband-wife potluck and volleyball night.

The event is scheduled Friday at the First Presbyterian Church, 401 N. Gibbs St., beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Mrs. Howard Wright is program chairman for the evening and Mrs. Charles Tinker will be assisting.

Further information regarding the club may be obtained by calling Mrs. Eddie Lakkees, 593-2021.

MSGR. BARRY

Deanery meeting charted

Speaker for the San Gabriel Valley District Deanery Council of Catholic Women's meeting Monday will be Very Rev. Msgr. William J. Barry.

The meeting will be held at St. Denis Parish, 2151 Diamond Bar Blvd., with registration scheduled at 9:30 a.m.

Msgr. Barry, pastor of Our Lady of Assumption Parish in Claremont, will discuss "Laity and Priests in Partnership."

The women's council of St. Denis church will be hostesses for the luncheon.

Moderator will be the Rev. Timothy J. Crean.

Brief life

The average life of paper money is about 18 months if in steady circulation, says the director of the U.S. Bureau of the Mint. Coins have an average life of 25 years, however, and when damaged they are returned to the Federal Reserve Bank and melted for "recycling."

Ask Dr. Brothers

Role of the parent

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Our son and his wife have become hippies. Neither my husband nor I approve, but we've been silent until recently. Since they have a 3-year-old son, we're concerned as grandparents that the child grow up properly and not be turned into a homosexual or some kind of antisocial delinquent. Half the time, it seems to us, they treat the boy like a girl. They tell him it's all right to cry, and I'm sure if he wanted a doll they'd get it for him. We're both deeply disturbed.—M. L.

Dear M. L.: I think you and your husband are worrying needlessly. "Hippie" is a loose term that can mean almost anything. But if your son and daughter-in-law are happy together and if they're not on drugs, the chances are they will be just as good as parents, as many other more conventional couples, and perhaps, even better.

A study by two researchers from Penn State University revealed that children of hippies were raised in much the same way as children of middle-class parents. One exception was that hippie fathers tended to be with their children more because they worked only when they had to earn money for subsistence. In most cases, this could be very beneficial to the child, as one of the reasons many young people have become so alienated is that their fathers have been strangers to them.

There is also some evidence that hippie families may have a better level of communication with their children that develops from spending more time together as a family.

There is no doubt that the old attitudes about rigid sex-roles have broken down, not only in the hippie culture, but in almost all areas of our life. Most of today's parents are placing much less pressure on children to behave in a rigidly patterned way that meets society's view of what the male and female should be. It is probably much healthier to let children grow up following their own inclination, rather than forcing them into iron-clad roles.

Boys who are told not to cry may grow into men with closed-off emotions. They lose part of their humanity and they're unable to relate properly to others. Men, and boys, must learn to share pain as well as pleasure. The man who doesn't cry keeps the pain within himself and this causes unnecessary suffering. It also probably leads to ulcers and other psychosomatic illnesses.

Tears are not necessarily a sign of weakness. It may be the strong man who is more capable of crying.

Dr. Irving Markowitz, medical director of a child guidance center in New Jersey, feels that the tradition of men not crying may be a factor in our country's high divorce rate.

There are many causes of homosexuality and there are many differing opinions on this subject, but certainly no boy will become a homosexual because he is told it's all right to cry and express his emotions, or because he is allowed to play with a doll.

Keep in touch with your son and his family. Try to respect his life style and view it without prejudice. If you can do this, he may learn to respect your life style and your choices. If you can learn to respect each other, you may find your son and his wife can become your good friends.

Sawdusters plan party on Saturday

The Pomona Sawdusters Square Dance Club has set its Sweetheart Ball on Saturday from 8 to 11 p.m. at Yorba School, 250 W. La Verne Ave.

Howard McCreery will be the caller. This is the club's half-way dance for students.

The club's graduation dance for its student group is scheduled on May 18 at Taylor Hall in Claremont.

HONORED — Mrs. Hugh A. Thatcher, left, received her 25-year pin for service to the Daughters of the American Revolution from Mrs. John J. Champieux, honorary state regent and past reporter general for the DAR to the Smithsonian Institution. Mrs. Thatcher, American Heritage chairman for Claremont, DAR, received pin at recent chapter meeting.

Woman's fulfillment to be lecture topic

Three public lectures, "Women Attaining their Birthright," will be sponsored by the Bahais of Claremont at McAlister Center, Claremont Colleges, Claremont.

On Feb. 19, Dr. Homa Snibbe, clinical psychologist, will discuss "The Fulfillment of Woman: You've Come a Long Way — For What?" Other speakers and their topics are, on Feb. 26, Dr. Amin Banani, professor and director of Islamic Studies at UCLA, "And God Created Woman: The Female as Religious Afterthough" and March 5, Dr. Dorothy Nelson, dean of the USC Law School, "Liberating Women Without Polemics, Self-pity, Fireworks."

MRS. HOMA SNIBBE

Although she is not yet 30 years old, Dr. Snibbe is research and clinical supervisor of psychology interns and research assistants in-service training of Drug Abuse Program counselors at the School of Medicine, UCLA. She received her doctorate and master's degrees in clinical and counseling psychology at the University of Utah and also holds a master's degree in French literature and Middle Eastern Studies.

She speaks Persian, French, Spanish, Arabic and English and served as a senior linquist and course developer for Peace Corps Iran Public Work program.

In addition to extensive research and clinical experiences in Europe, Utah and California, Dr. Snibbe has had numerous papers published in magazines and the press.

The public is welcome to all three lectures without charge.

Bond interest can be costly

By ROGER SPEAR

Q—On October 15, 1973 I bought 10M Ohio Edison 9¼s of 2000. In addition to paying a commission on the purchase I was assessed accrued interest charges, which added substantially to the cost of the purchase. This was totally unexpected and I think you should explain to other novices that this extra expense is part and parcel of buying bonds.—G.D.

A—This subject has been covered in the past but certainly there is no harm in my going over the ground once more. Interest on bonds accrues in the same manner as that on a daily interest bank account, i.e., from the day of deposit to the day of withdrawal.

Thus, when an existing bond issue is bought, the interest due the buyer starts at once and continues until the day the issue is sold. Although most corporations pay interest only twice a year, in your case on the first day of May and November, daily accruals make up the difference.

Most bonds are quoted on an "and interest" basis. Therefore the buyer pays to the seller both the price agreed upon and the interest which has accrued to the seller up to the time the transaction takes place. Your bonds bought in October 1973 had been earning interest since May 1, 1973, the last payment prior to your purchase. However, because the seller actually had owned the bonds for most of the six-month interest period, he is entitled to the interest which had accumulated during those 5½ months.

Since your capital was tied up only from October 15 forward, you should see readily that you would not be entitled to the entire six-month interest payment but in fact only to 16 days' interest.

When filing your 1973 income tax this year, remember to reduce the interest-received figure by the amount paid by you to the previous owner of the bonds.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investors are abandoning the oil and energy-related issues in "one of the most abrupt changes in sentiment in market history," according to E.F. Hutton. The firm says it "suspects that the market may now be overdoing on the downside what it apparently did on the upside in these issues at the beginning of the year." The overall market is edging into an oversold condition, the firm adds, putting it in a stronger position to respond to any fundamental news.

Despite arguments that the market must undergo a final collapse before a new bull market unfolds, recent events suggest a second panic is not in the wings, according to Abraham & Co. The swift drop in shore-term interest rates and the revival of the dollar "should provide fertile ground for improved sentiment," the firm says. "The threat raised by the market's latest setback of a perhaps imminent general collapse to a new 1973-74 bear market low may be more apparent than real," it adds.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

THE LOOK OF WAR — Crying in pain, Dennis Cameron, a journalist and radio springer for the American Broadcasting Co., jumps into water to put out flames on his clothing. Cameron was burned on his legs and arms while covering an artillery attack on the south side of Phnom Penh, Cambodia.

LAUGH A MINUTE — The horse spotted in a barn in Newport News, Va., thinks everything is a big joke. Well, it might be because he never had to buy gasoline — and he may have the last laugh at that. Incidentally, it's not three horses here, just three pictures of the same horse.

Transportation study planned

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — A study of the transportation needs of the Los Angeles Basin through 1990 will be conducted by the Rand Corp. and the Southern California Association of Governments, officials said Wednesday.

The joint study will cost $55,000 and examine proposals for future transportation systems.

Researchers will also trace the impact of a 20 per cent cutback in car usage which was ordered by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Cut your own taxes

Turn stock market losses to tax gains

By RAY DE CRANE

As a general rule it is best to make a stock market gain long-term so that only half the profit is taxed and to make losses short-term in order to make them full deductible.

But most people will have more than one transaction during the course of the year. Some will be short-term, while others will be long-term. What then?

Take your short-term transactions first. Offset losses against gains and arrive at a final net figure.

Now do the same thing with your long-term transactions and arrive at a net figure in that category.

You now have two net figures, one for short-term transactions, the other for long-term dealings. Again offset one against the other.

You now have a single figure which will fall into one of these categories.

1. A net short-term gain. That's bad. It is full taxable.

2. A net short-term loss. This is good for tax purposes. Take $1,000 of the loss as an offset against other income. If any loss still remains, carry it forward to next year.

3. Net long-term gain. This is the best. Only one-half of the gain is added to your other income to be taxed.

4. Net long-term loss. This is the worst possible ending. Such loss dollars are woth only 50 cents each. If the total loss is less than $2000, divide it by two and subtract that amount from other income. If it is more than $2,000, use $2,000 of it to cancel out $1,000 of ordinary income and carry the excess forward to next ear.

Whenever you carry a tax loss forward it retains its original identity as either short-term or long-term and is applied accordingly in future years.

You can get complete details on how to save dollars on your 1973 income tax by following the step-by-step instructions in CUT YOUR OWN TAXES 1974, the book by Roy De Crane that tells all. Send your name, address and zip with check or money order for $1 plus 25 cents for postage and handling to Progress - Bulletin Tax Book, P.O. Box 849, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Legislators find waiting in gas lines frightening

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Even members of Congress have to wait in line for gasoline —and they don't find it any more pleasant than anyone else.

"We in Congress get nervous sometimes as we wait in line because sometimes people notice our congressional license plates, and we become the nearest, most convenient symbols to blame," Rep. Thomas M. Rees, D-Calif., said recently.

People are feeling "mean and depressed," Rees said and there is "an instant hate transfer" from the service station attendant to any congressman who may also be waiting in line to buy gas.

Rees said he recently noticed another congressman waiting in the same line for gasoline, 'so I walked over and rapped on his car window to say hello. He was afraid to lower the window until he recognized me— probably thought I was the hit man from the line's lynch mob."

It's also getting harder to stay out of lines, Rees said.

"Recently I was parked near an empty gas station waiting for my wife who was shopping, and within minutes six cars lined up behind me because they thought I was waiting for gas," he said.

Brown says confidence in lawyers at all-time low

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The parade of lawyers brought before the Senate Watergate Committee to testify about the scandal has caused public confidence in attorneys to fall to an all-time low, Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. said recently.

Brown said at least 10 lawyers appeared as key witnesses before the committee and "in addition, a former attorney general, John Mitchell, was indicted on criminal charges and Vice President Agnew was forced to resign.

"Both of these men were attorneys and their cases, along with the involvement of many other lawyers in the Watergate scandal, have shaken public confidence in the legal profession and brought public respect for attorneys to an all-time low.

"How can those at the bottom of the economic ladder be expected to have respect for the law and the legal profession when those at the top flagrantly abuse and violate it."

Brown, who is running for the Democratic nomination for governor, also told a group of lawyers supporting his candidacy that the lack of public confidence could affect the number of persons willing to go into government service.

"If lawyers are now viewed as villains, willing to corrupt the political process for their own personal ends," Brown said, "I fear that government will lose the talents of many dedicated men and women.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE
APPLICATION FOR WASTE DISCHARGE REQUIREMENTS
(National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System Permit)
FOR COUNTY SANITATION DISTRICTS OF LOS ANGLES COUNTY
(POMONA WATER RENOVATION PLANT—DISTRICT NO. 21)

County Sanitation Districts of Los Angeles County, 2020 Beverly Boulevard, California 90057, has filed a Report of Waste Discharge and applied for requirements for the discharge of wastes into San Jose Creek at a point near where the Creek crosses Valley Boulevard or into South San Jose Creek at a point adjacent to the Pomona Water Renovation Plant (PWRP), 295 South Roselawn Avenue, Pomona. These water-courses are navigable waterways or tributaries thereto.

The PWRP treats domestic and industrial wastes from the District 21 service area, comprising portions of the Pomona, La Verne, Claremont, Walnut, and City of Industry areas.

In addition to the two points of waste discharge mentioned above the reclaimed wastewater may be delivered for reuse at two reclaimed water lines, Northside Irrigation Company and City of Pomona Water Department. The reclaimed water may be used for landscape and agricultural irrigation, for industrial use, for recreation, and for groundwater recharge.

The present average volume of wastes treated at the plant is 8.1 million gallons per day; design flow is 9.6 million gallons per day.

On the basis of preliminary staff review and application of lawful standards and regulations, the California Regional Water Quality Control Board, Los Angeles Region, tentatively proposes to issue waste discharge requirements including effluent limitations and speicial conditions, at a public hearing to be held on March 18, 1974, in Room 1138, 107 South Broadway, Los Angeles. Persons wishing to comment upon or object to the tentative discharge requirements are invited to submit same in writing to the above address no later than March 17, 1974. All comments or objections received prior to that date will be considered in the formulation of final determinations regarding the waste discharge. If no objections are received, the Regional Board will issue discharge requirements.

The Report of Waste Discharge, related documents, fact sheets, comments received, and other information are on file and may be inspected at 107 South Broadway, Room 4027, Los Angeles, between 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. Arrangements for copies may be made.
